Since we were born men have conspired to fashion a time called peaceful. Their time of peace has been characterized by:

Vietnam
Ussuri River
Laos
Algeria
Chicago
Tibet
Belgian Congo
Cuba
Detroit
Newark
Nigeria
Korea
Berlin
Hungary
Crete
Selma
Lebanon
San Salvador
Israel
Honduras
Syria
Cyprus
Suez
Dallas
Angola
Londonderry
Goa
Czechoslovakia
Nepal

Our history has been written in terms of battles– their strategies, their results, their heroes, their victims. Man has wasted his Man-ness on schemes based on greed and self-esteem. The resulting balance of terror has raped a once beautiful world.

Now men have grown tired of their insane behavior. People clamor for an end to a war. The Liberals weep for peace. The Conservatives rage for it.

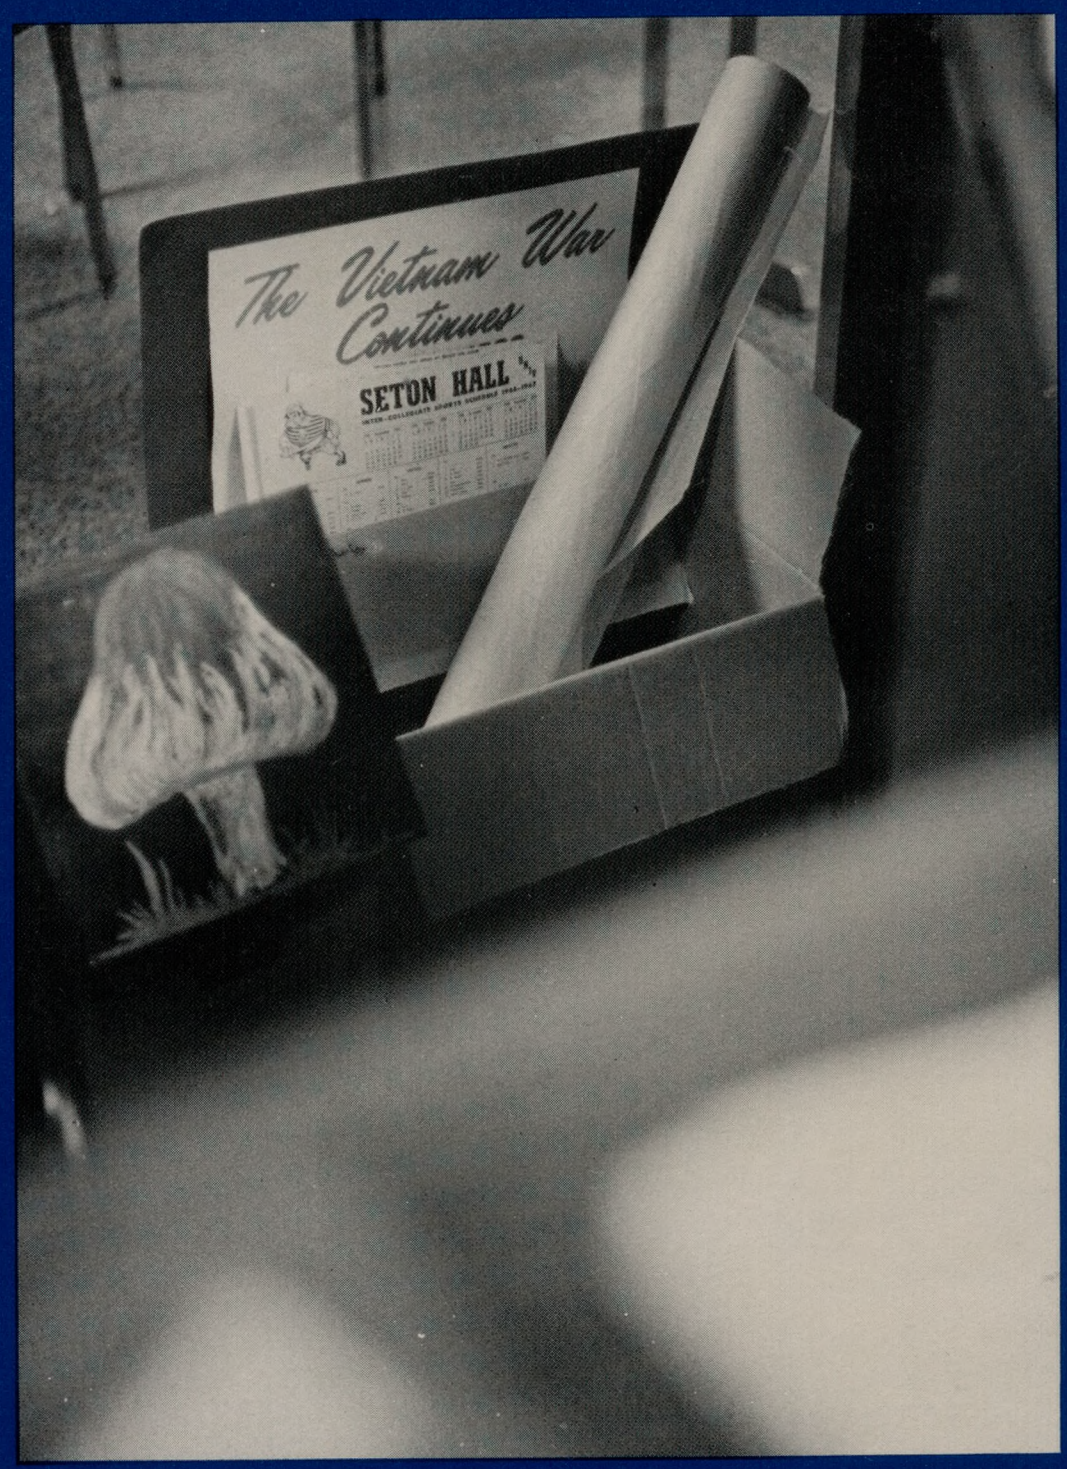

Protesting students have incurred the wrath of an "older and wiser" generation. The protesters are called Unshaven, Communist, Irreligious, Dirty.

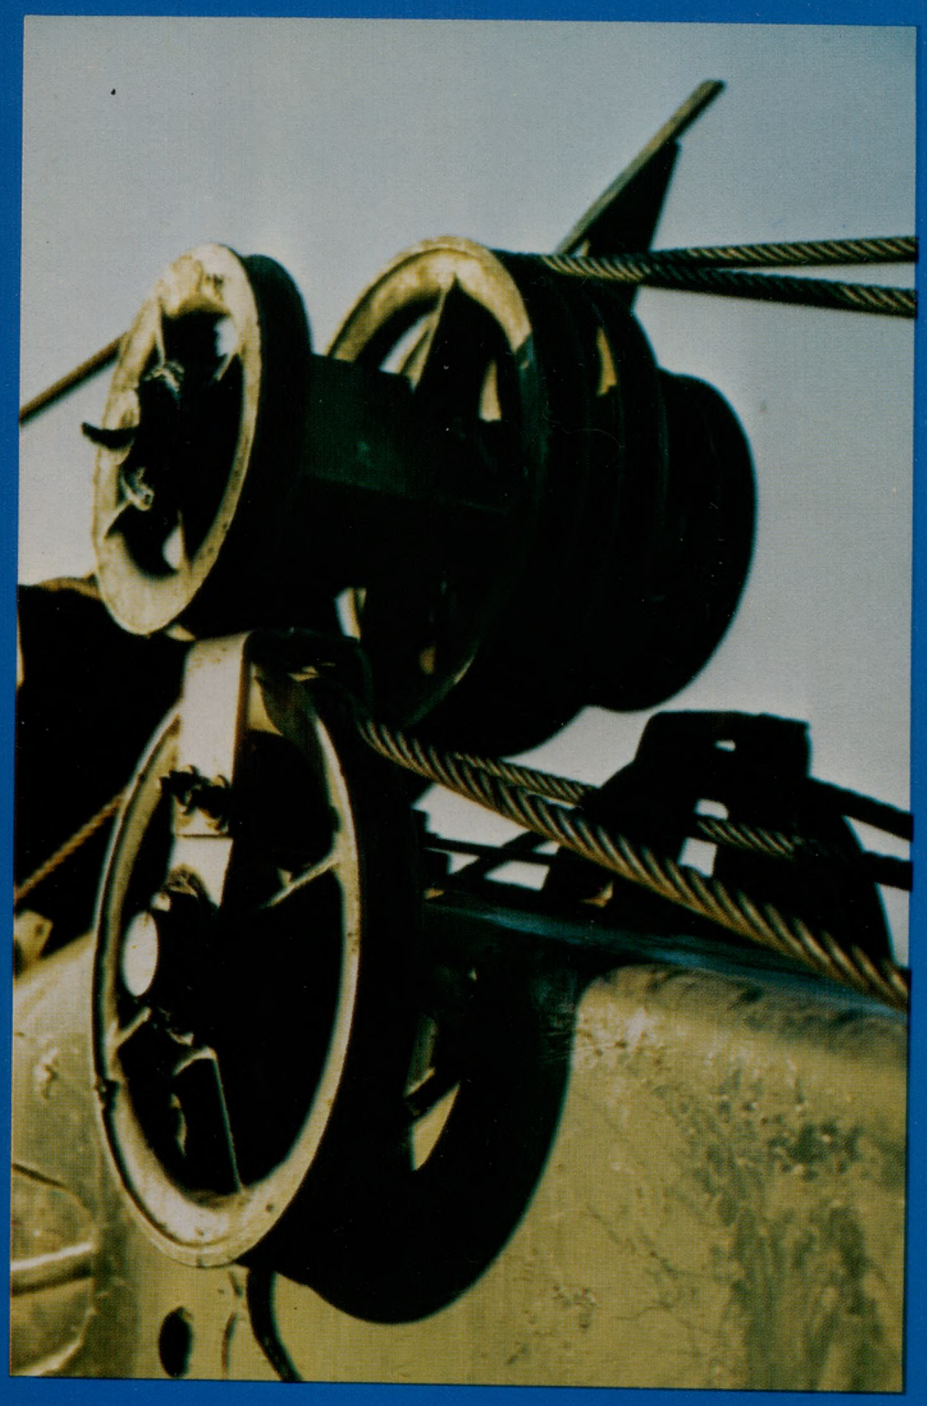

Just what has that got to do with the protest? The silence of everyone else has not accomplished anything anywhere.

Complacence towards an acknowledged wrong is not a fitting response from the human spirit.

That human spirit has an urge to build. Man can make things under the most threatening circumstances. Instinctively he moves to overcome an oppressive situation.

Yet the creative flame which wells up from within is much more satisfying than the response to the flames which threaten from without.

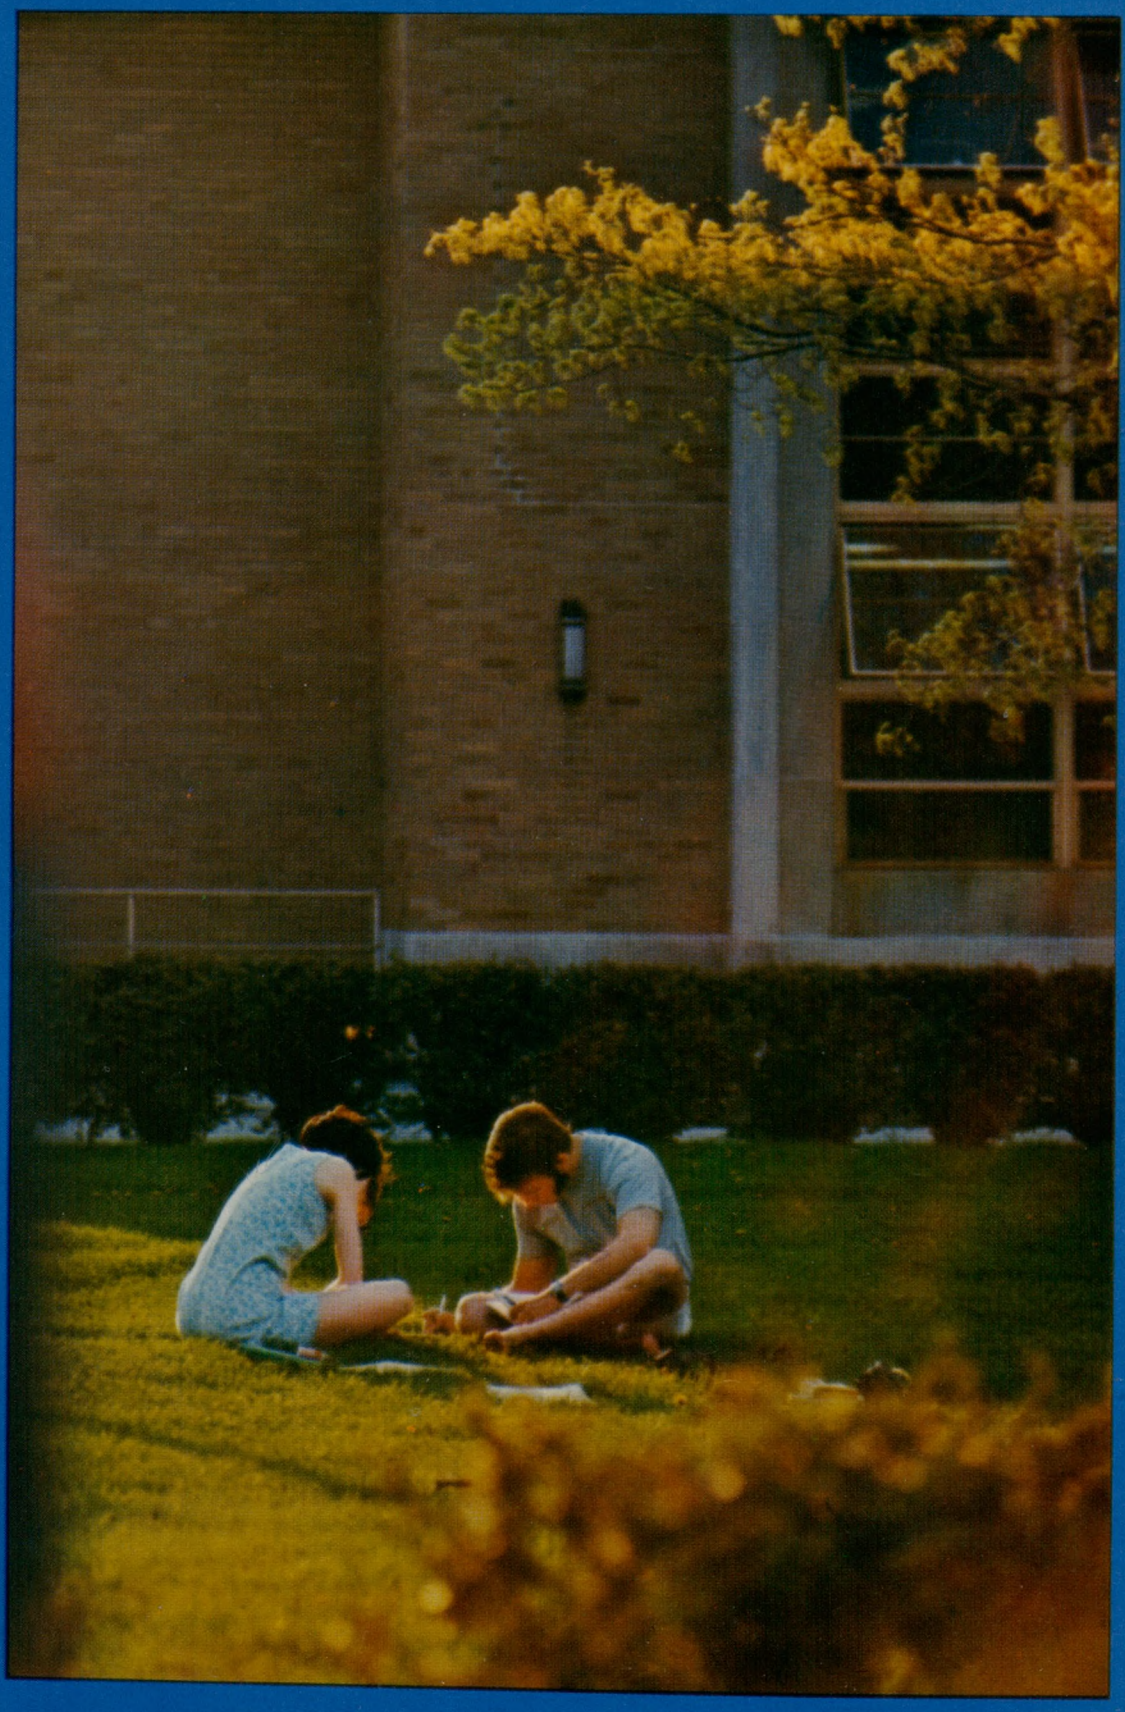

On occasion we are able to drive back the worldly pressures; the strength of two is not easily broken. The threats from the outside having been deferred, the barriers between us dissolve in the face of honesty and a shared experience. Attuned to each other, we find joy in becoming as one.

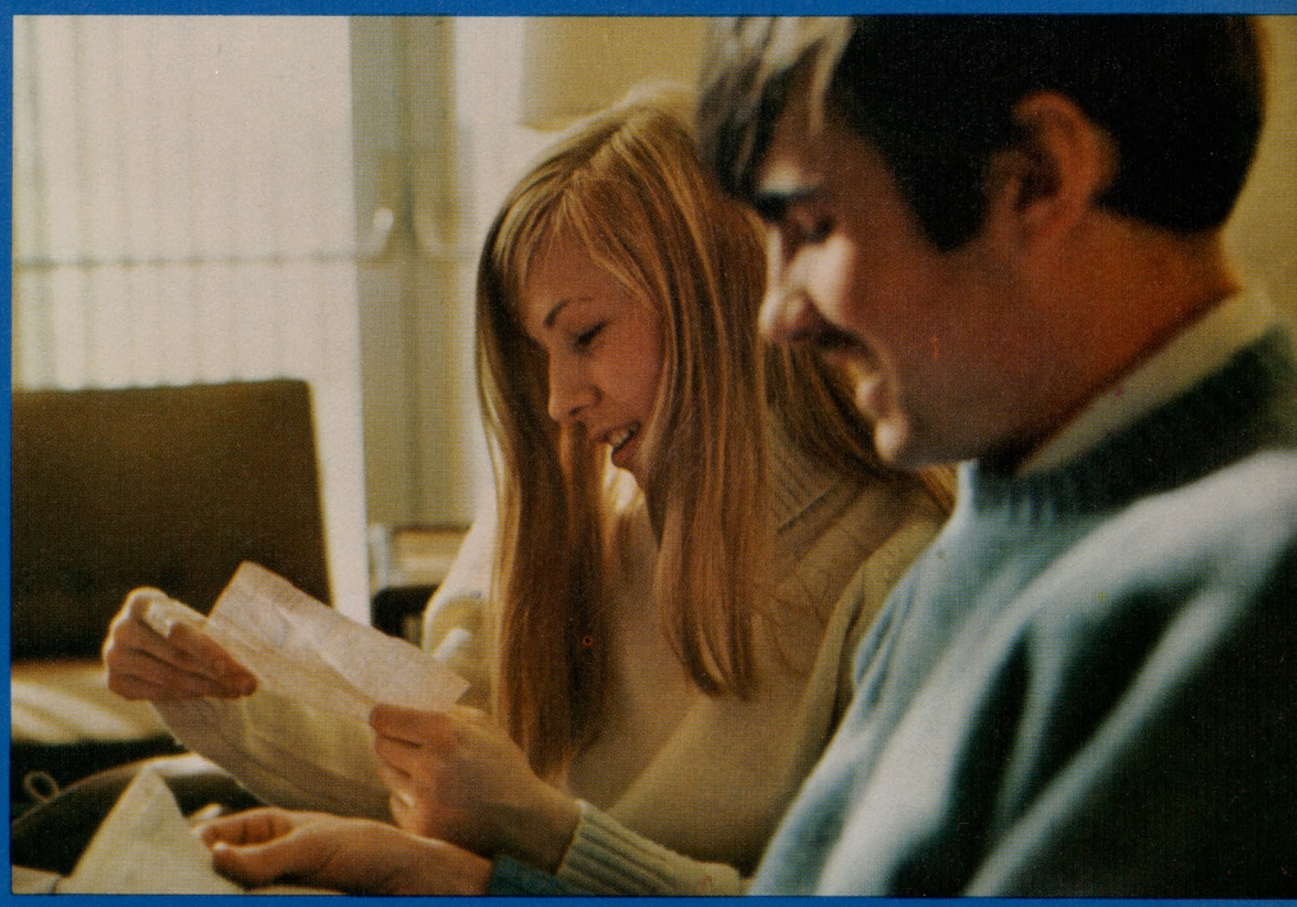

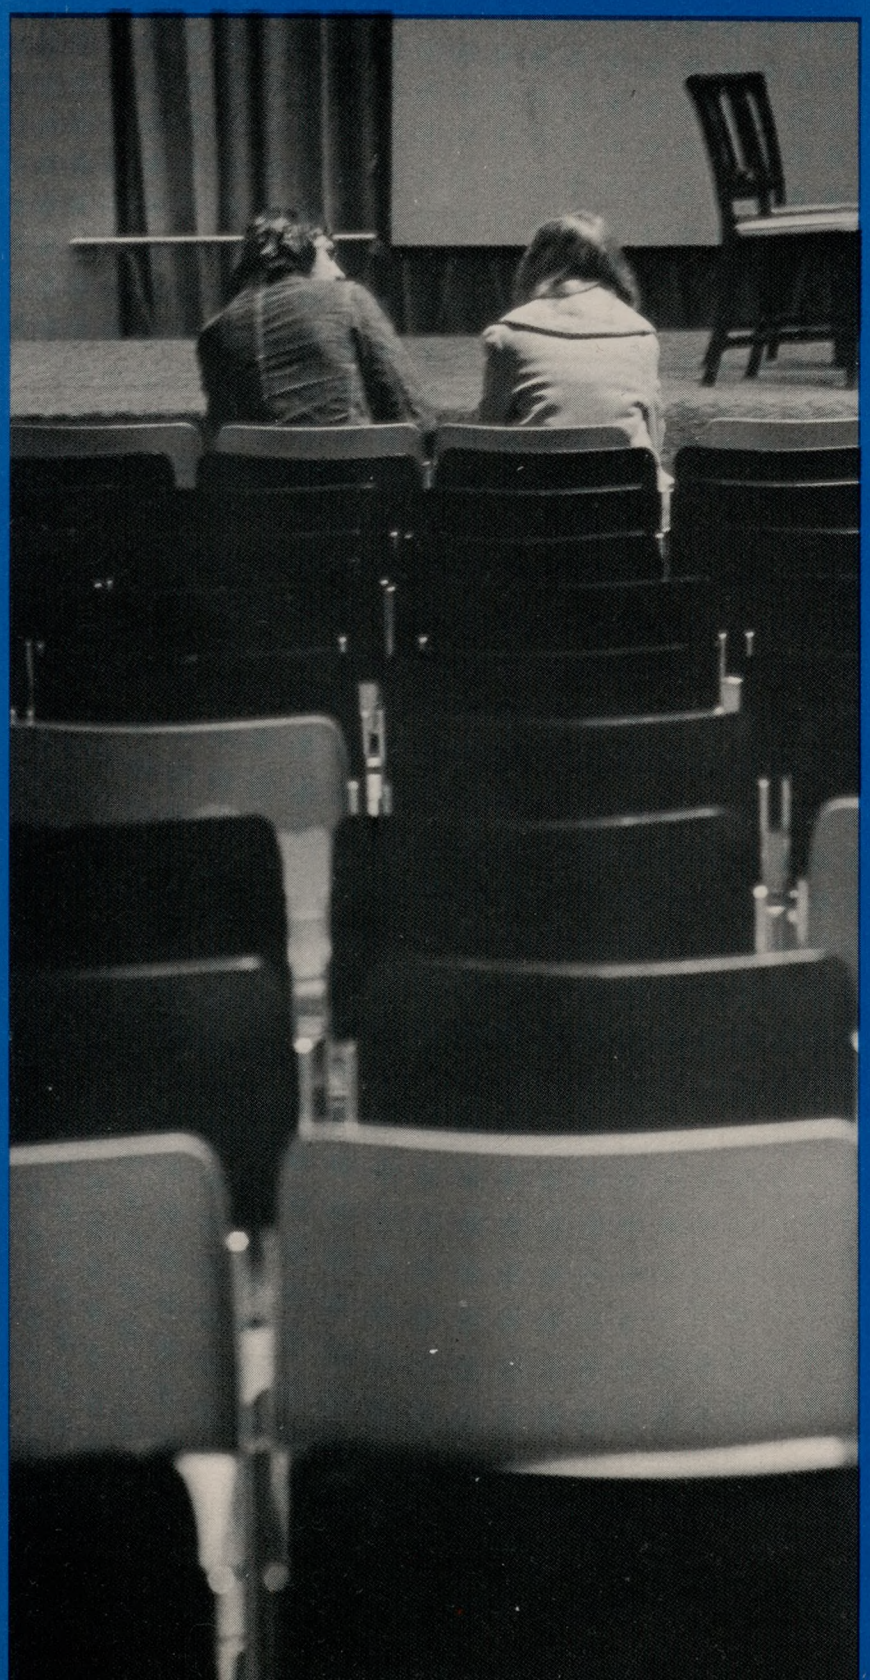

This basic contact of one with one stands as a model and foundation for the larger, more complex, more brittle relationships that make up the world.

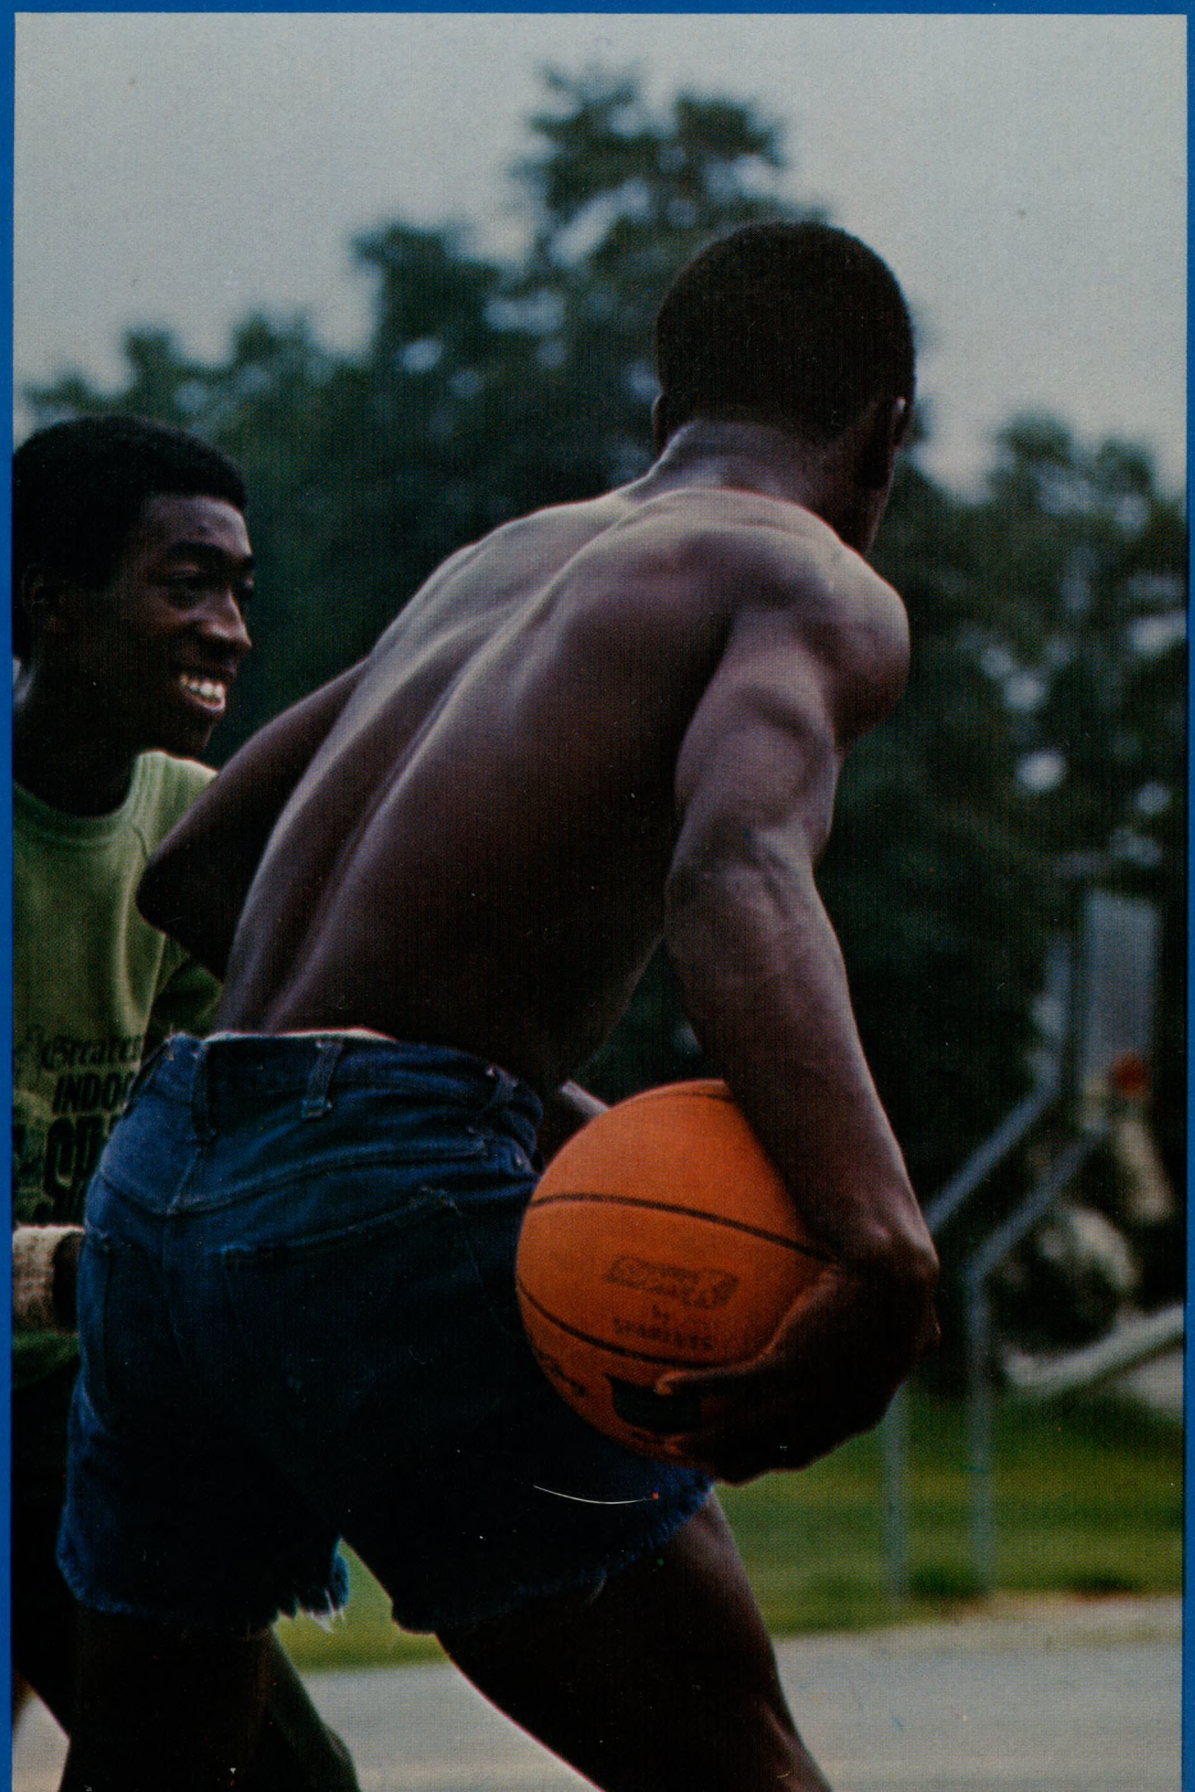

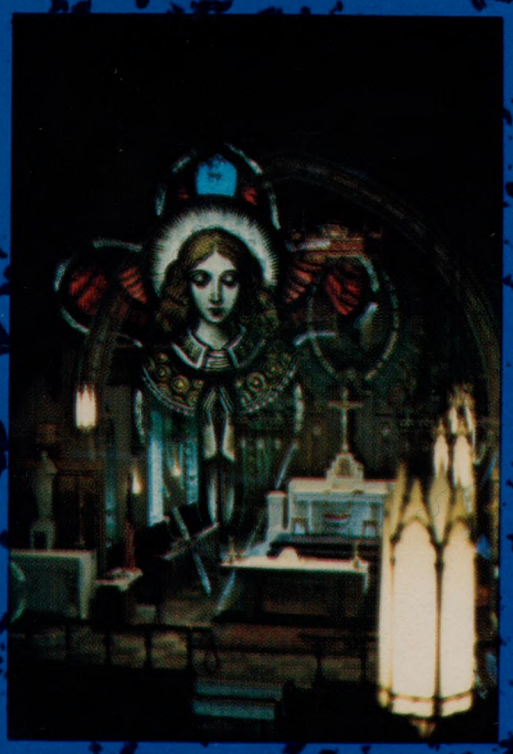

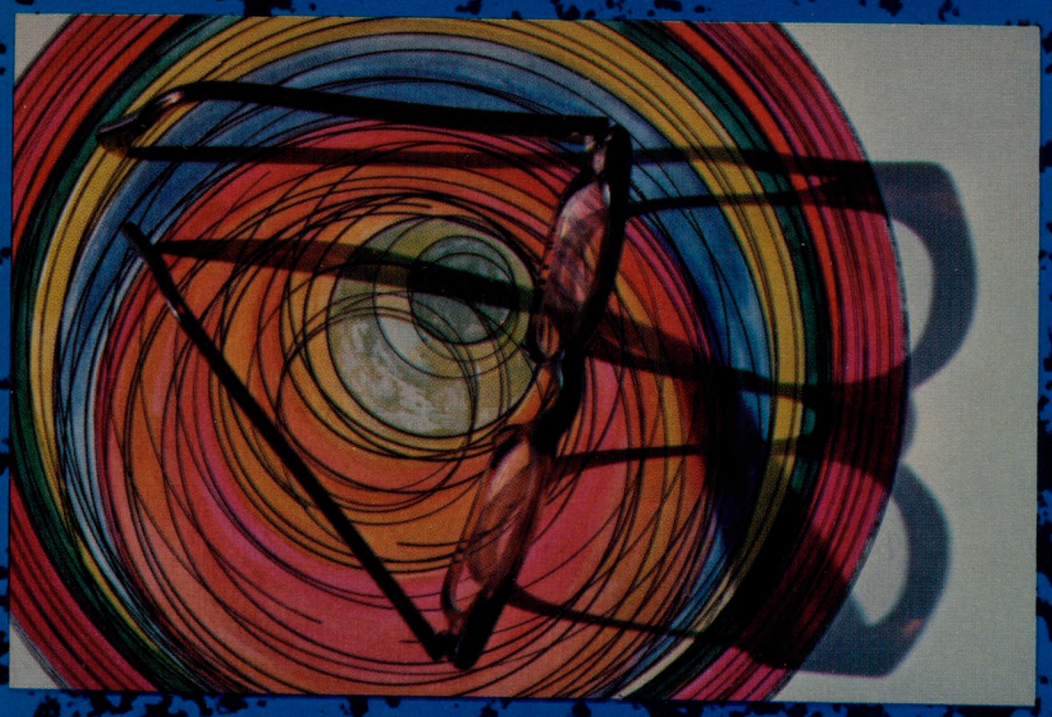

That world makes "alone" an experience we have little practice in. Wrapped in our mad dashes from here to nowhere and back again, we are pressed on all sides by clocks that will not stop and shattered at every turn by shrieking noisemakers.

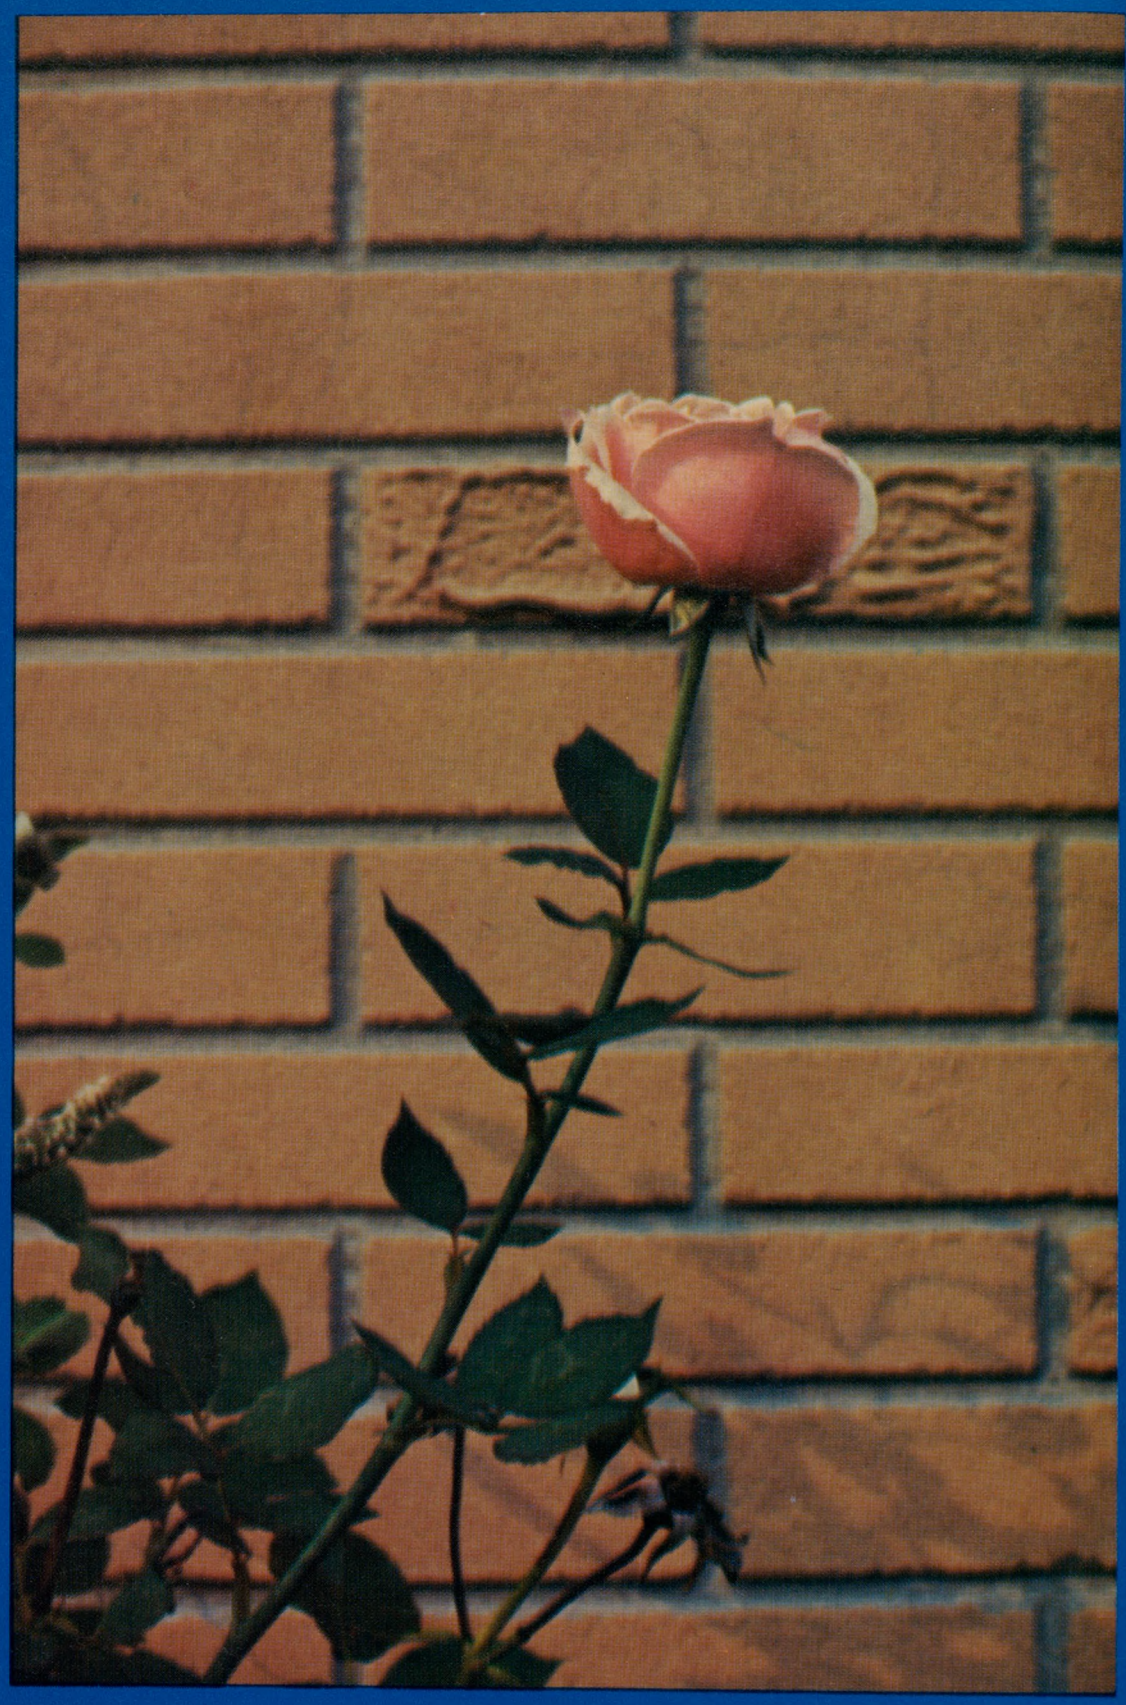

The accumulation of our experience is worth little without the knowledge of where it came from and where it pushes us. It is good to look inside and put ourselves together again.

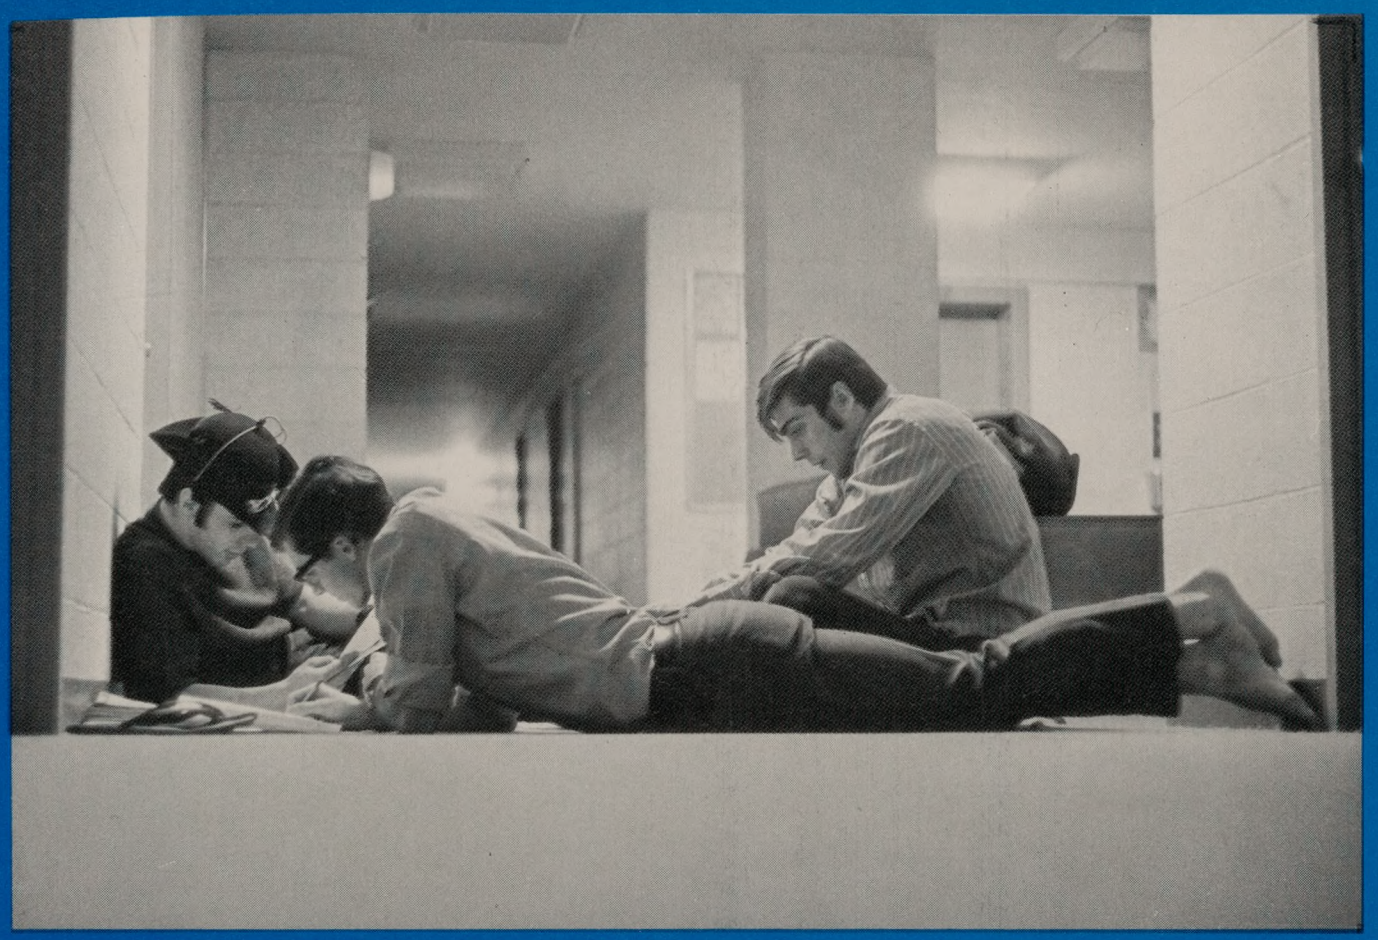

This mass of energy called "Me" ought to be directed toward becoming that shrouded creature that the human spirit aspires to be. That development can only take place when we can hear ourselves over the noise and see ourselves through the smoke.
That time is full of light and life. No longer afraid to open our eyes, we can regain sight of the beauty that can be found in this place.

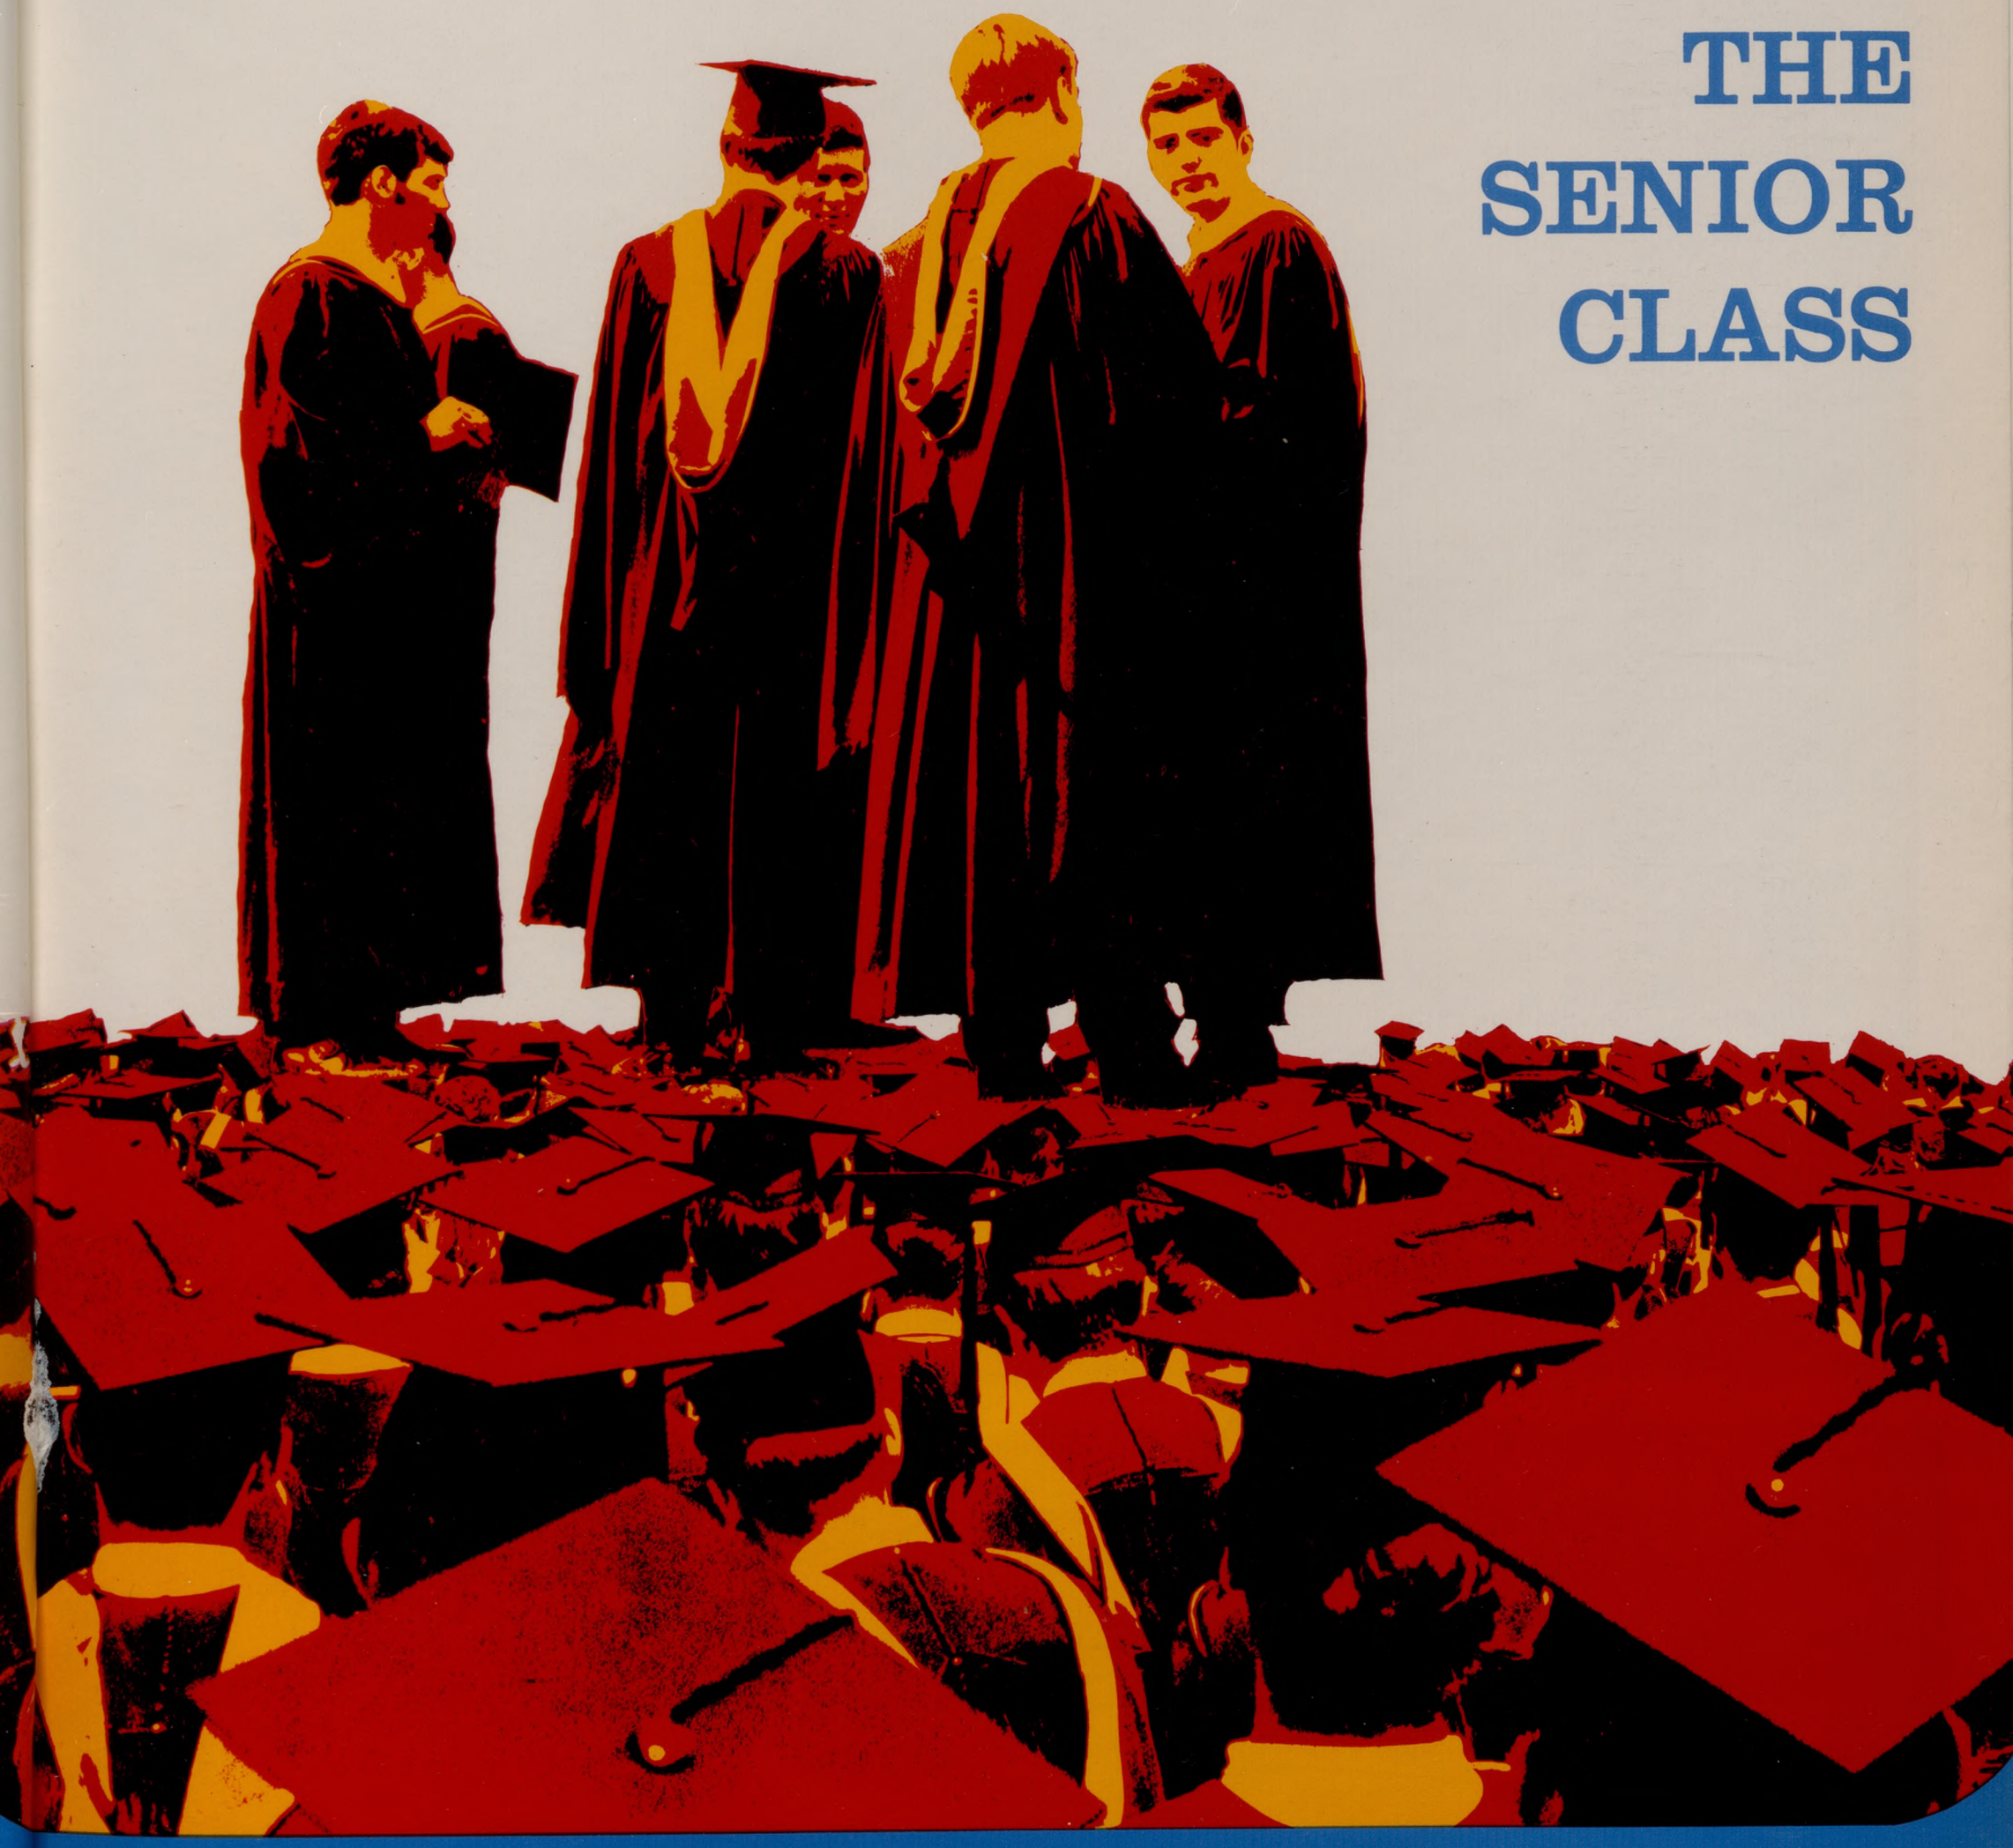

THE SENIOR CLASS

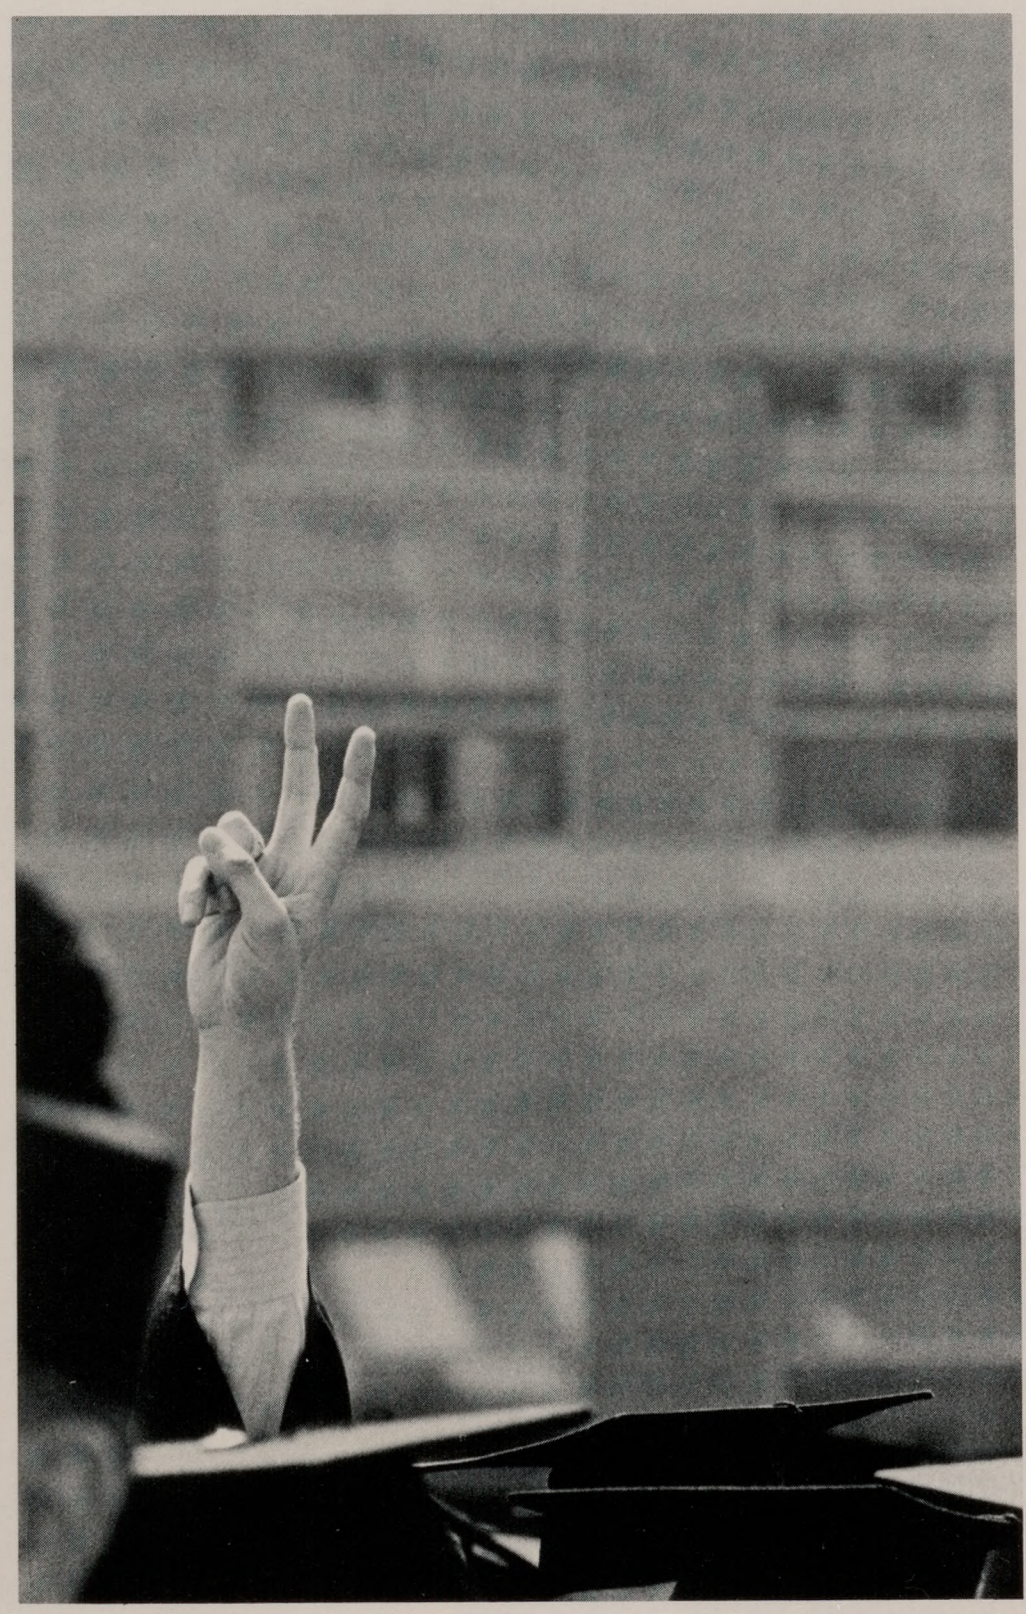

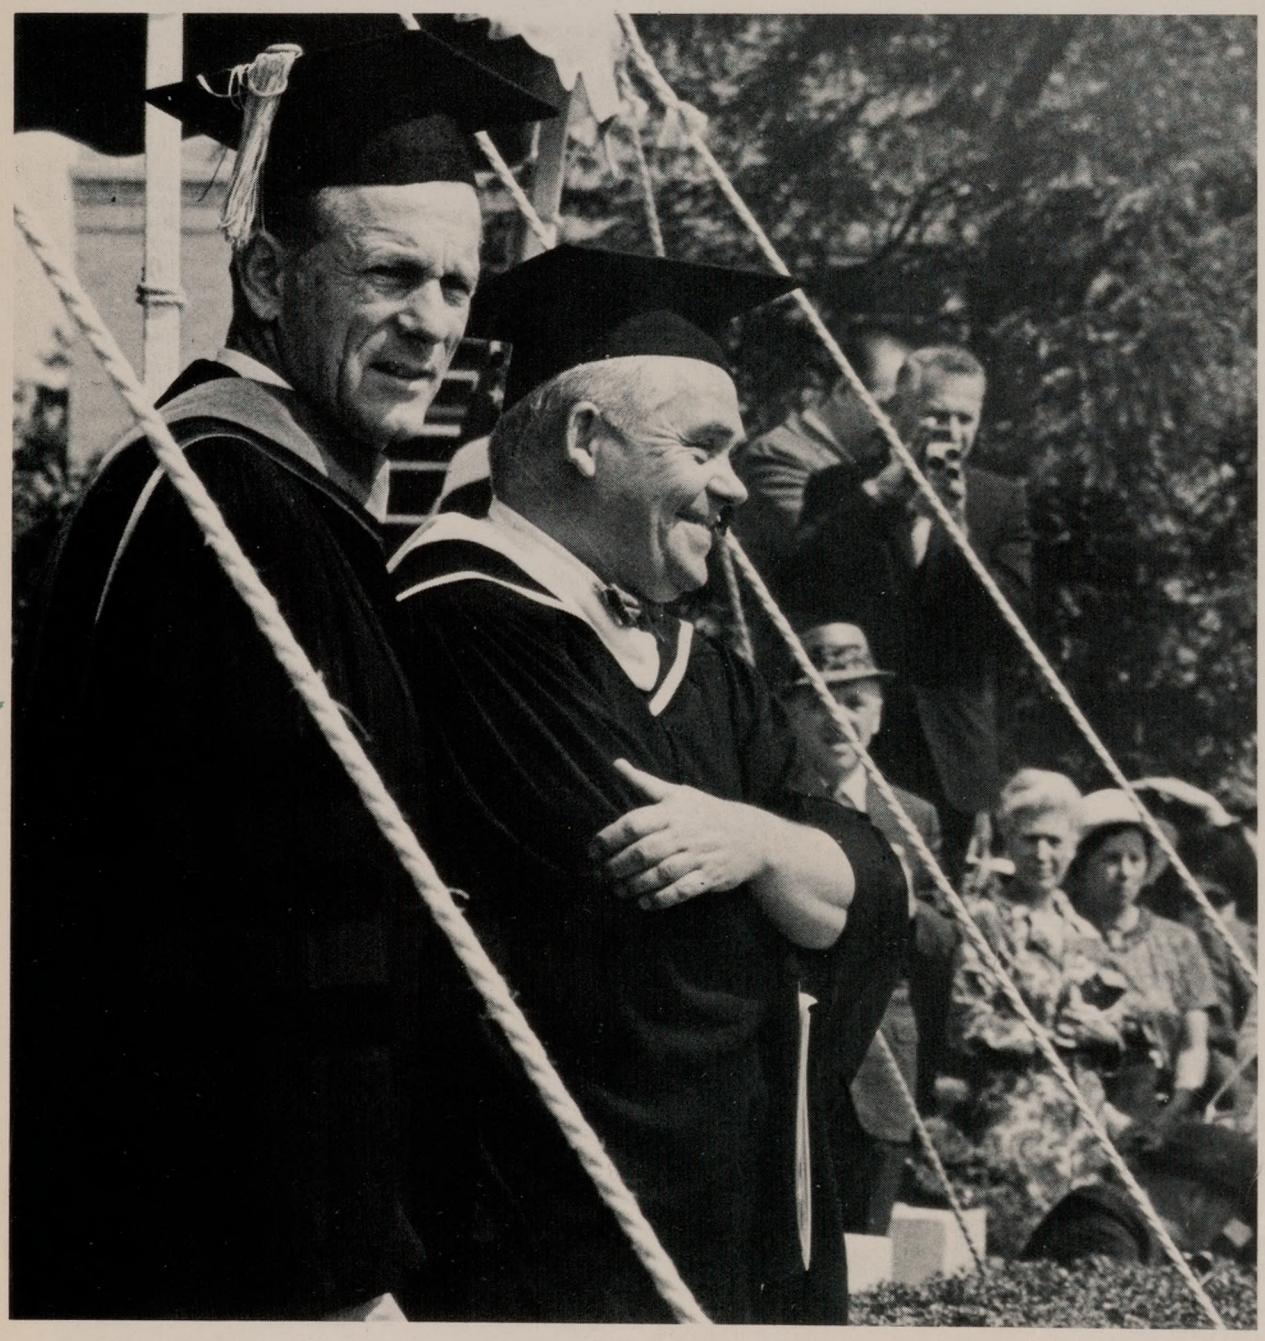

Commencement Day is the goal of four years of work. For some it marks the end of a nightmare, for the rest the beginning of their dreams.

STUDENT LIFE

Three days into the first semester the students found themselves confronting the administration on the steps of President's Hall. The hectic pace set that afternoon made the rest of the year seem like a jog. The following pages offer some views of the events that brought us to and followed upon the year's initial confrontation.

The immediate cause for alarm was explained at a mass meeting to be the President's Convocation Speech and the ensuing publicity it received in the area newspapers.

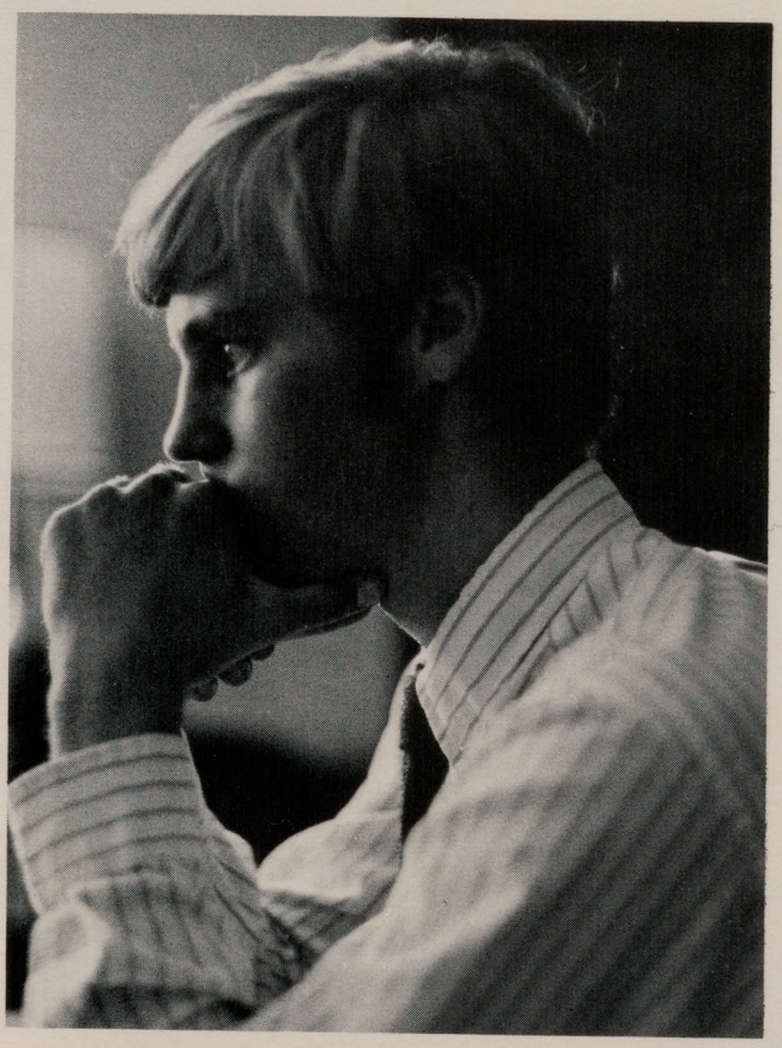

The meeting drew the usual assortment of people looking for a party.

By the next afternoon the issue had been substantially enlarged to include just about everything that could be found wrong with the university. A series of unanimous decisions by the Student Senate set up the mass meeting for later that day.

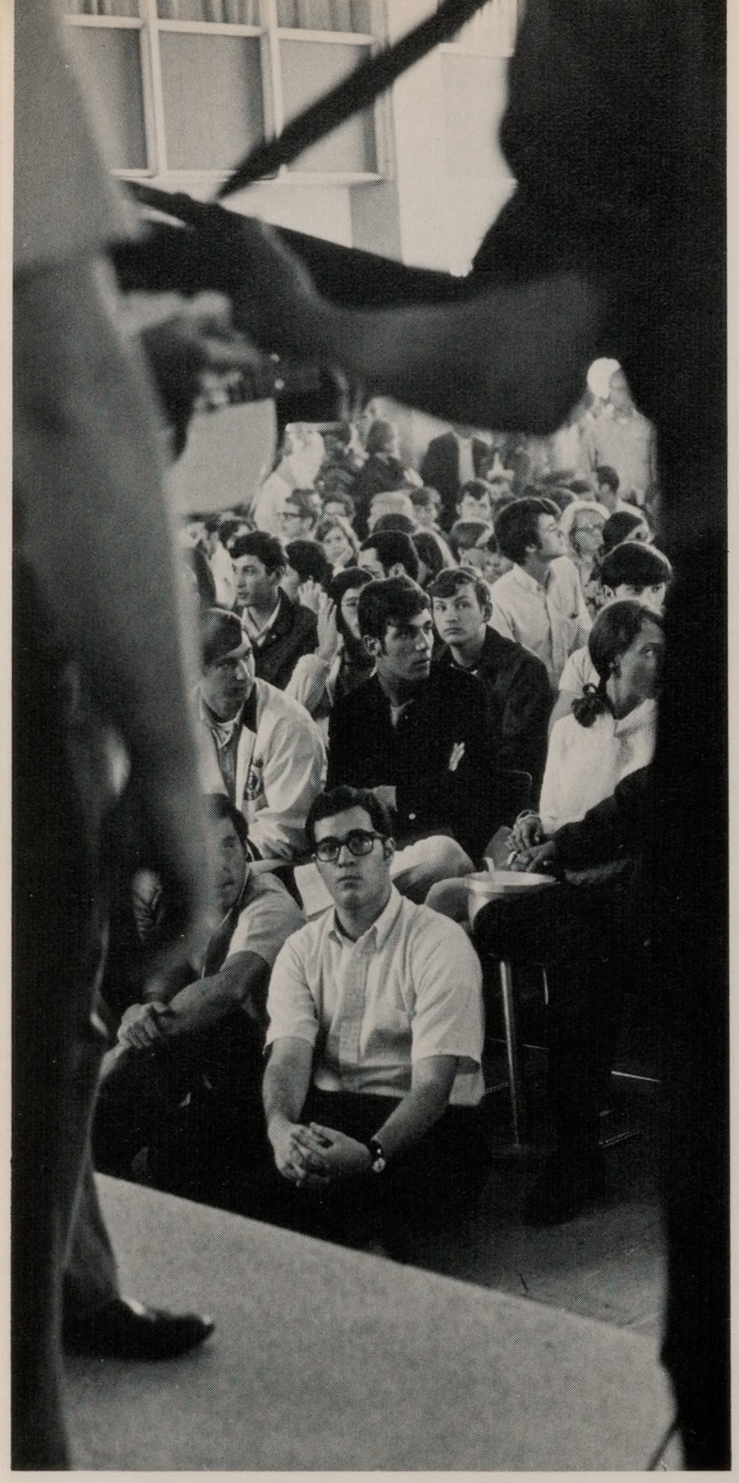

Having had little experience in matters of this magnitude, the students did feel a great deal of pressure.
Some began to wonder just what was going on.

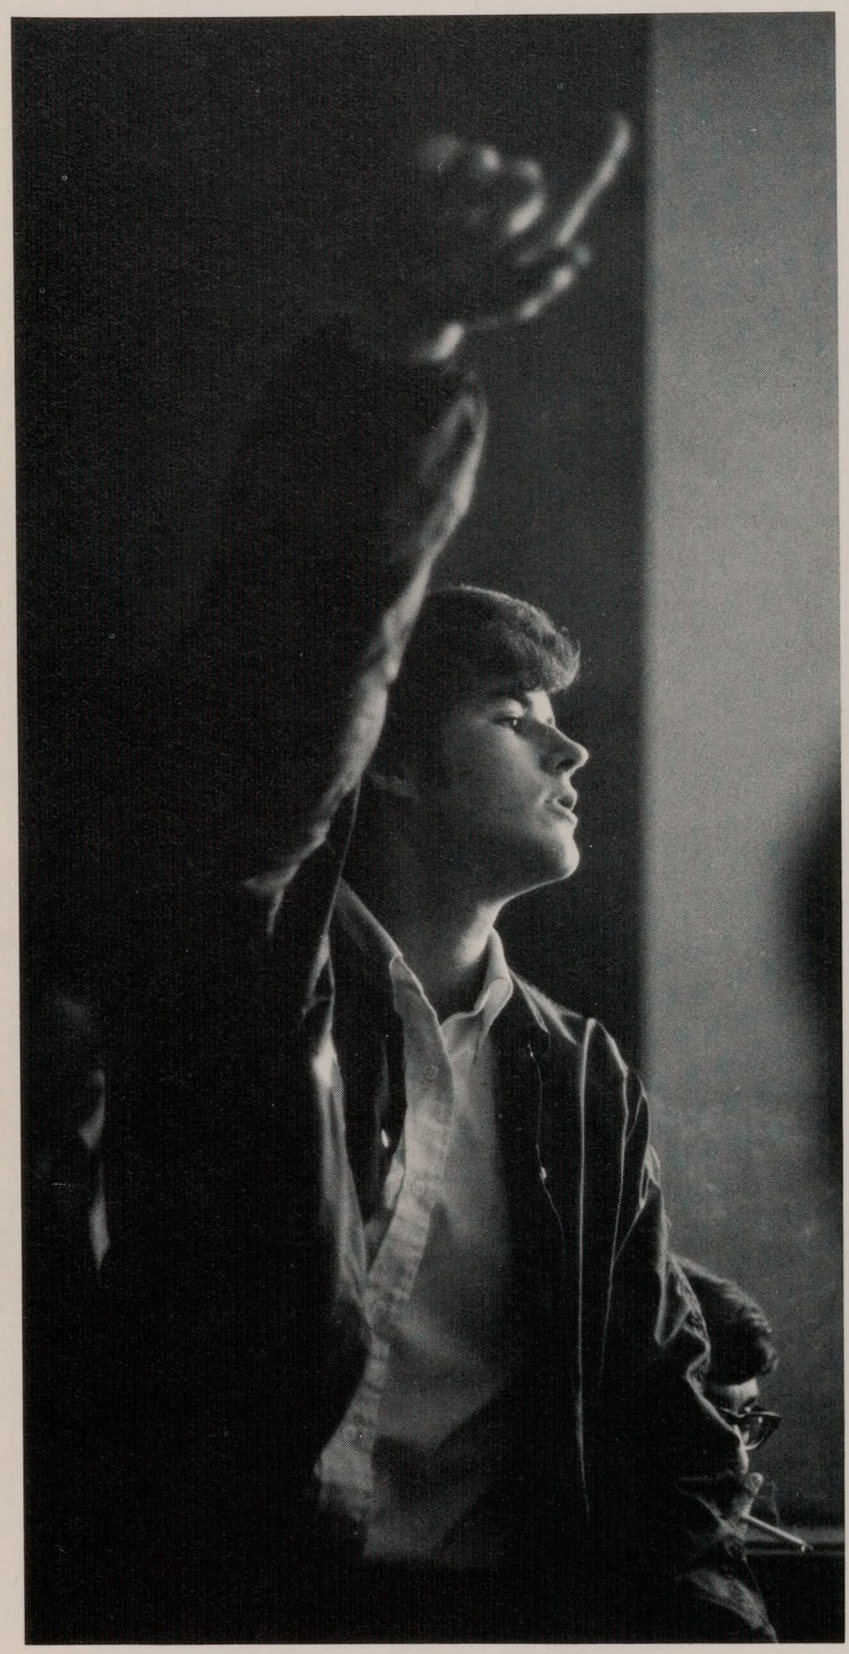

At the meeting it was explained that if the administration would not come to the students, the students would go to the administration.

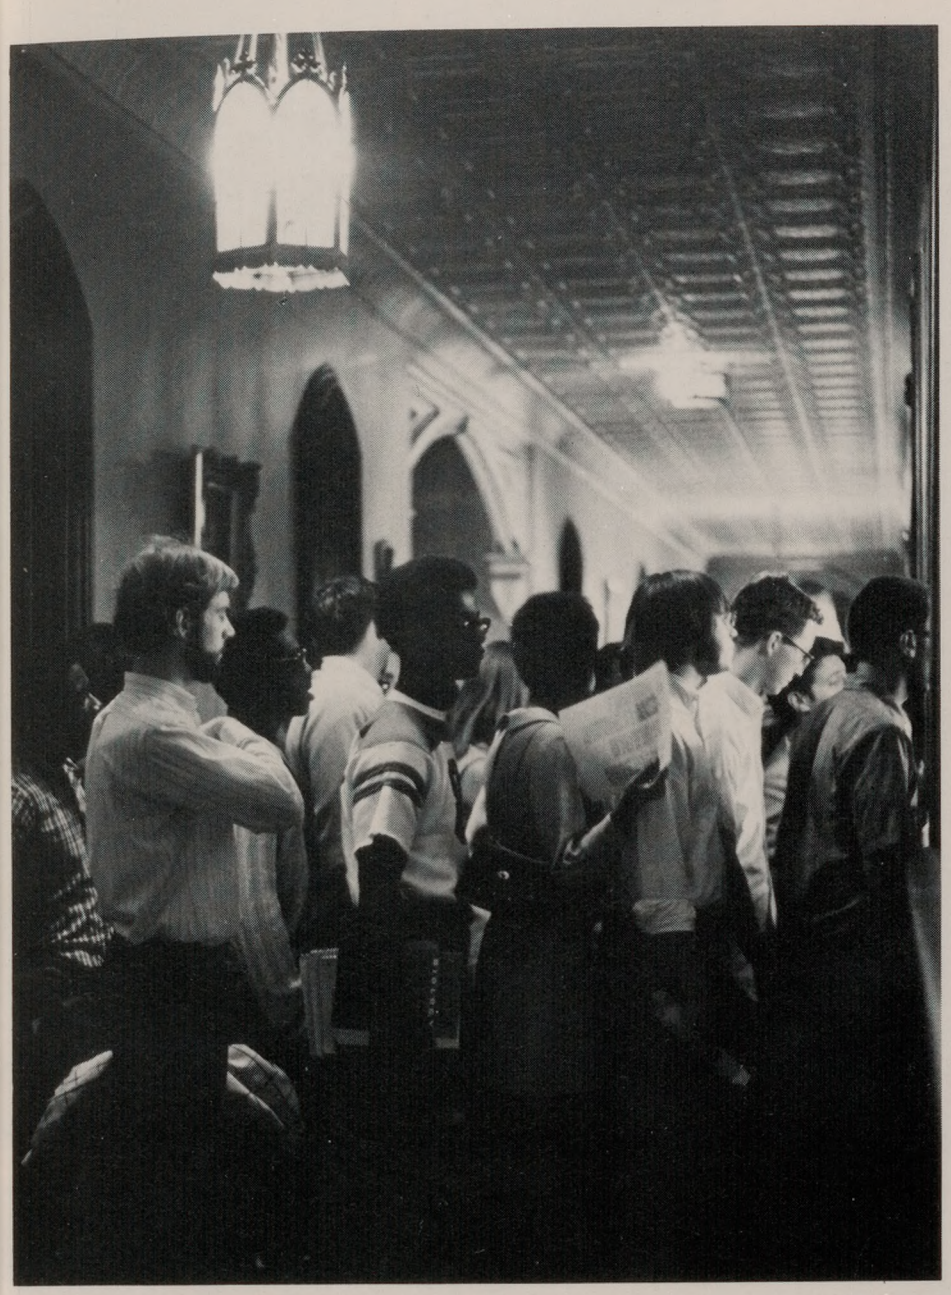

Some people still could not figure out what was going on.

Someone suggested that the meeting be moved outside . . .

So it was.

Students wound up
sitting across the table
from the Acting President. Everybody
asked their questions;
their questions were answered.
People are still trying to
And why.

THE WAITING GAME

One of the favorite activities engaged in at Seton Hall is waiting on line for something or other. Generally these lines are without end and without motion in a forward direction. However, when the line does manage to move forward, it usually moves forward to a sign which reads "Out to Lunch."

"I'm sorry but we can't help you until you you have been cleared by the Bursar's Office. Next."

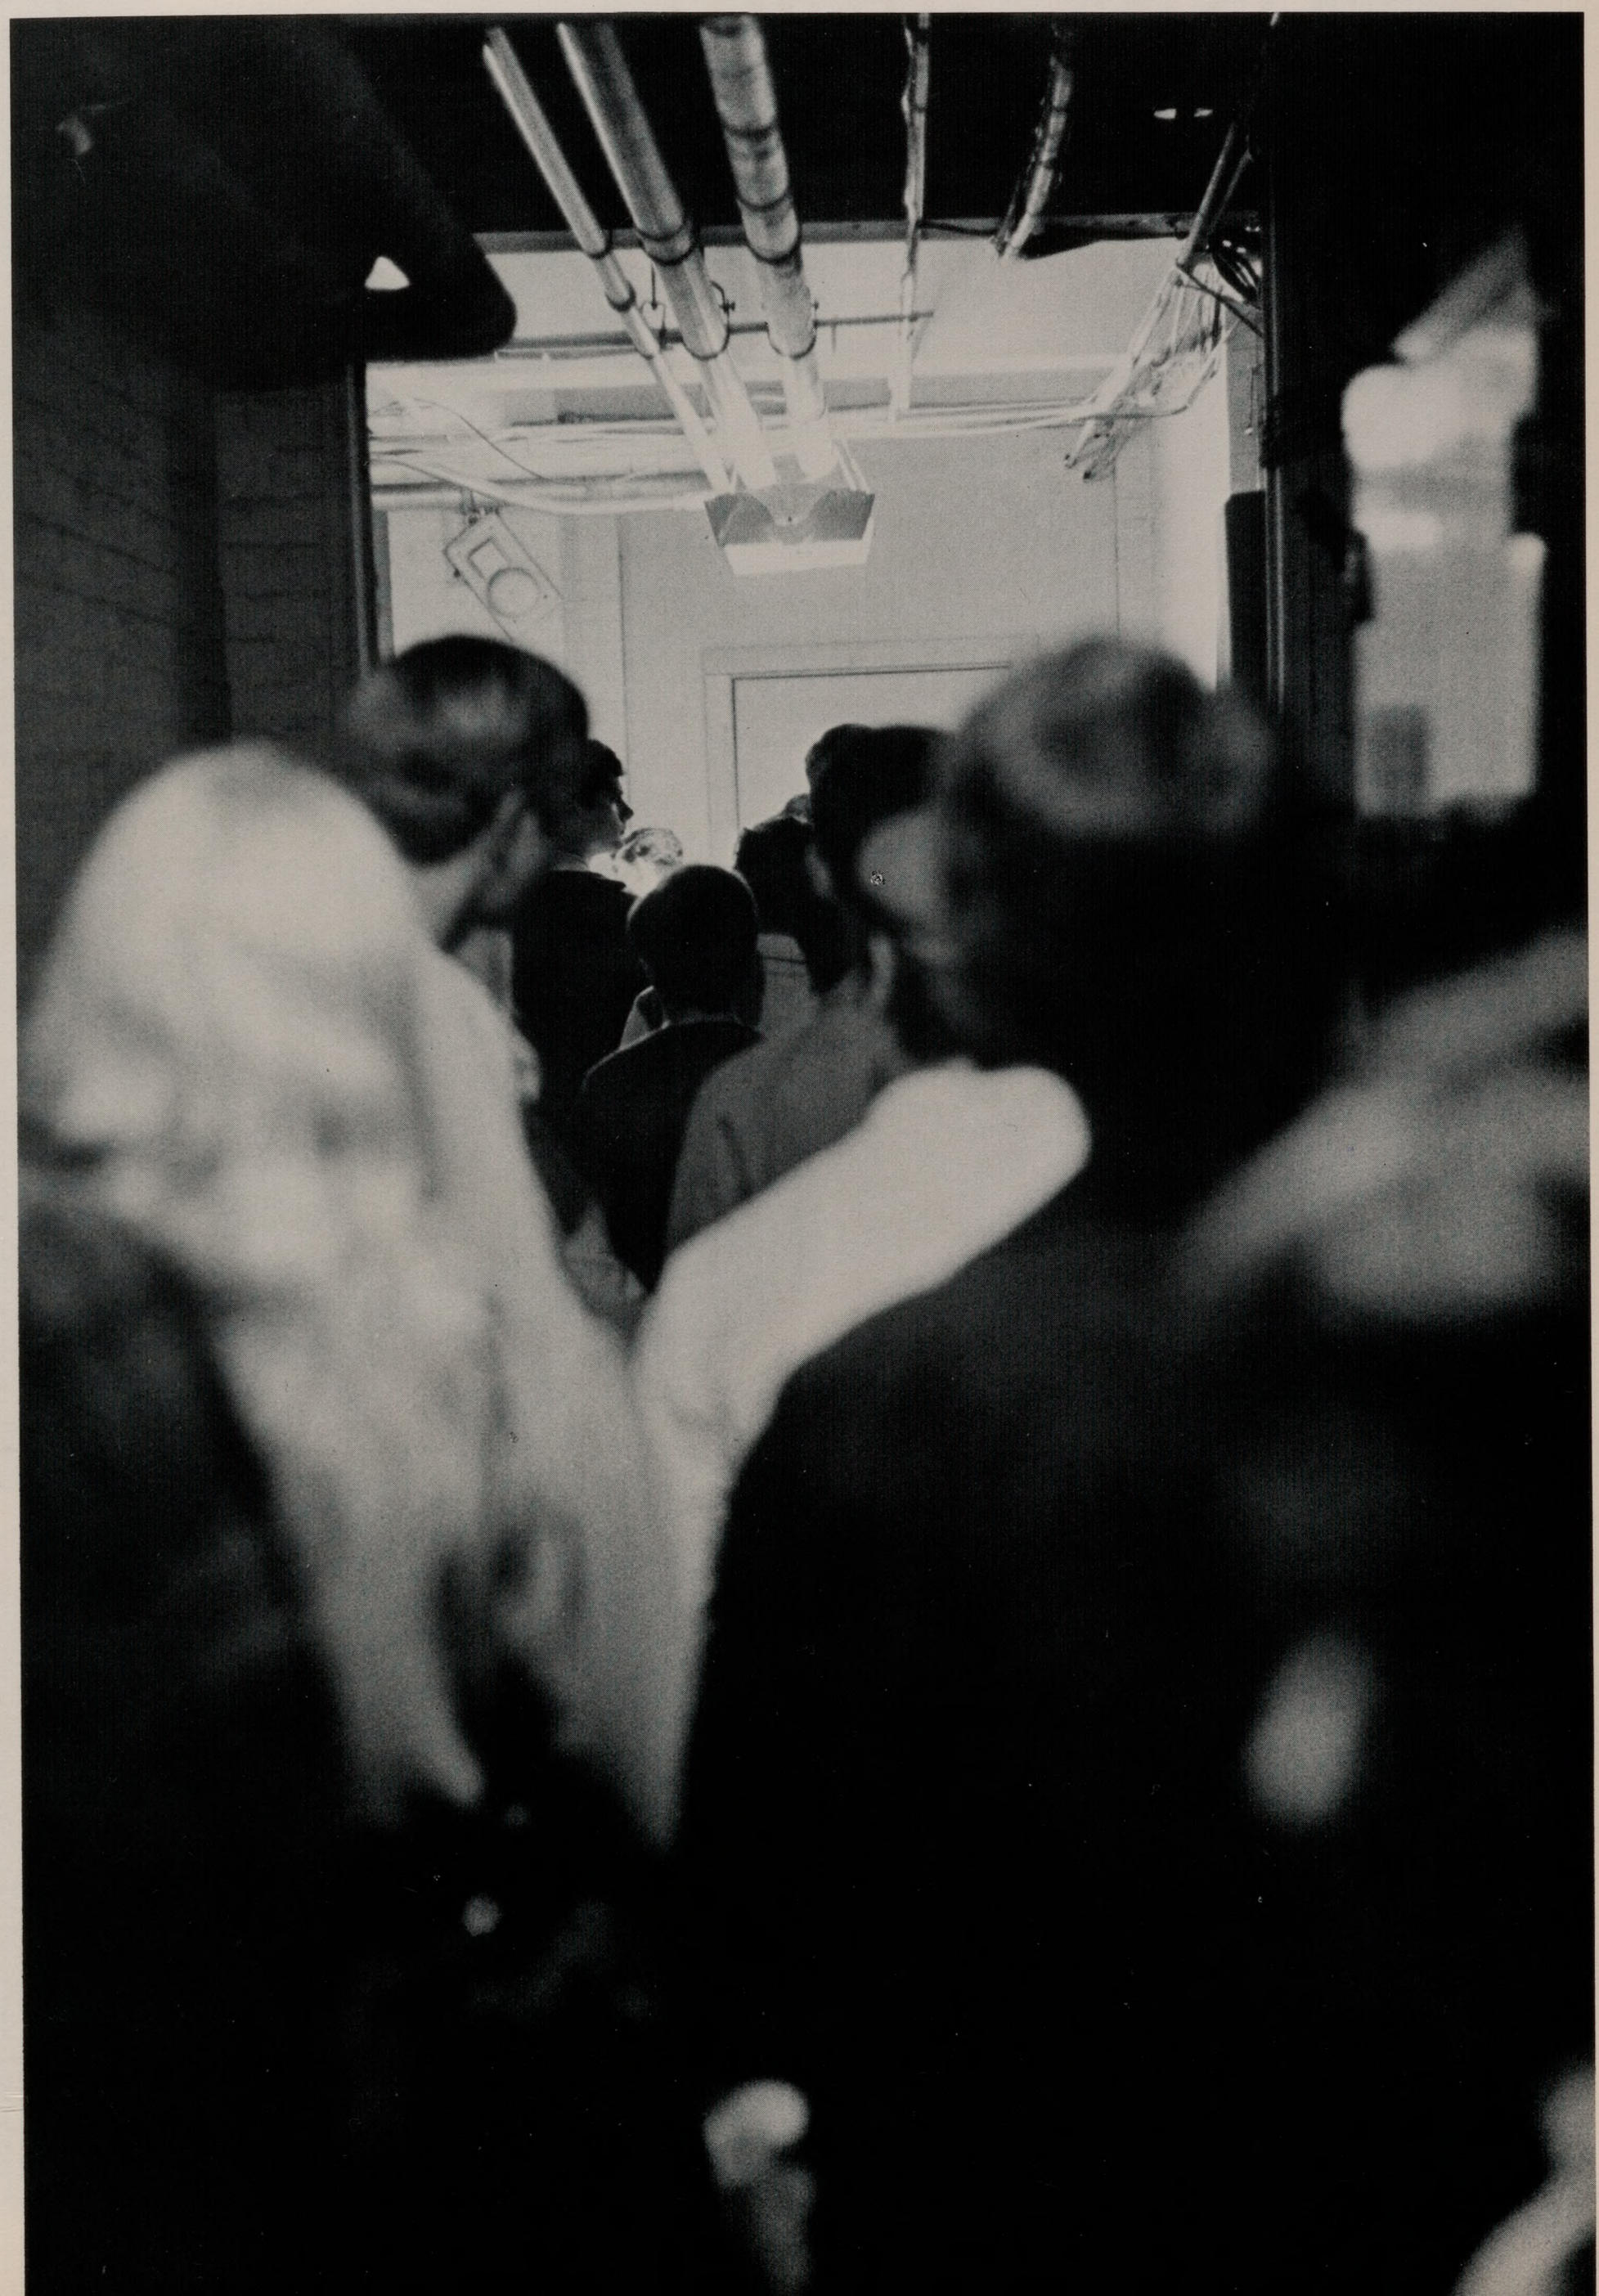

"I'm sorry, but our records show that your bill has not been paid yet. Next."

"I'm sorry but you can't have your class cards until you go and see Miss O'Donnell."

And while we were in the mood for waiting for things,

CONSTRUCTION

of the new dining facilities went on for months.

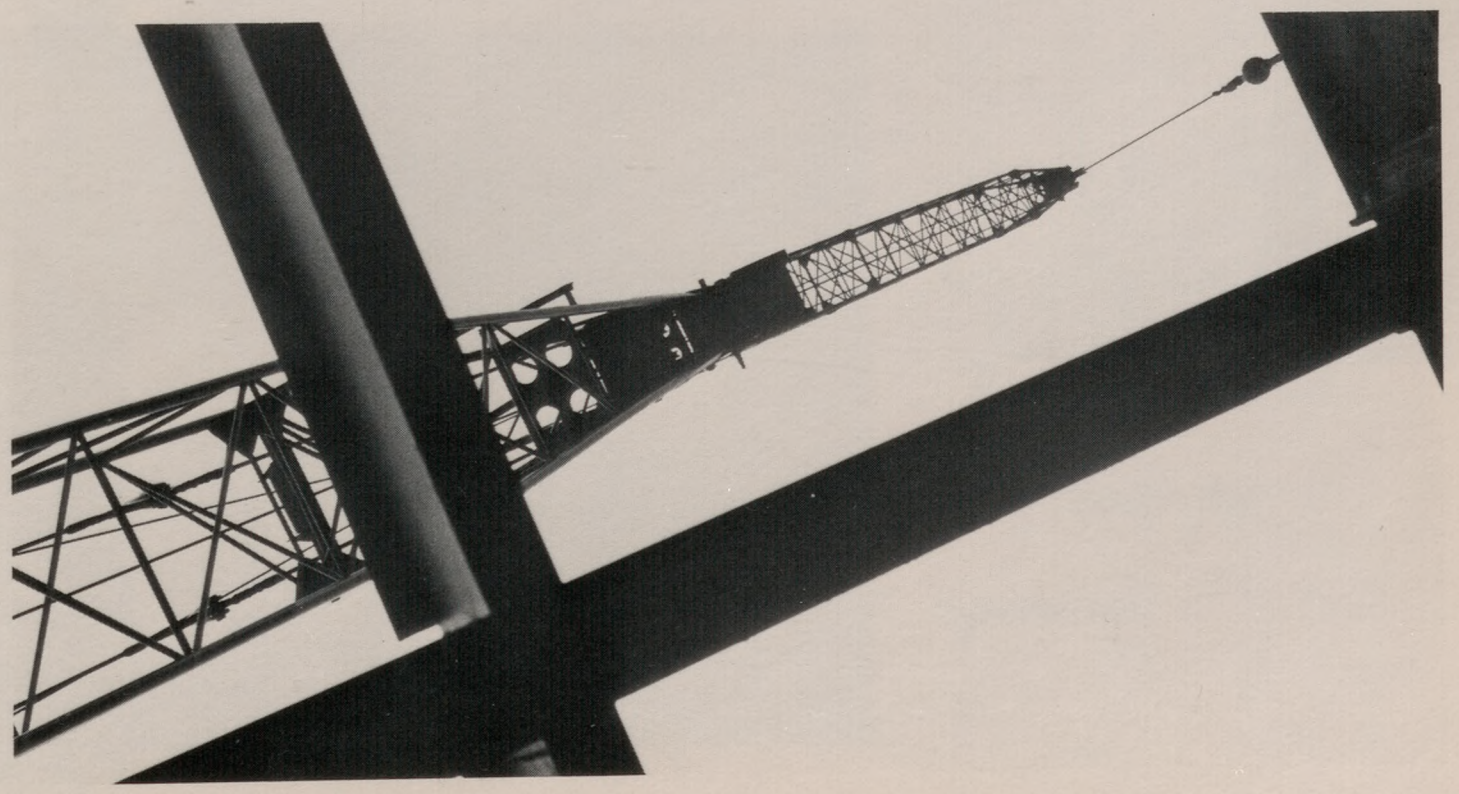

By February, five months behind schedule, the "Rainbow Forest" was ready for operation.

NIGHT is a daily visitor to Seton Hall's campus,

except it doesn't come during the day—
because it comes at night.

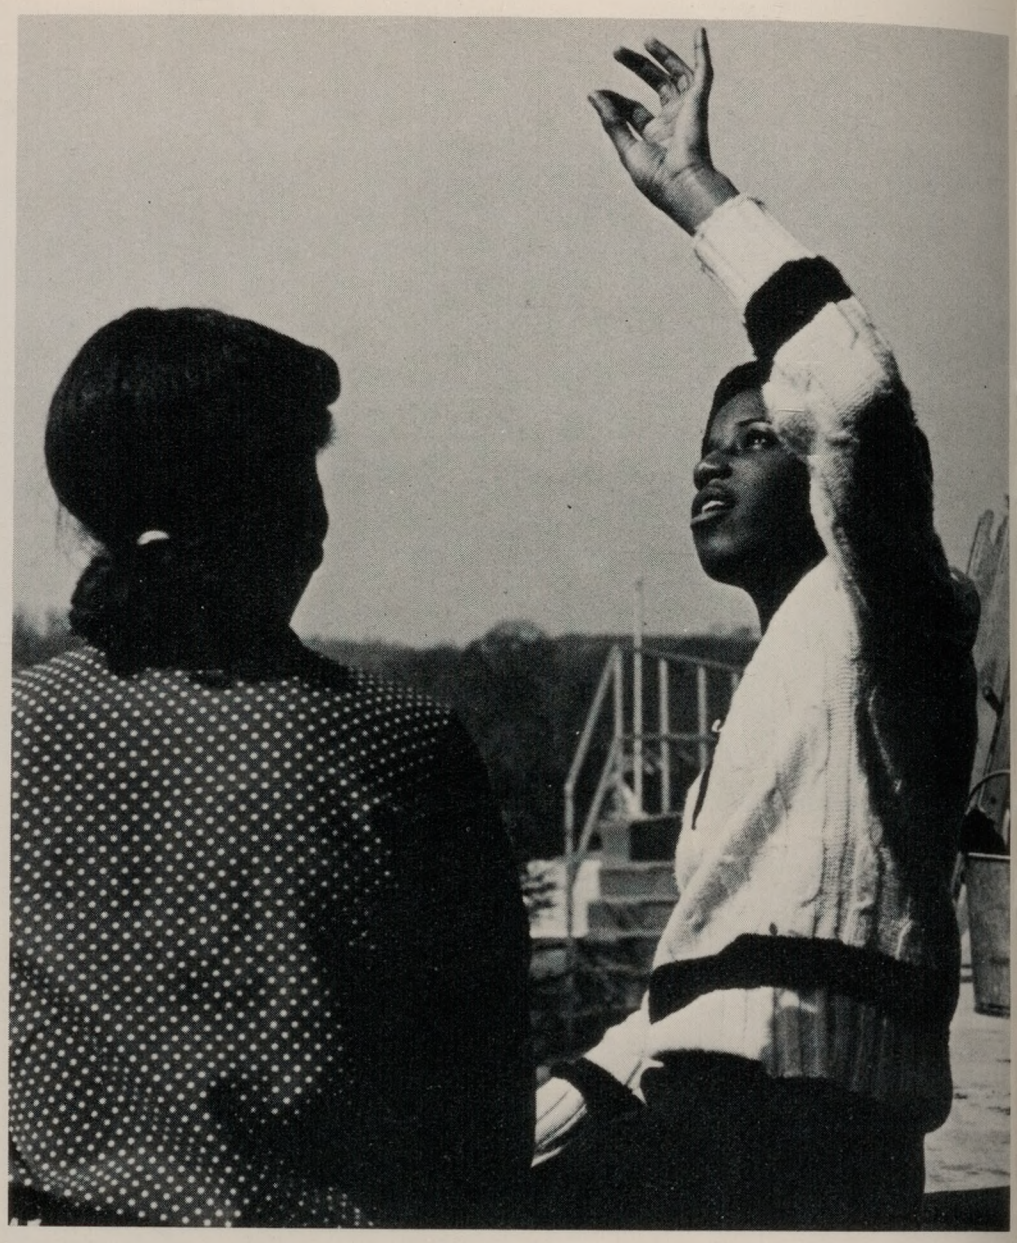

Night came twice on March 7 when the Sun and Moon worked their show. Although this solar eclipse did not reach the spectacular totality we saw on television, it still fascinated all of us.

The methods of viewing varied from the naked eyeball method to the old hole-in-the-cardboard trick. Somehow, the latter always made you feel like you were getting gypped.

TRACK

The Longest Season

The runner runs from September to June. The Fall brings the lonely pains of Cross-Country. Winter and Spring bring the noisy violence of packed arenas.

Dan Traficante and Tom Winters head into the hills on one of the nation's toughest courses, Van Cortland Park in New York.

The start at Turtle Back Reservation, the Pirates' home course. The coach said, "Take it out hard."

Howie Cox yells at Winters to stay relaxed.
"Relaxed at five miles. Right!?"

Matt Swit found unexpected company on Van Cortland's Cemetery Hill.

Millions of trees and leaves, and an occasional passing runner are the only company the cross-country runner has.

The shorter distances and increased speed couple with the eager crowds to produce a season of a different sort. Throughout the indoor and outdoor seasons the controlled explosion of speed is the thing to watch for.

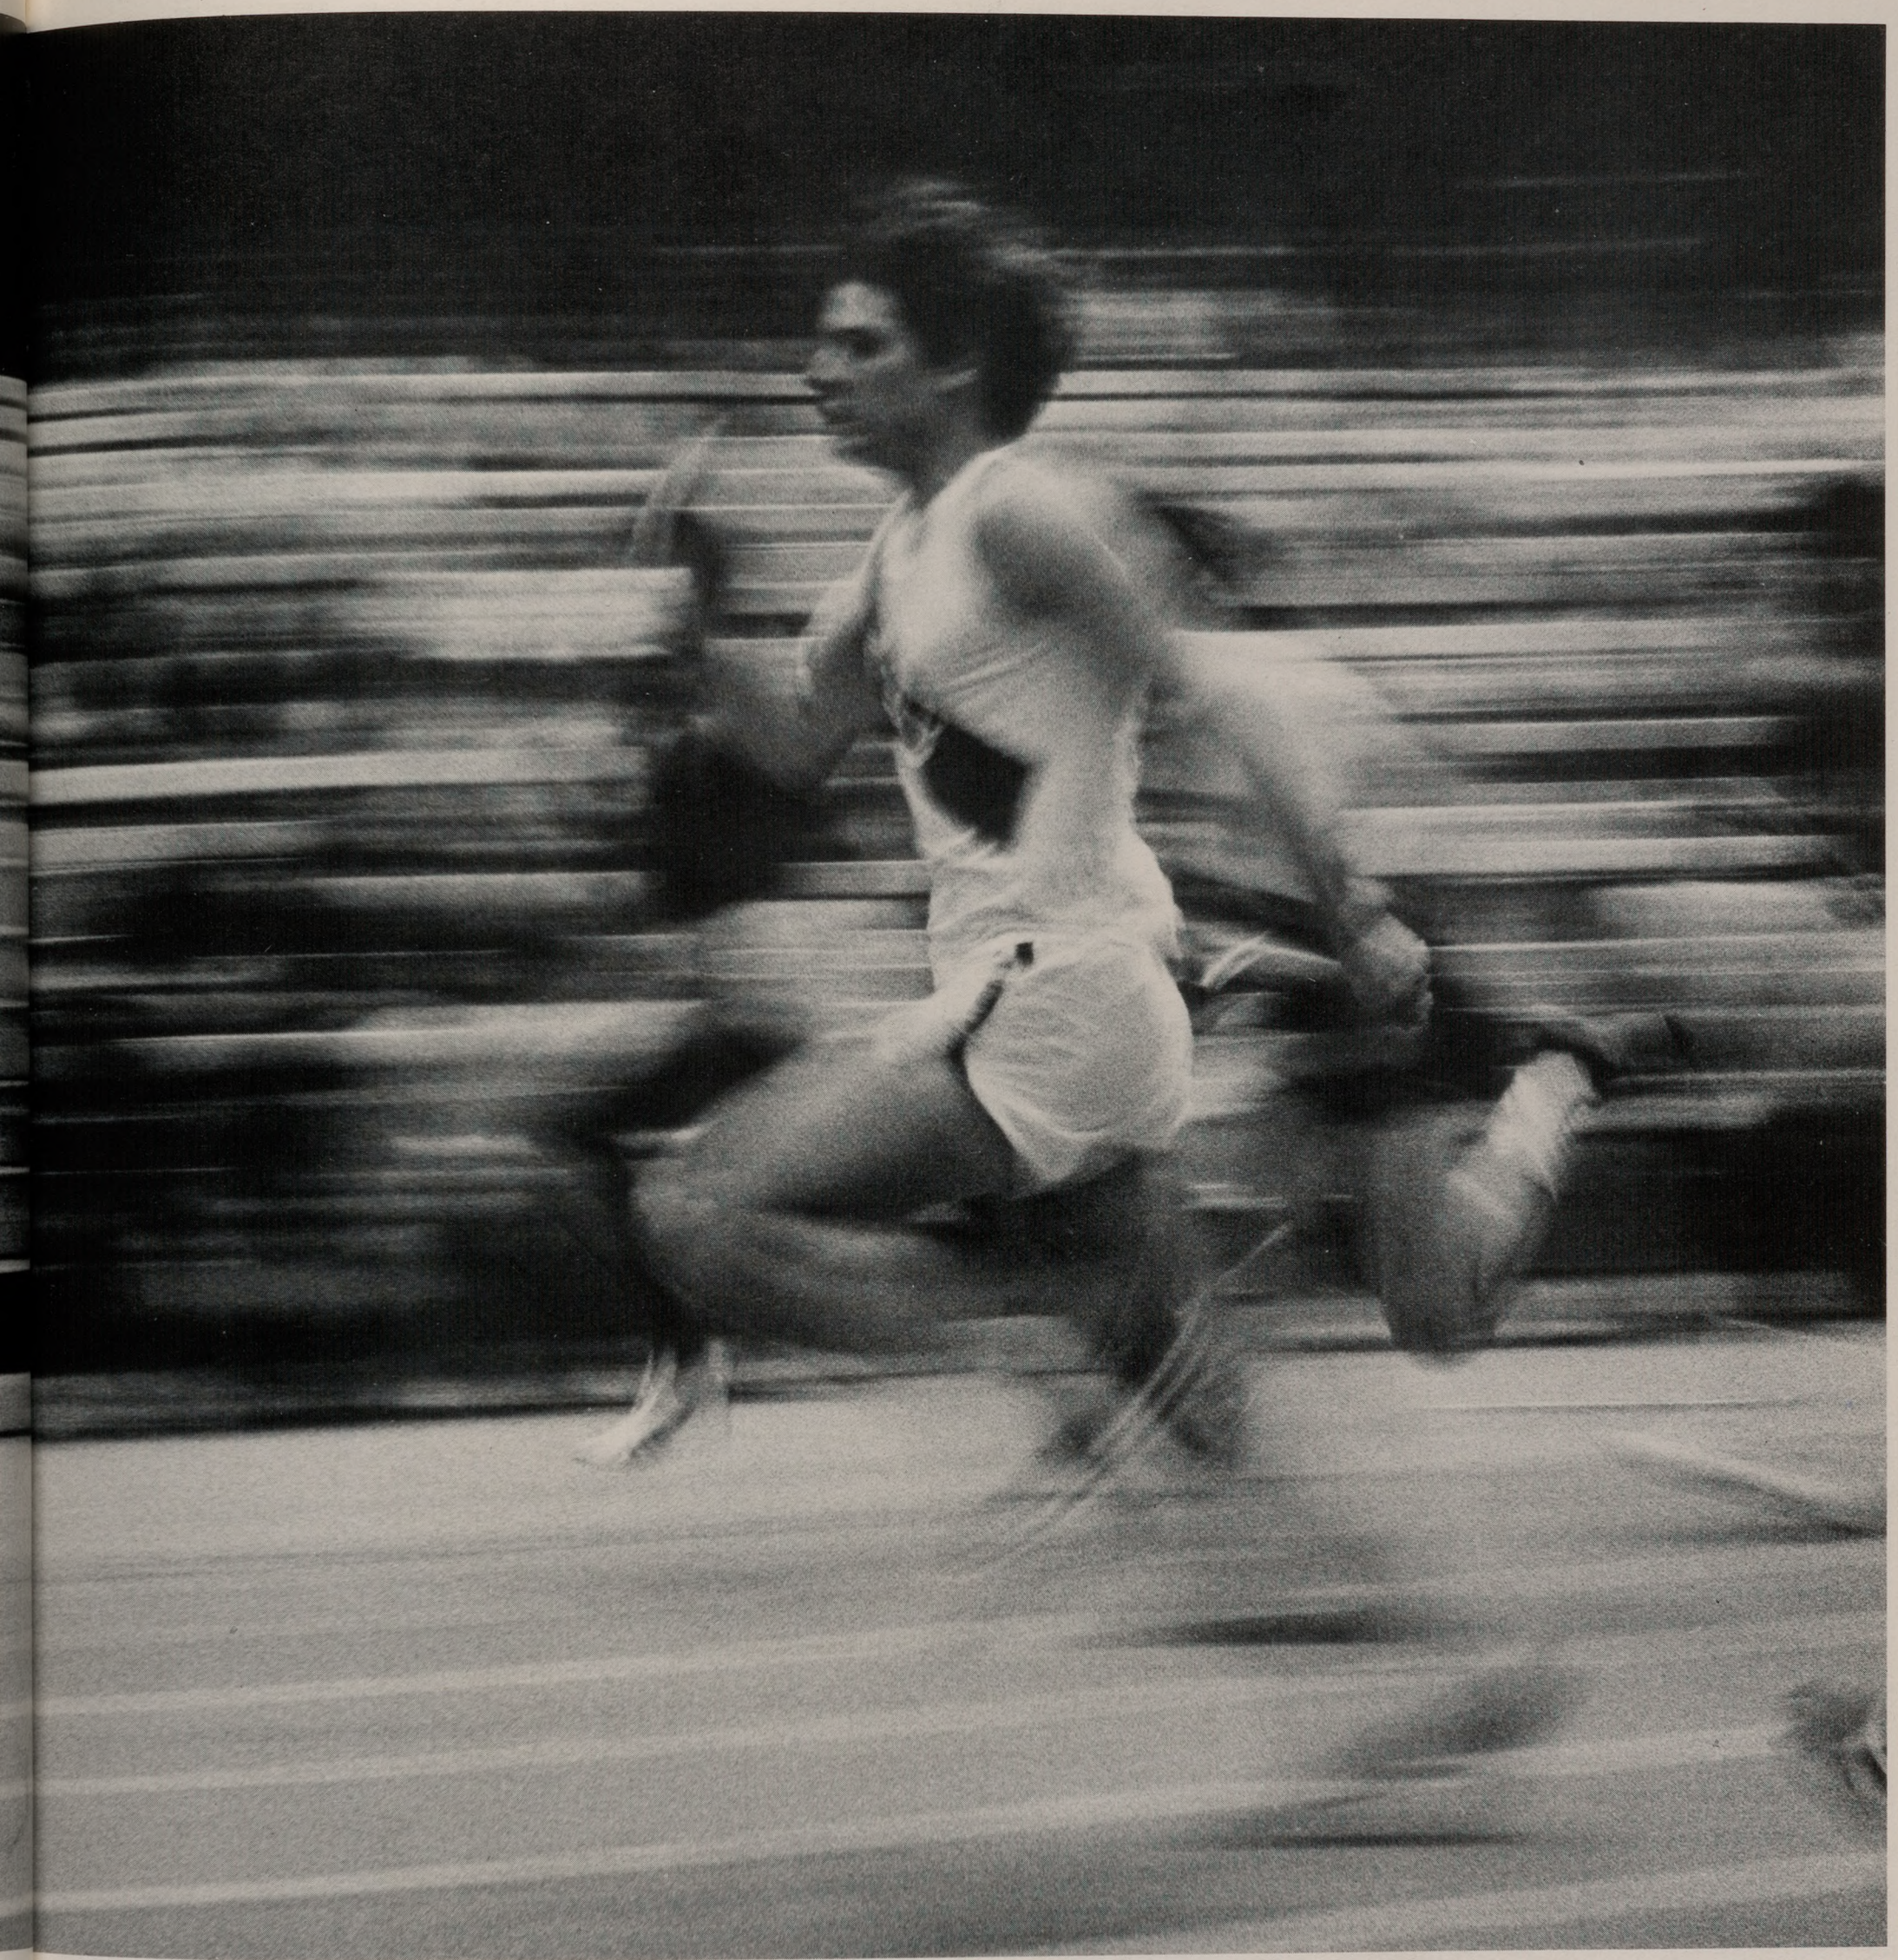

Winters, Nowell and Swit ran legs on the two-mile relay in the Knights of Columbus Meet in the Boston Garden.

left: John Weiss blows past his competitor from Princeton in the 600 in the N. J. Collegiate Championships. He won his heat and his time placed him fourth overall.

FENCING

The fencers added another impressive year (9-3) to a fine overall record.

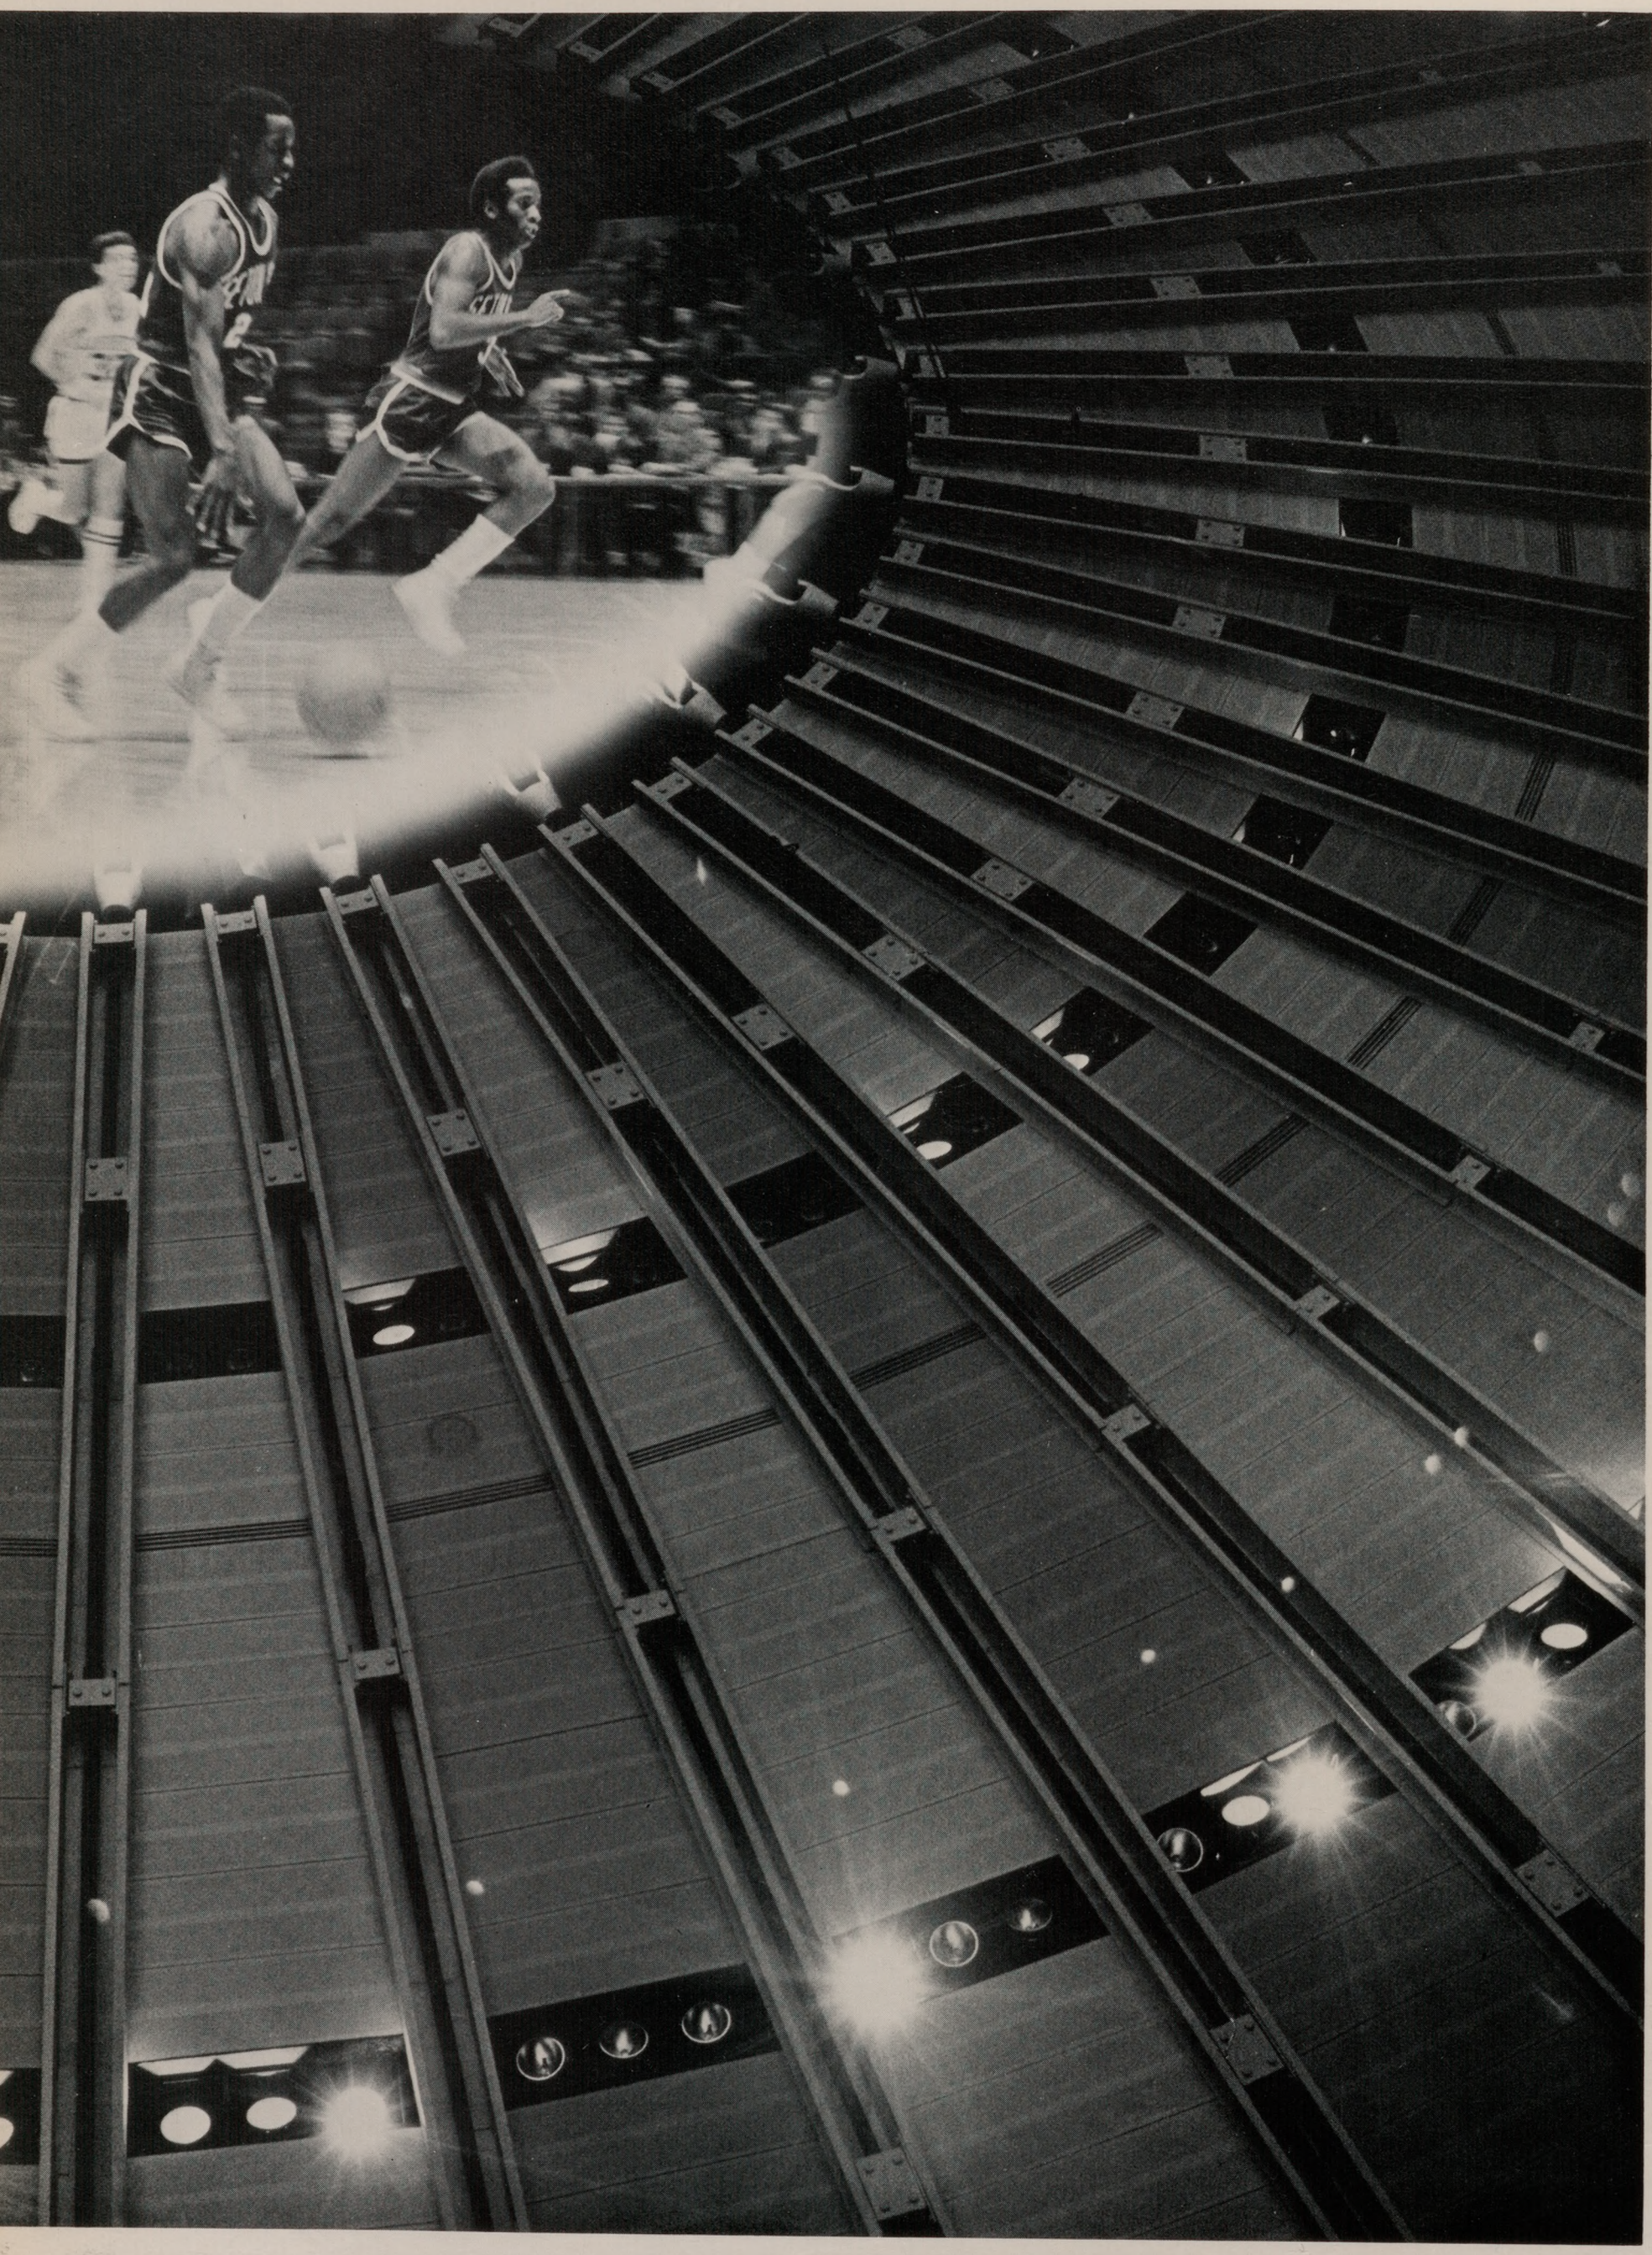

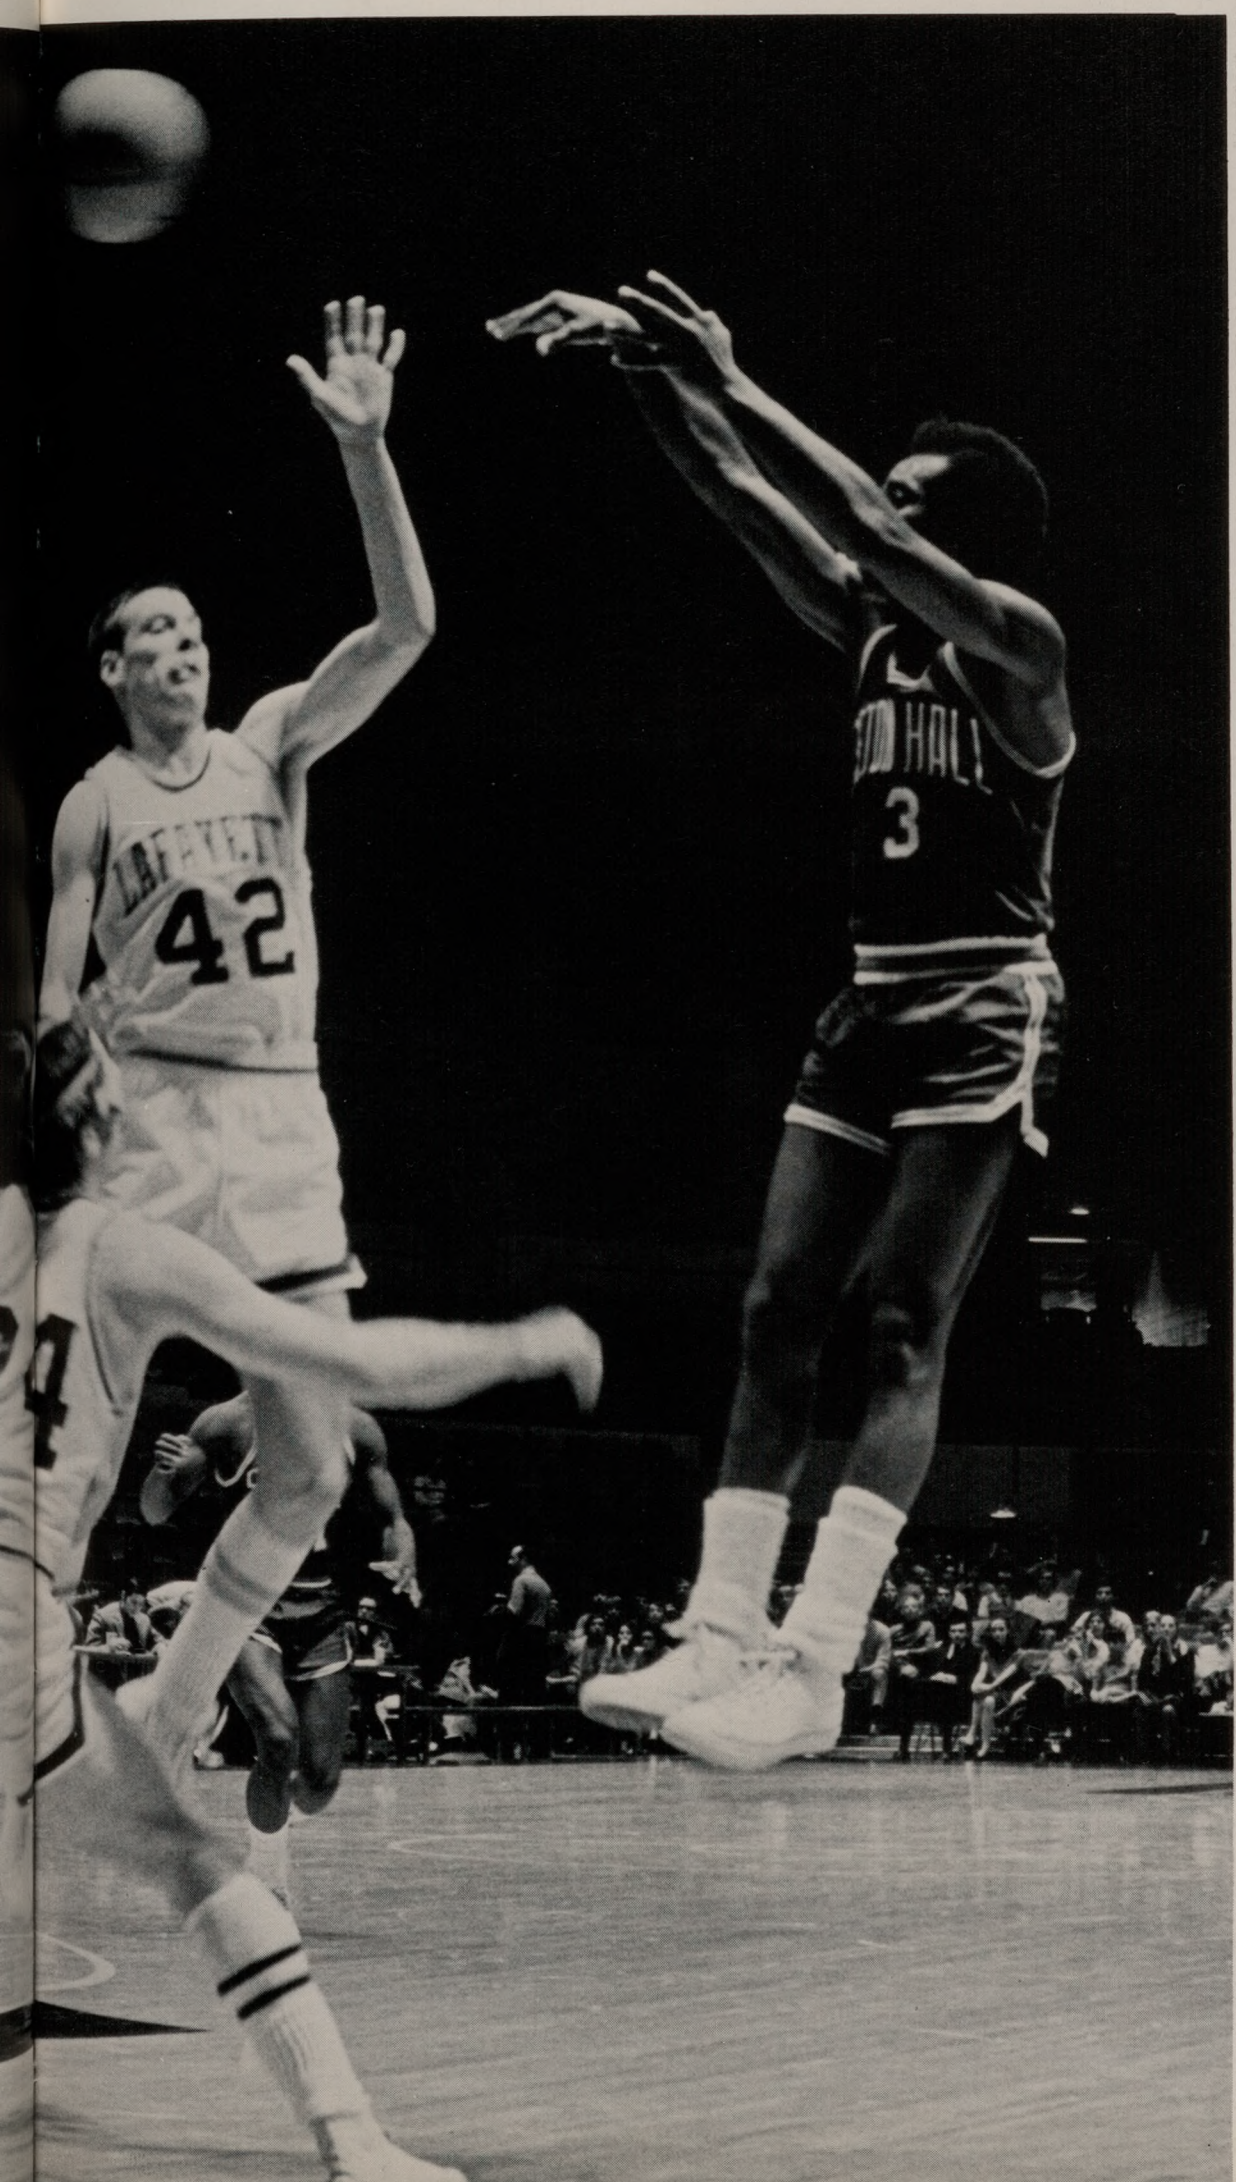

BASKETBALL

Back to the Garden with a running start

Hopes ran high and the Pirates launched a running attack as the '69-'70 season began. Junior Mel Knight leads the fast break downcourt.

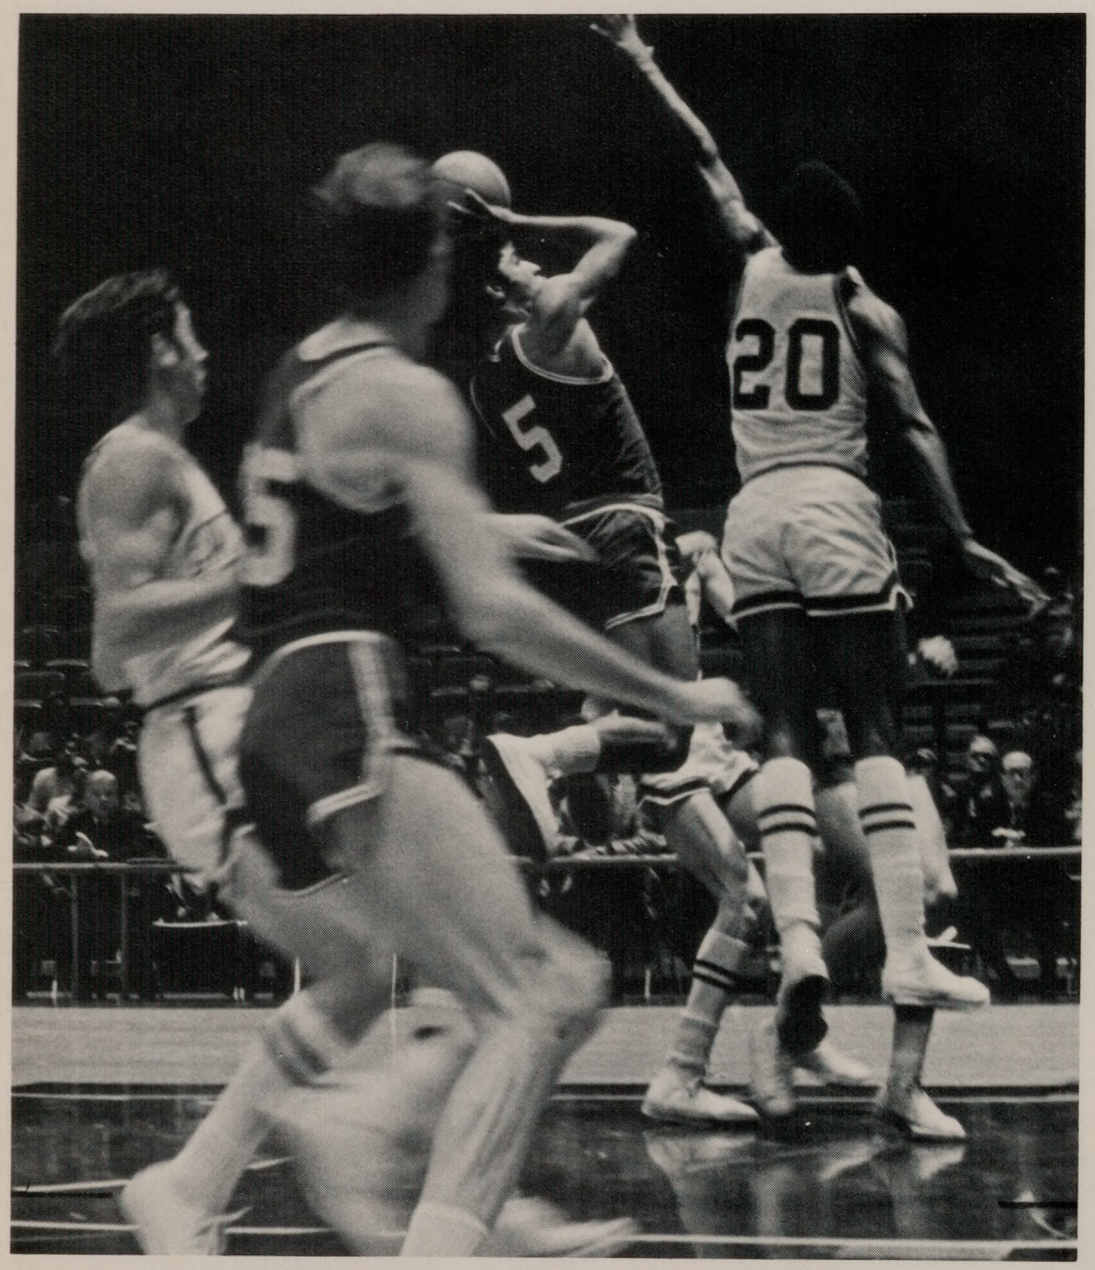

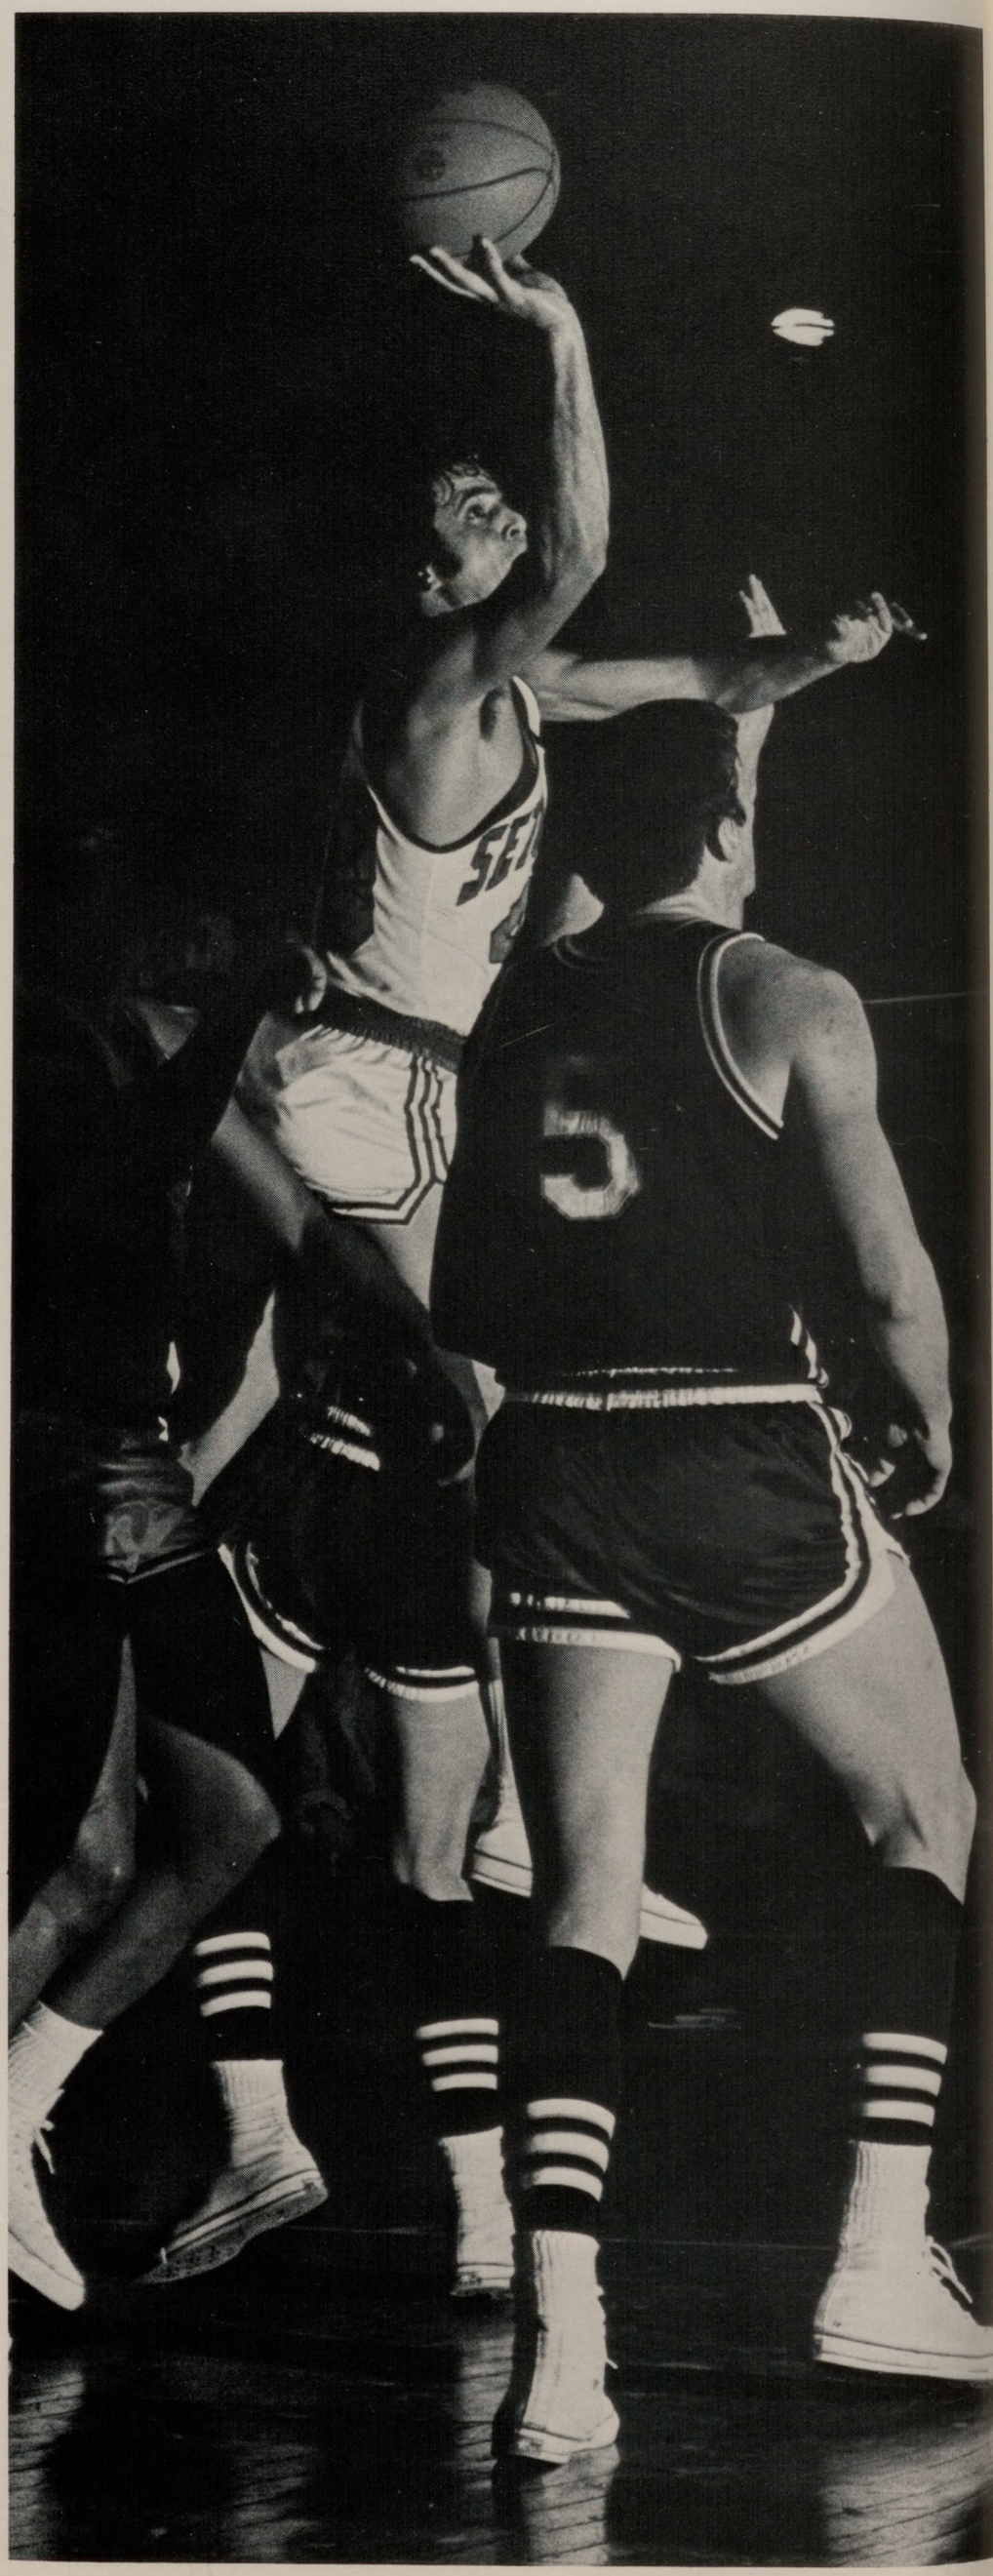

Red, white and blue Seton Hall jerseys were seen on the court of Madison Square Garden for the first time in nine years. The passing of Captain Ken Moss, Gary Cavallo's aggressive all-around play and the speed and shooting of soph Frank Cortes sparked the Bucs over Lafayette.

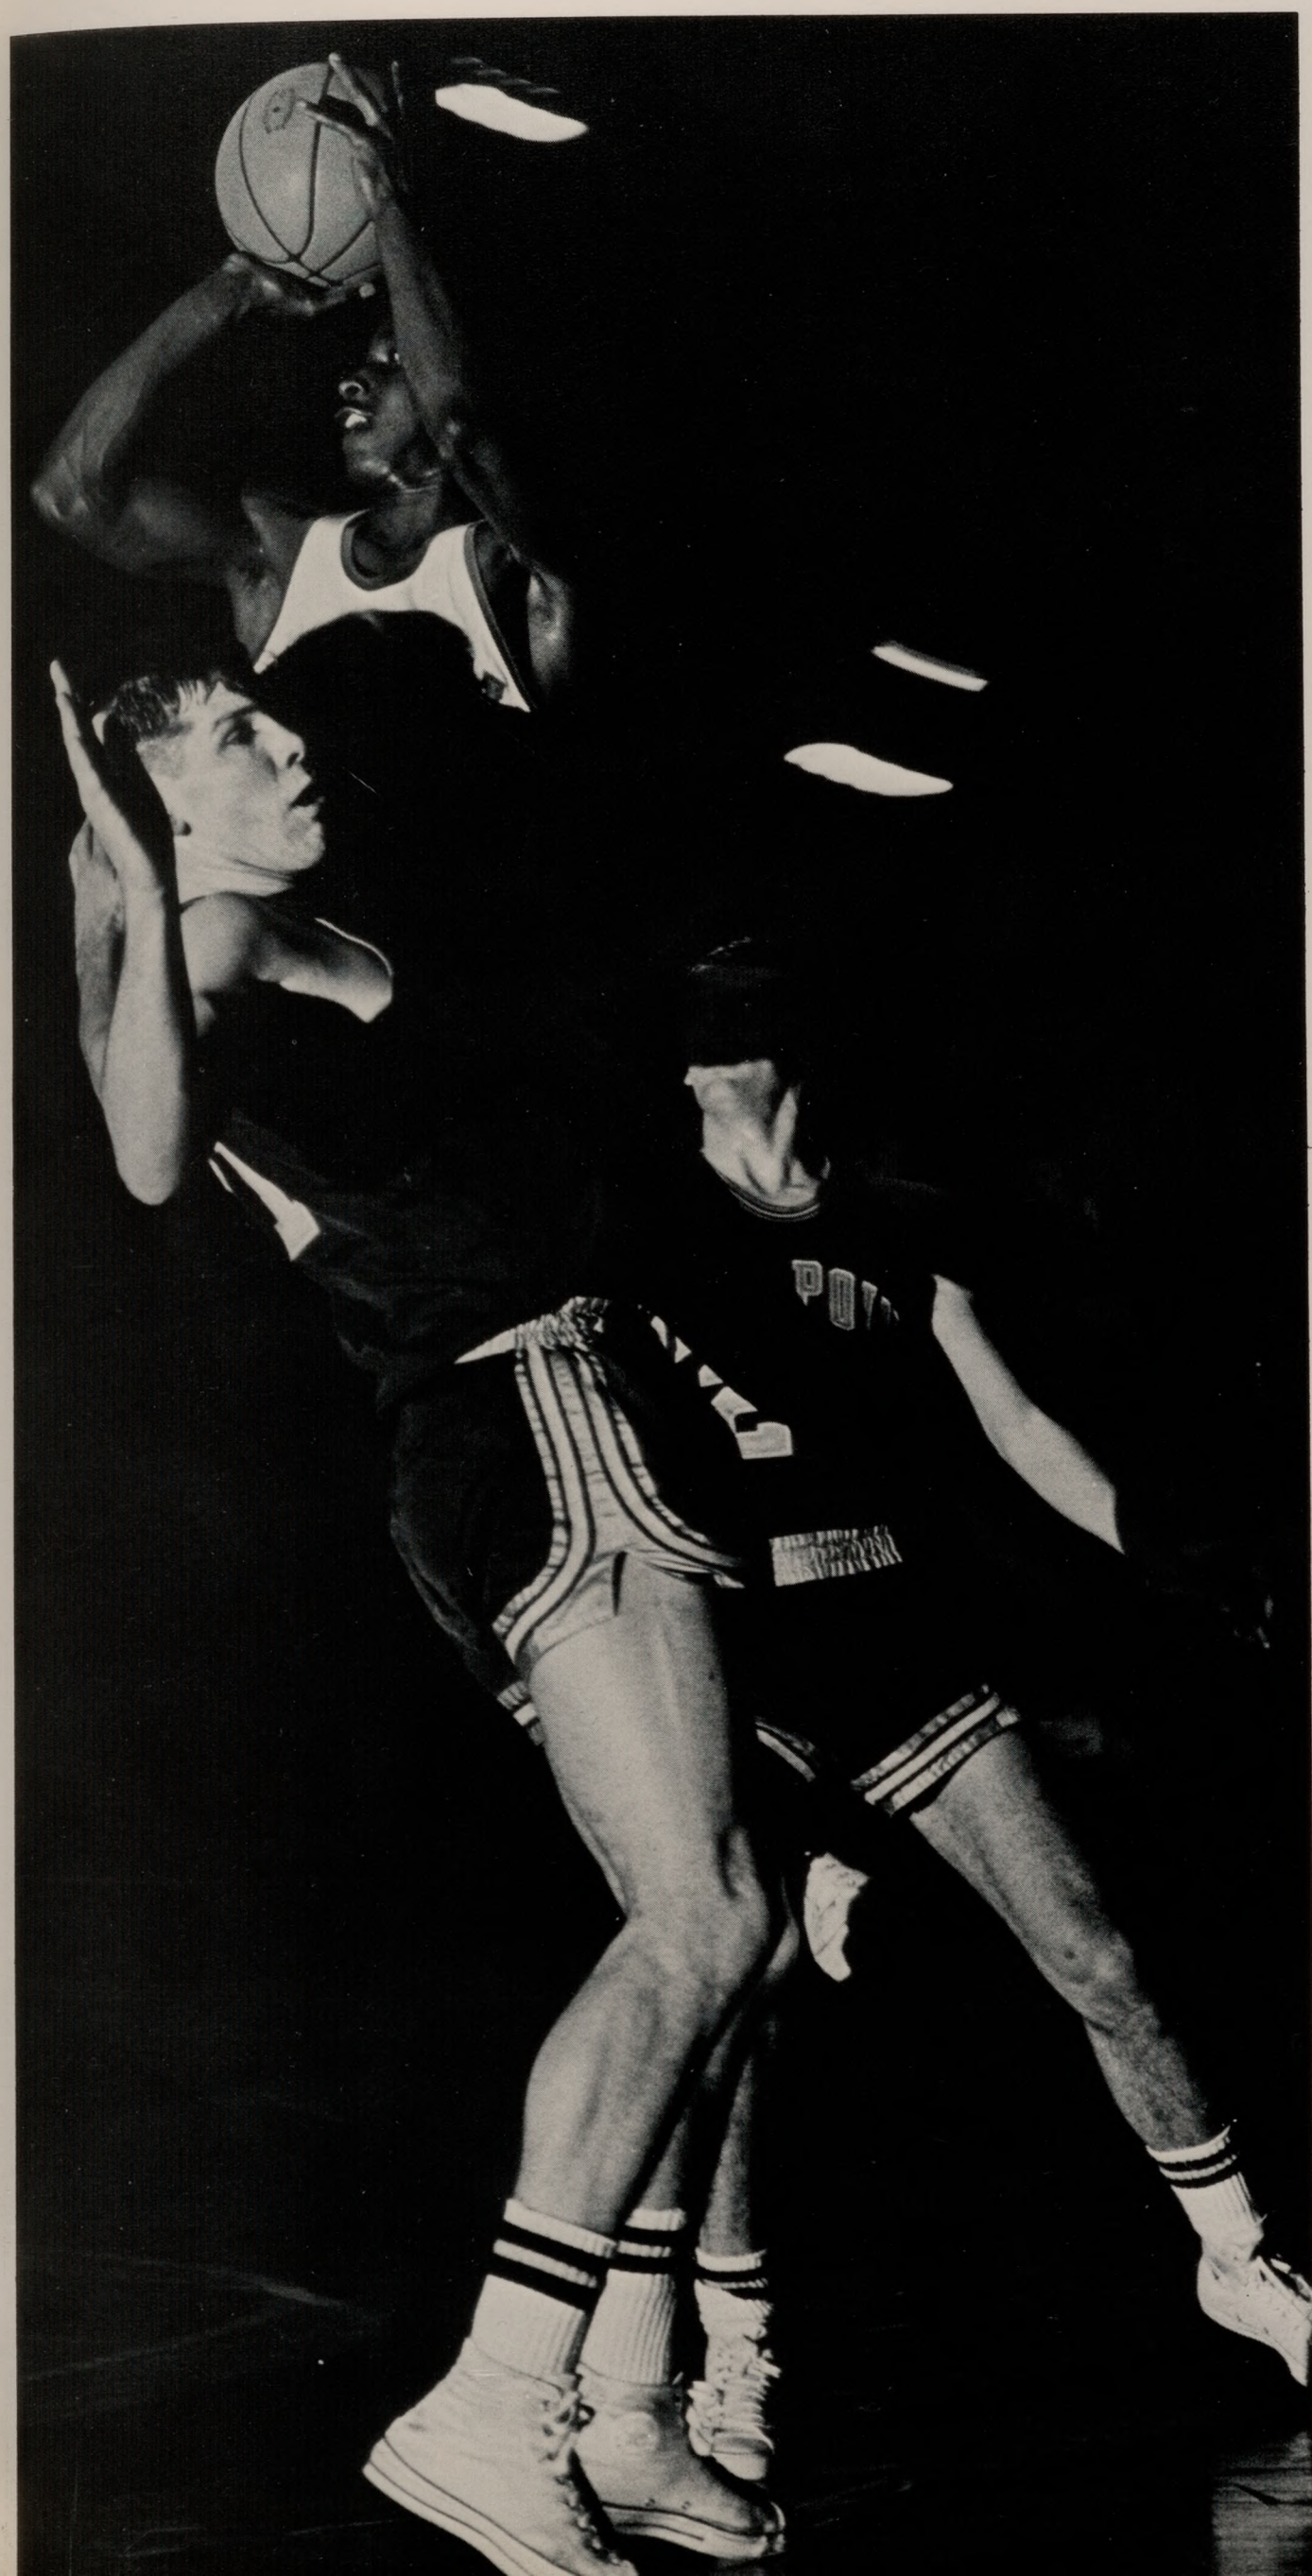

The going gets tough

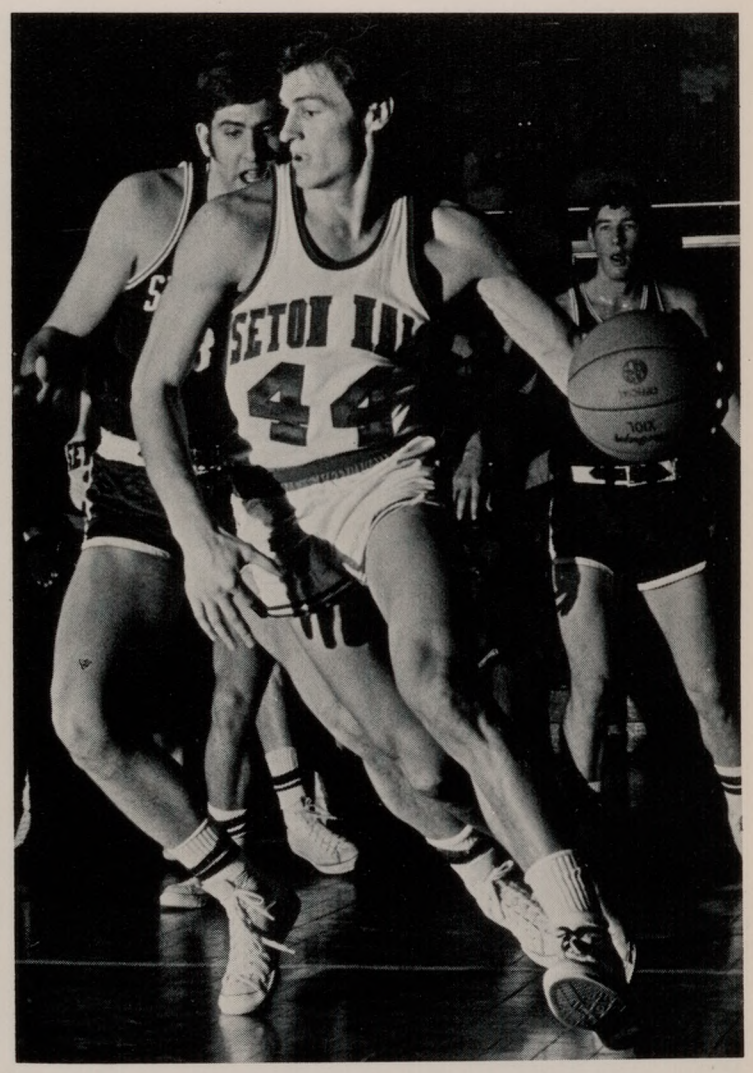

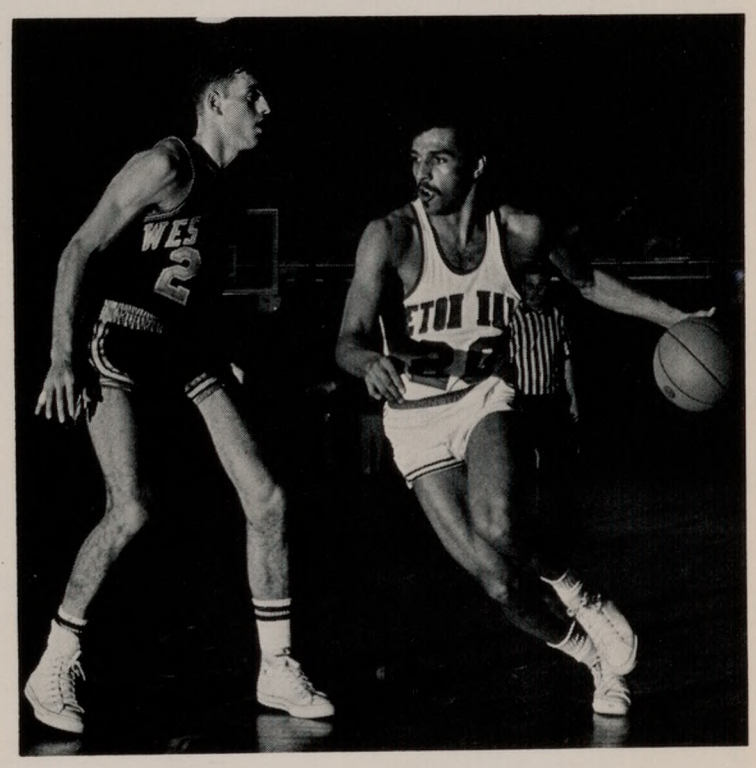

It was evident early that the shots weren't coming easy. Cortes, Knight and Cavallo performed their airborne acrobatics. Sometimes the ball went in, but as the season wore on, more often it didn't.

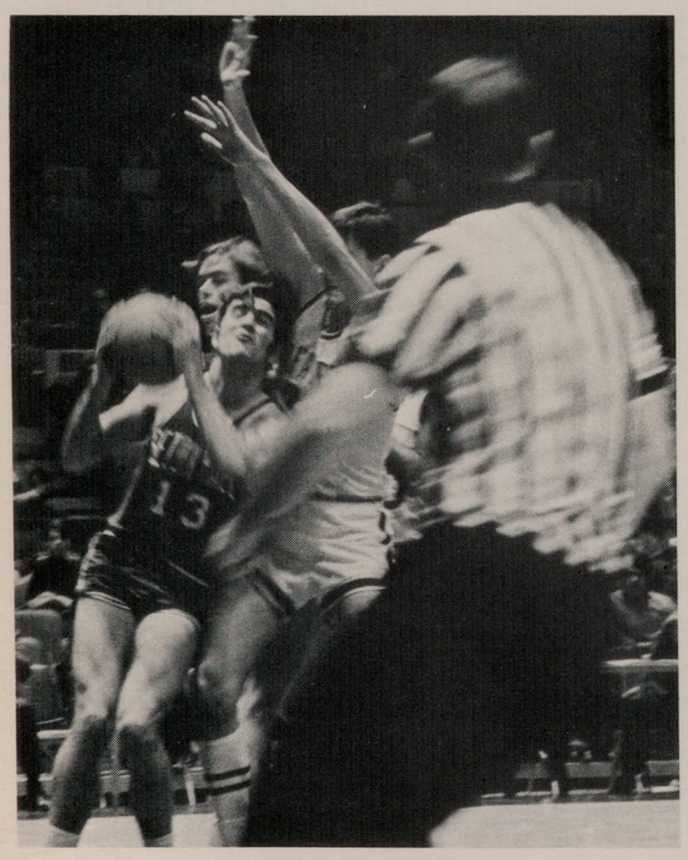

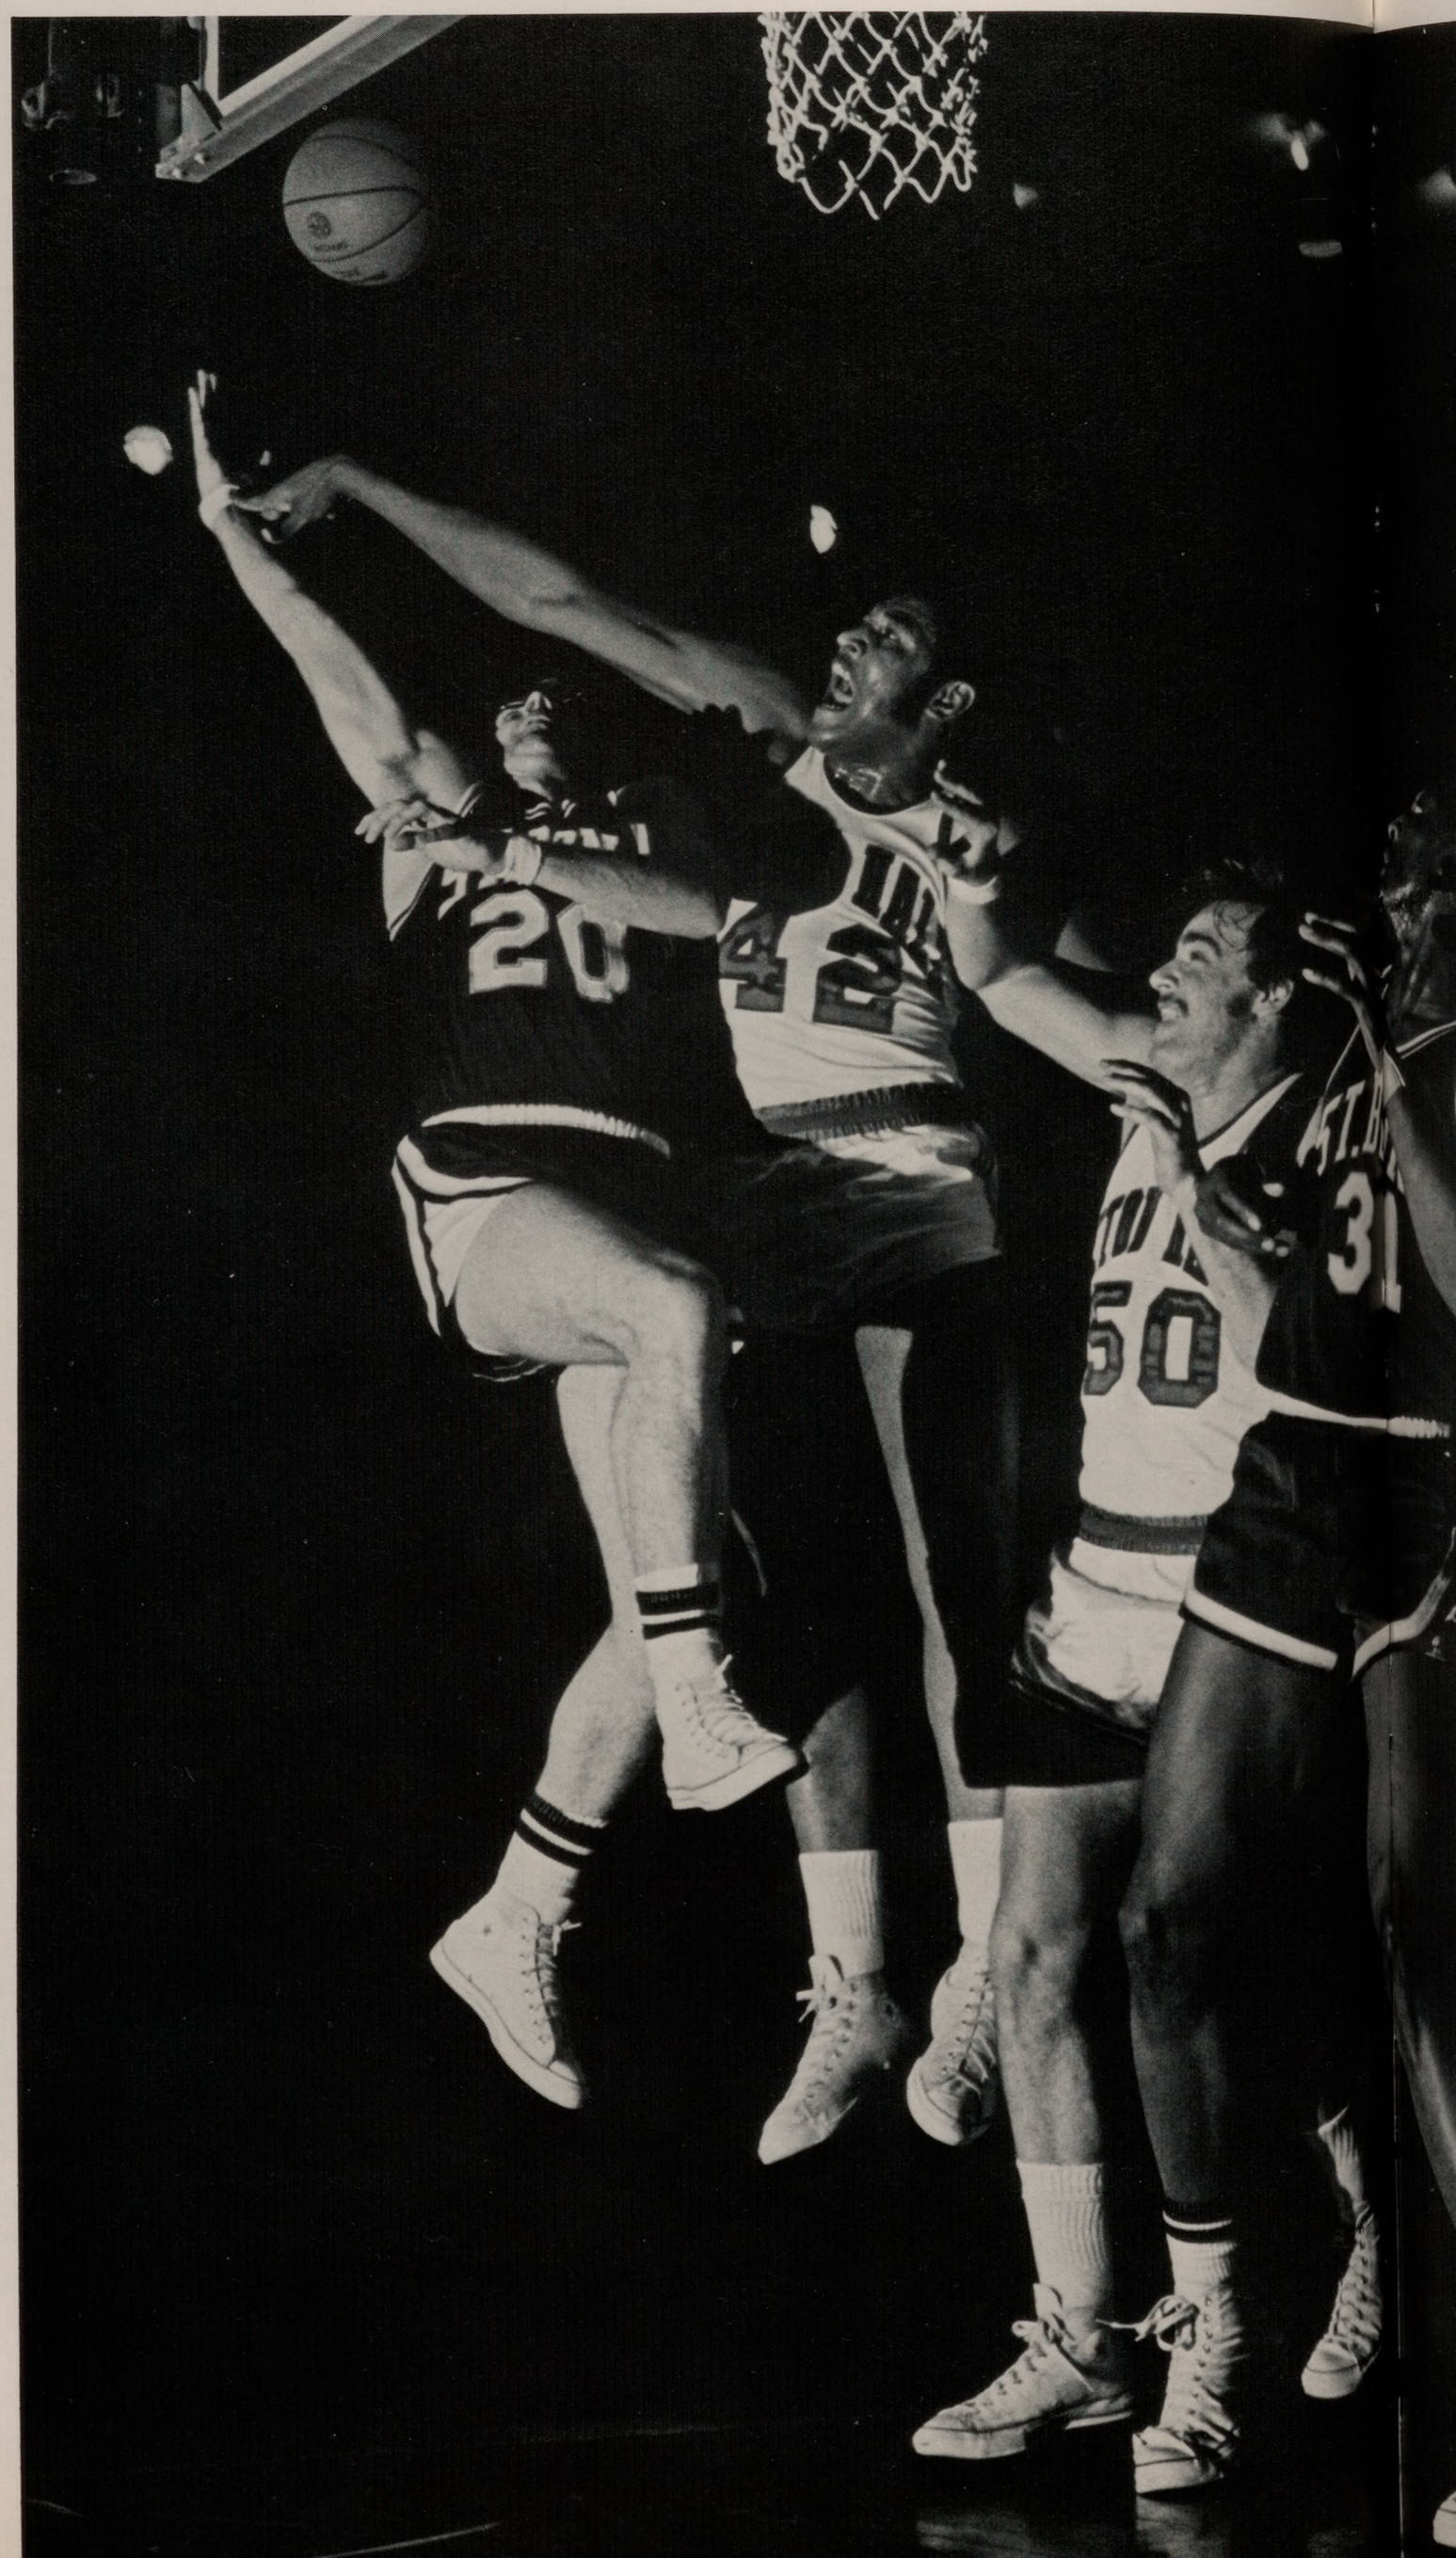

The merciless schedule pitted the Bucs against one big strong foe after another. Knight tried to rise above the taller timber. Ron Wood and Cortes, two of the Hall's five sophomores, were forced to gain experience while in the thick of battle.

The subtleties of a non-contact sport

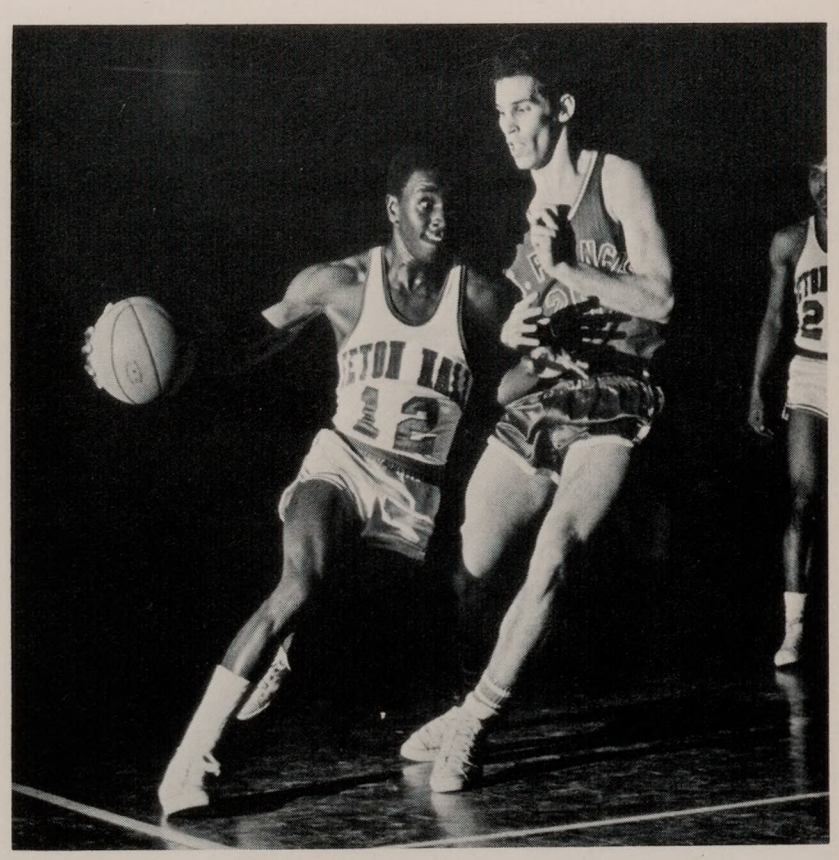

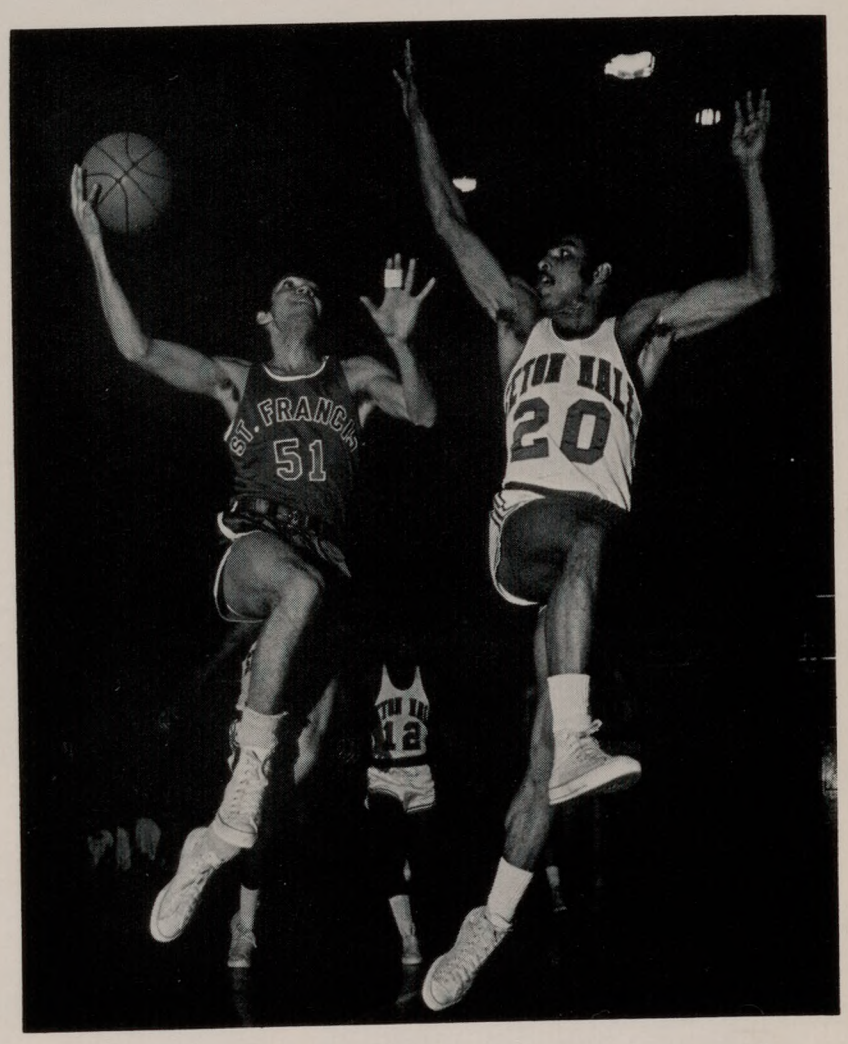

The strain towards excellence does not always bring a tangible reward. Board play usually meant agony for the mismatched Pirates.

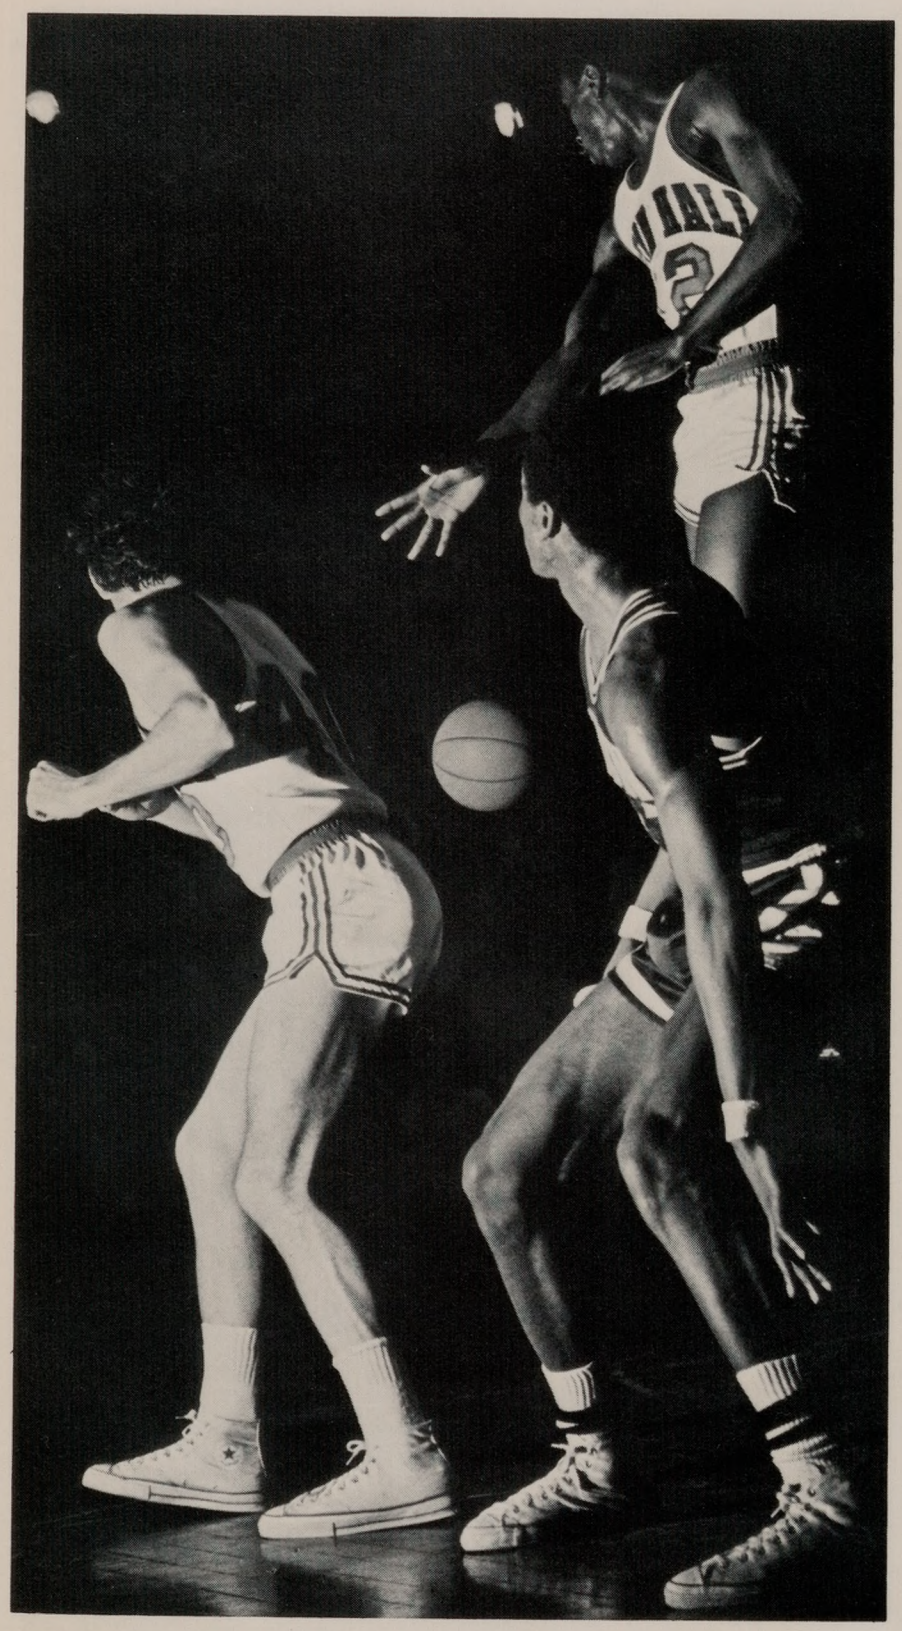

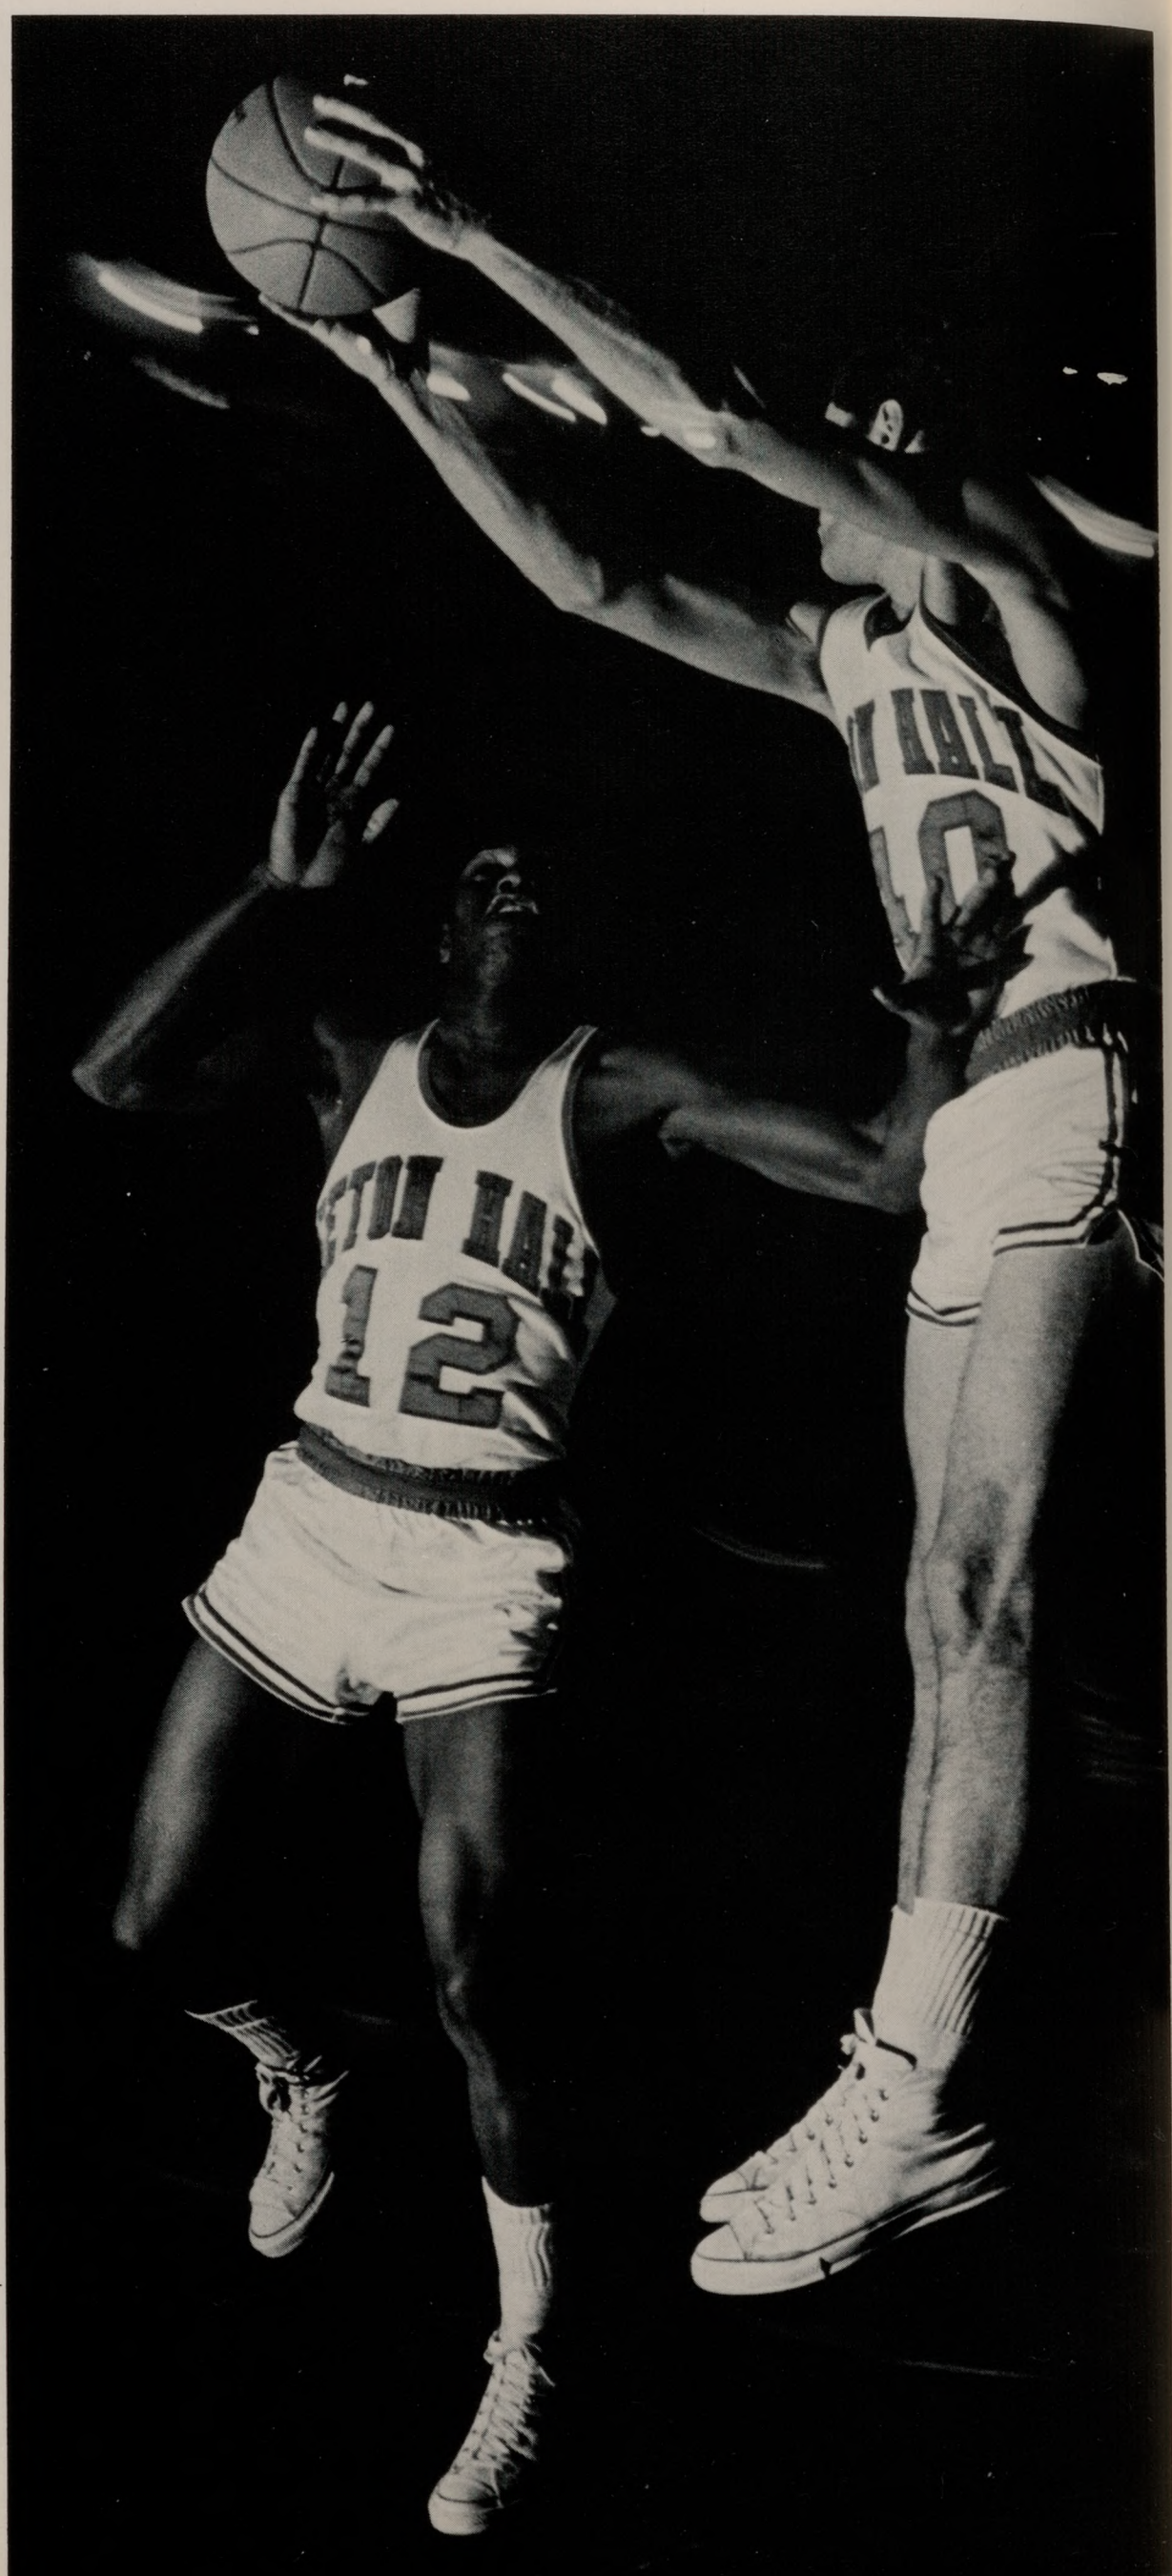

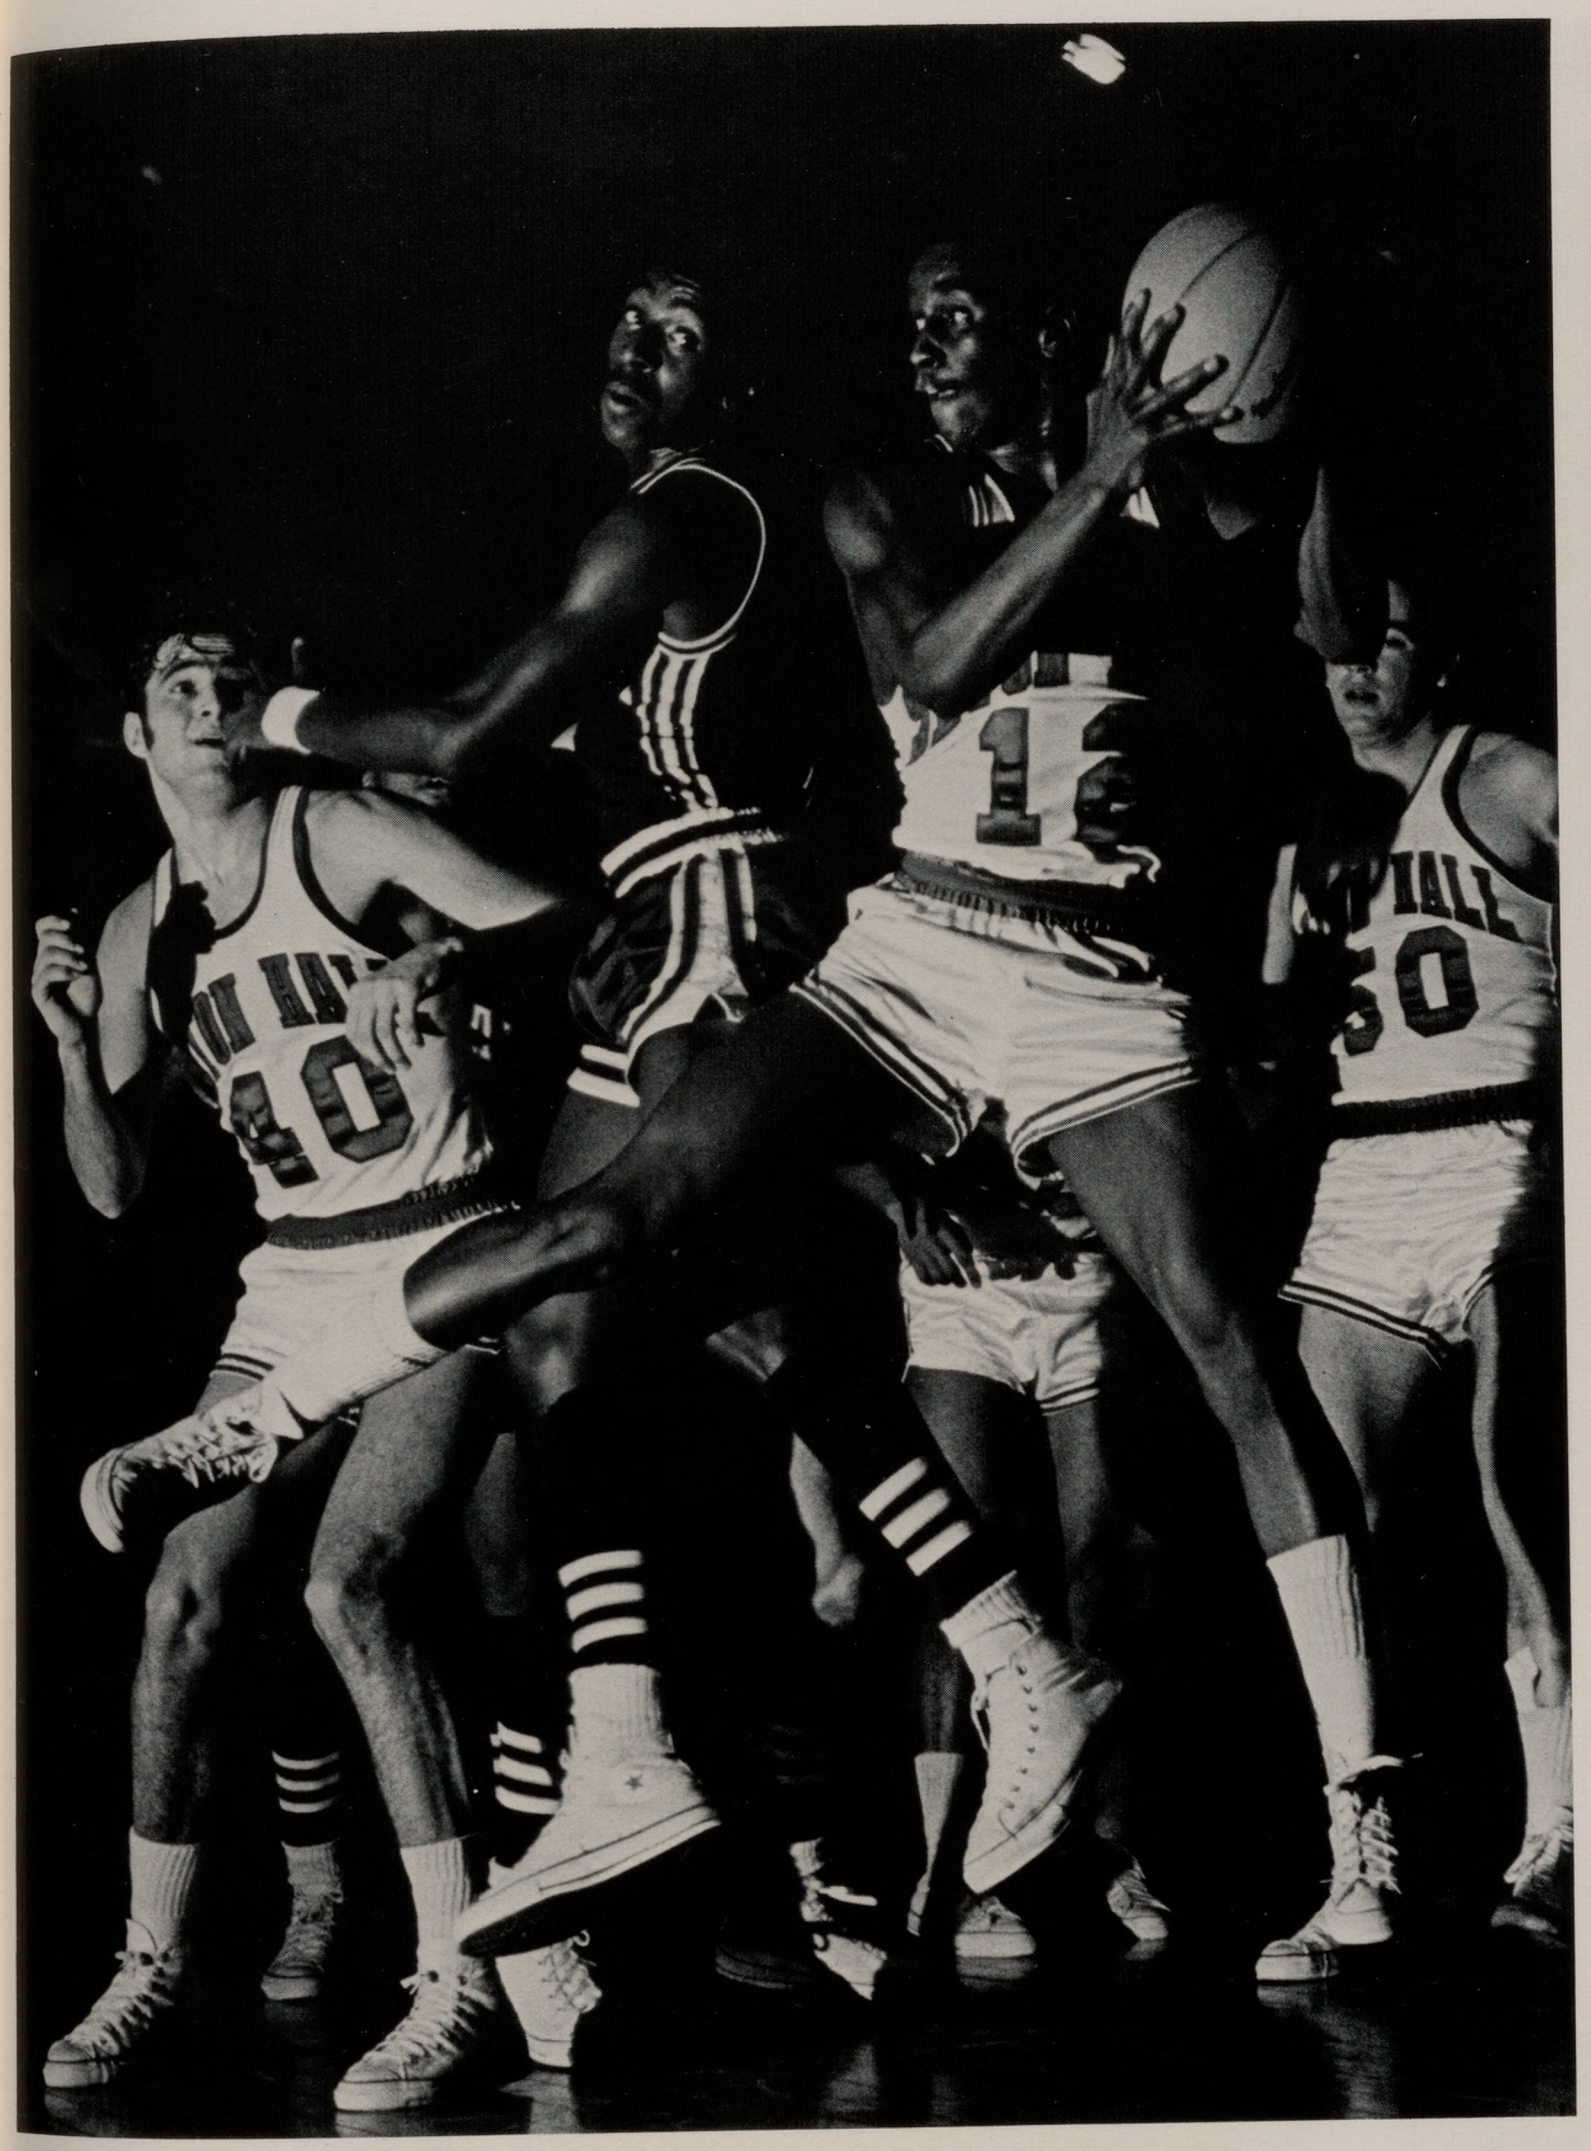

Behind in the odds, the Pirates were forced to capitalize on every edge they could gain. A half-step on his defender gains Knight a driving two-pointer. Moss, a 6-1 senior, added rebounding strength with his cagey infighting. A graceful leap by Cortes ended in a tangled heap in the photographer's lap.

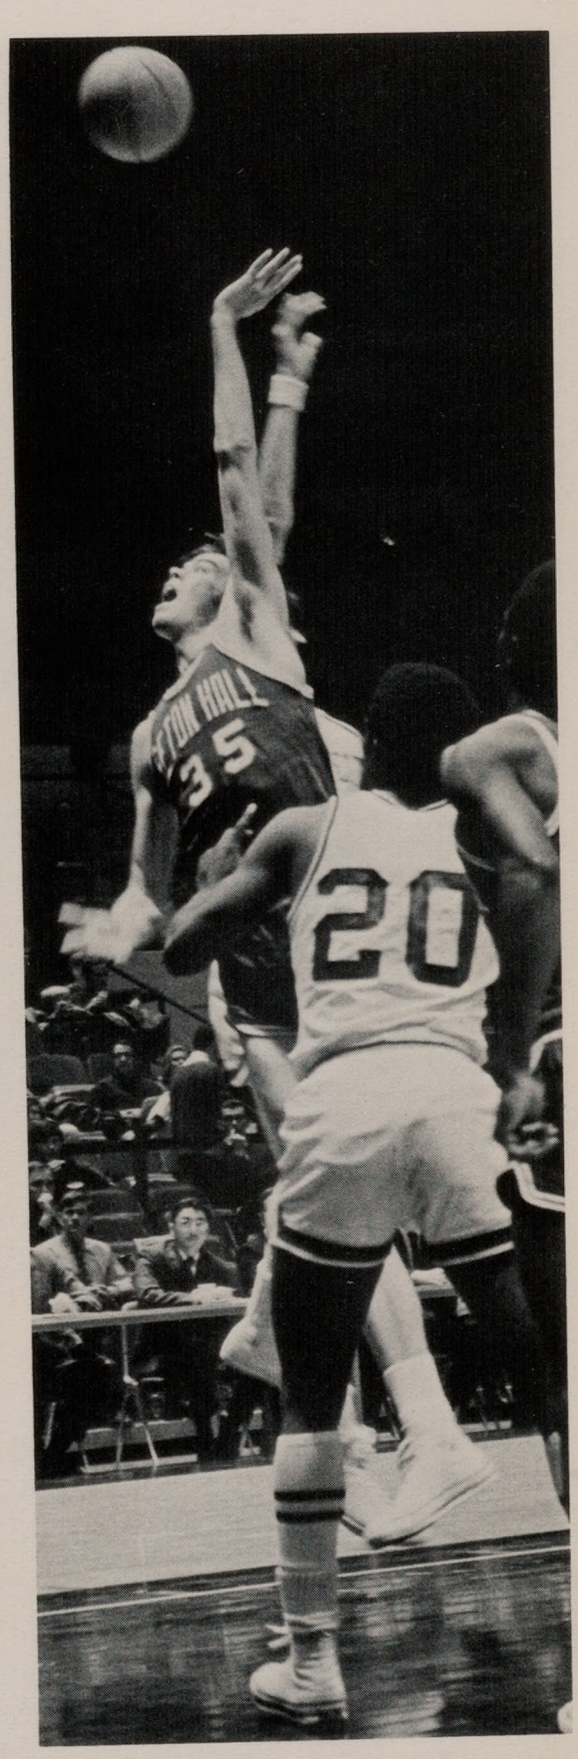

Catch it, if you can.

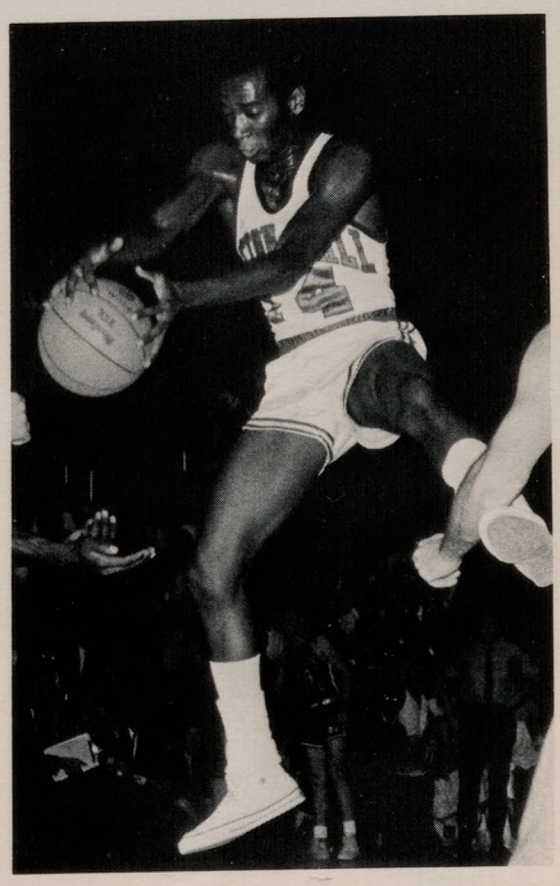

Goals in basketball, both long-range and immediate, are temptingly attainable, yet deceptively elusive.

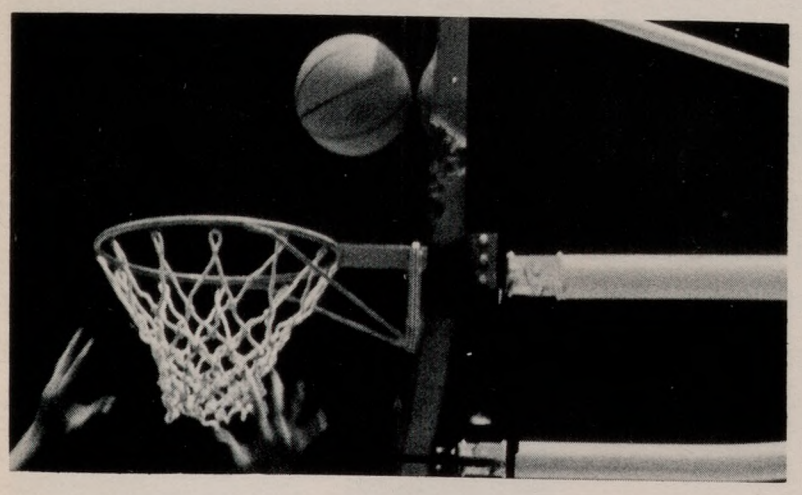

The flight of the ball is retraced by the flight of the man pursuing. Knight and Moss snag a loose ball. Chris Zier follows the arc of his hook shot.

The hold of the past

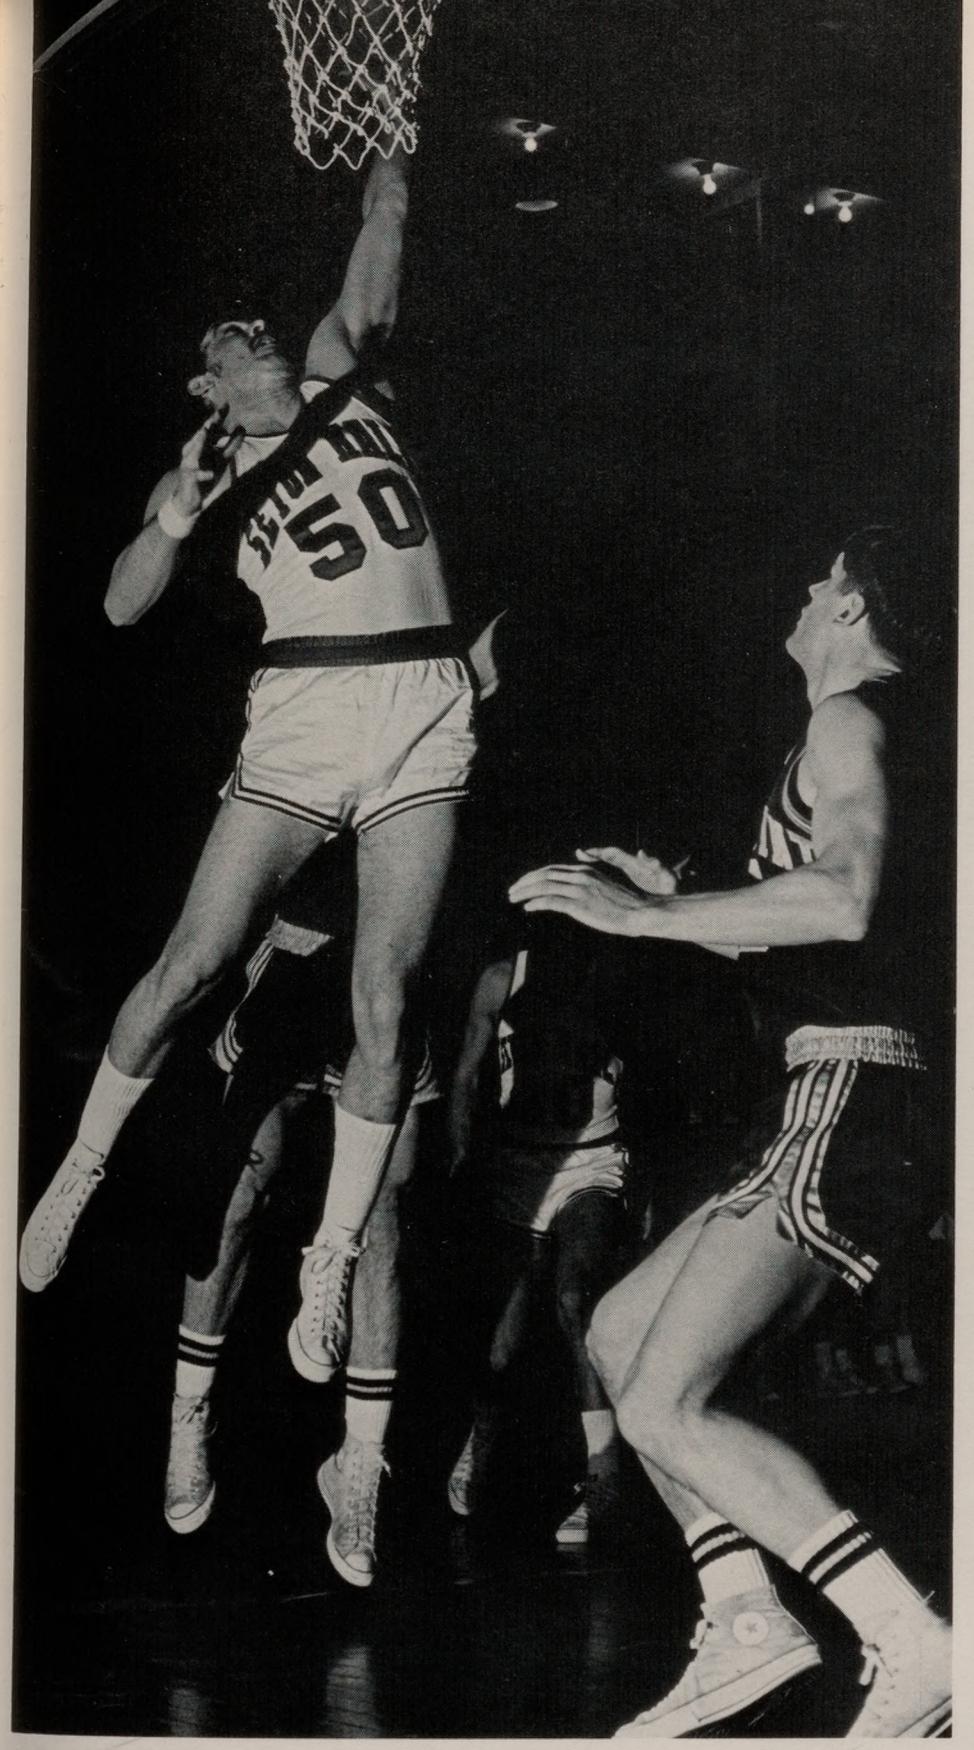

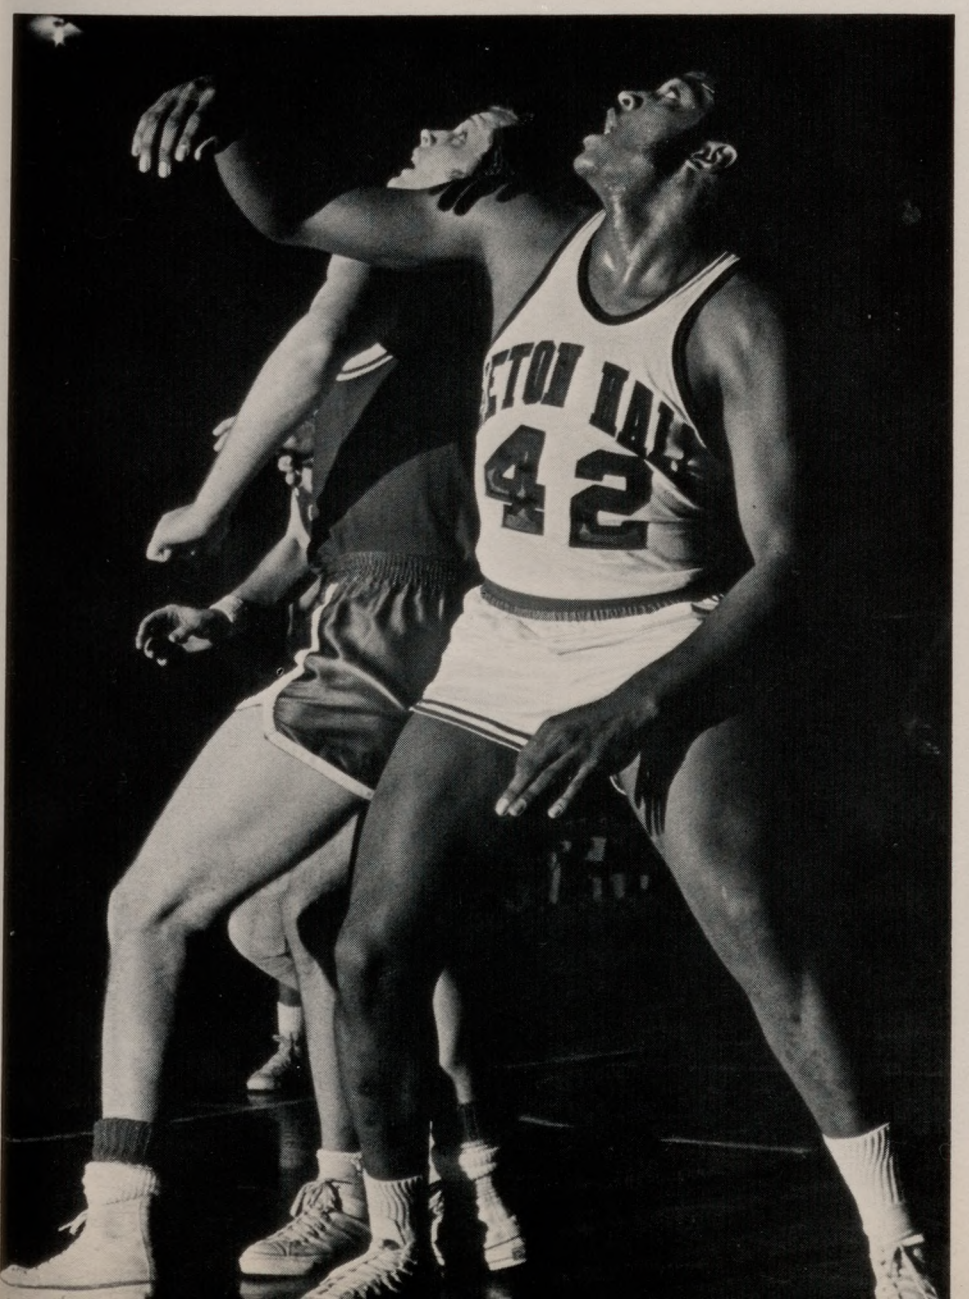

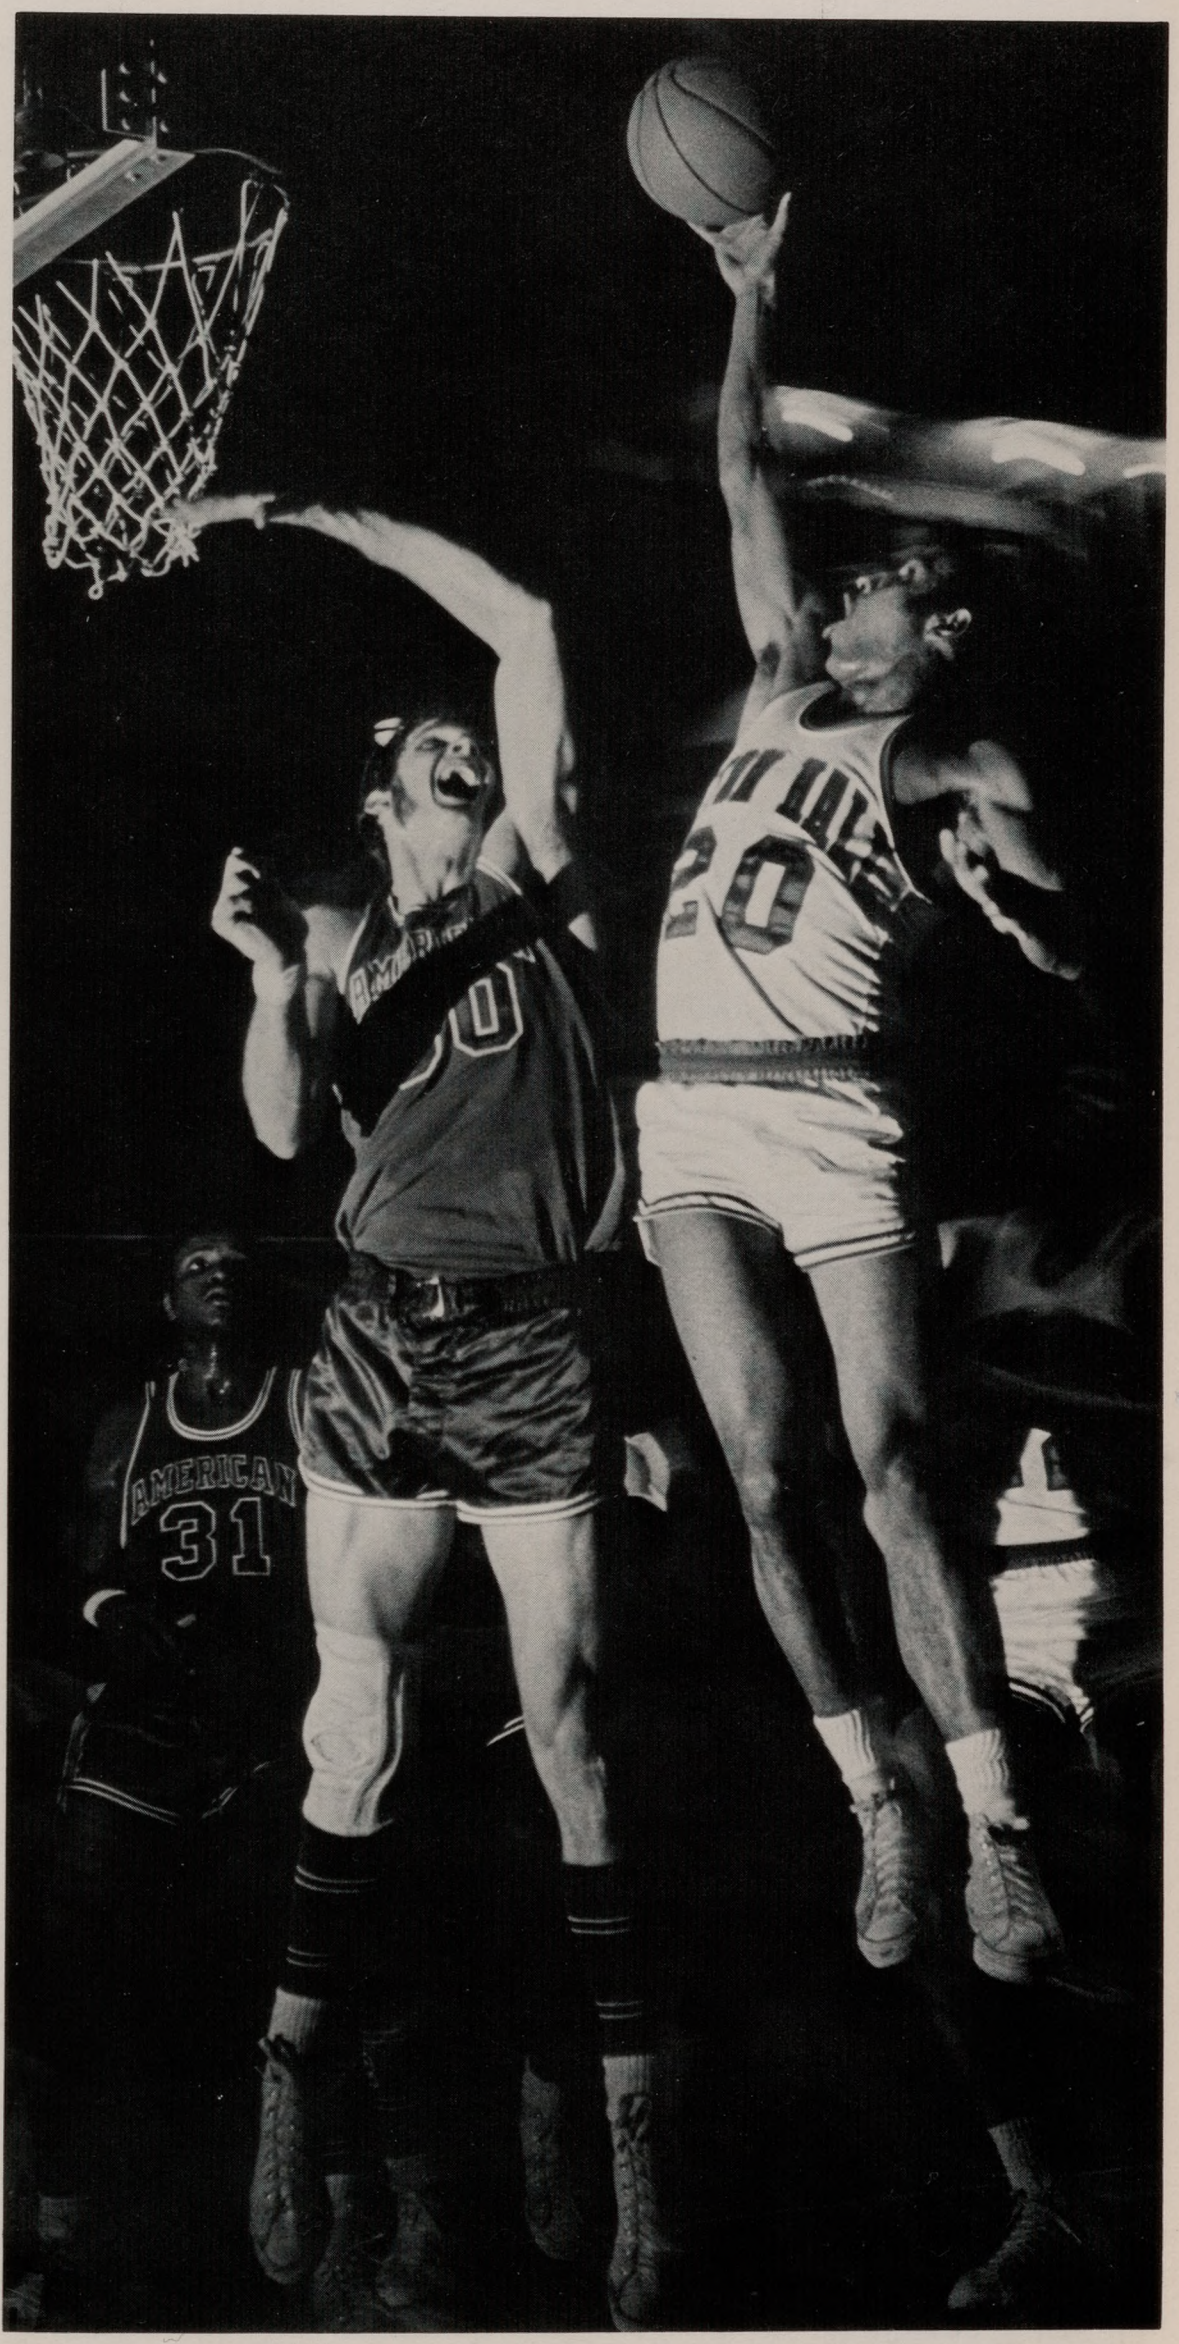

Every move by a player and every bounce of the ball, in this and nine previous seasons, led, however minutely, to Richie Regan's decision of resign.

The hope for the future

Regan's legacy to his successor is a team barely touched by graduation. Bill McCrea, a junior, and Cortes, a sophomore, should contribute heavily in games to come. Ken House, however, shines brightest on the Hall's horizon. House started his first varsity season strong and looked better and better as time went on.

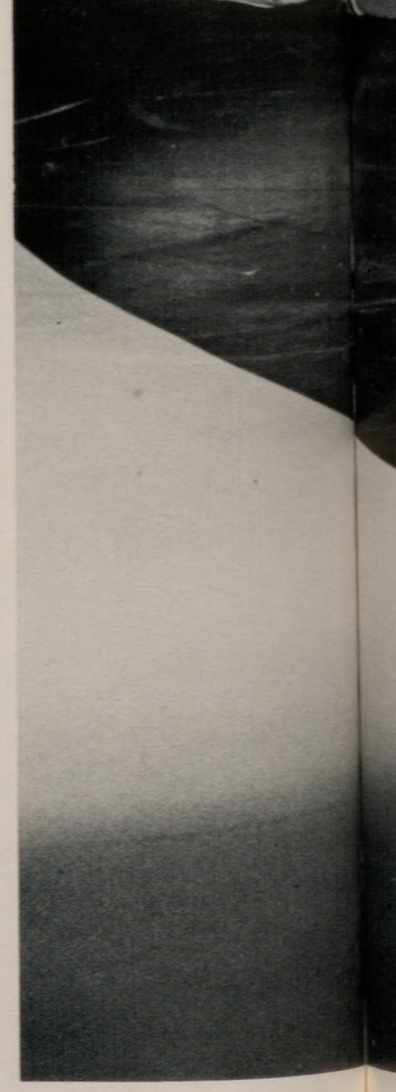

WRESTLING

Pirate wrestlers fought their way to a .500 season, the first step on their road to the top.

Ernie Summers piles up riding time in a match in Walsh Auditorium.

BASEBALL

Jack Donovan hurled an opening day win against Providence.

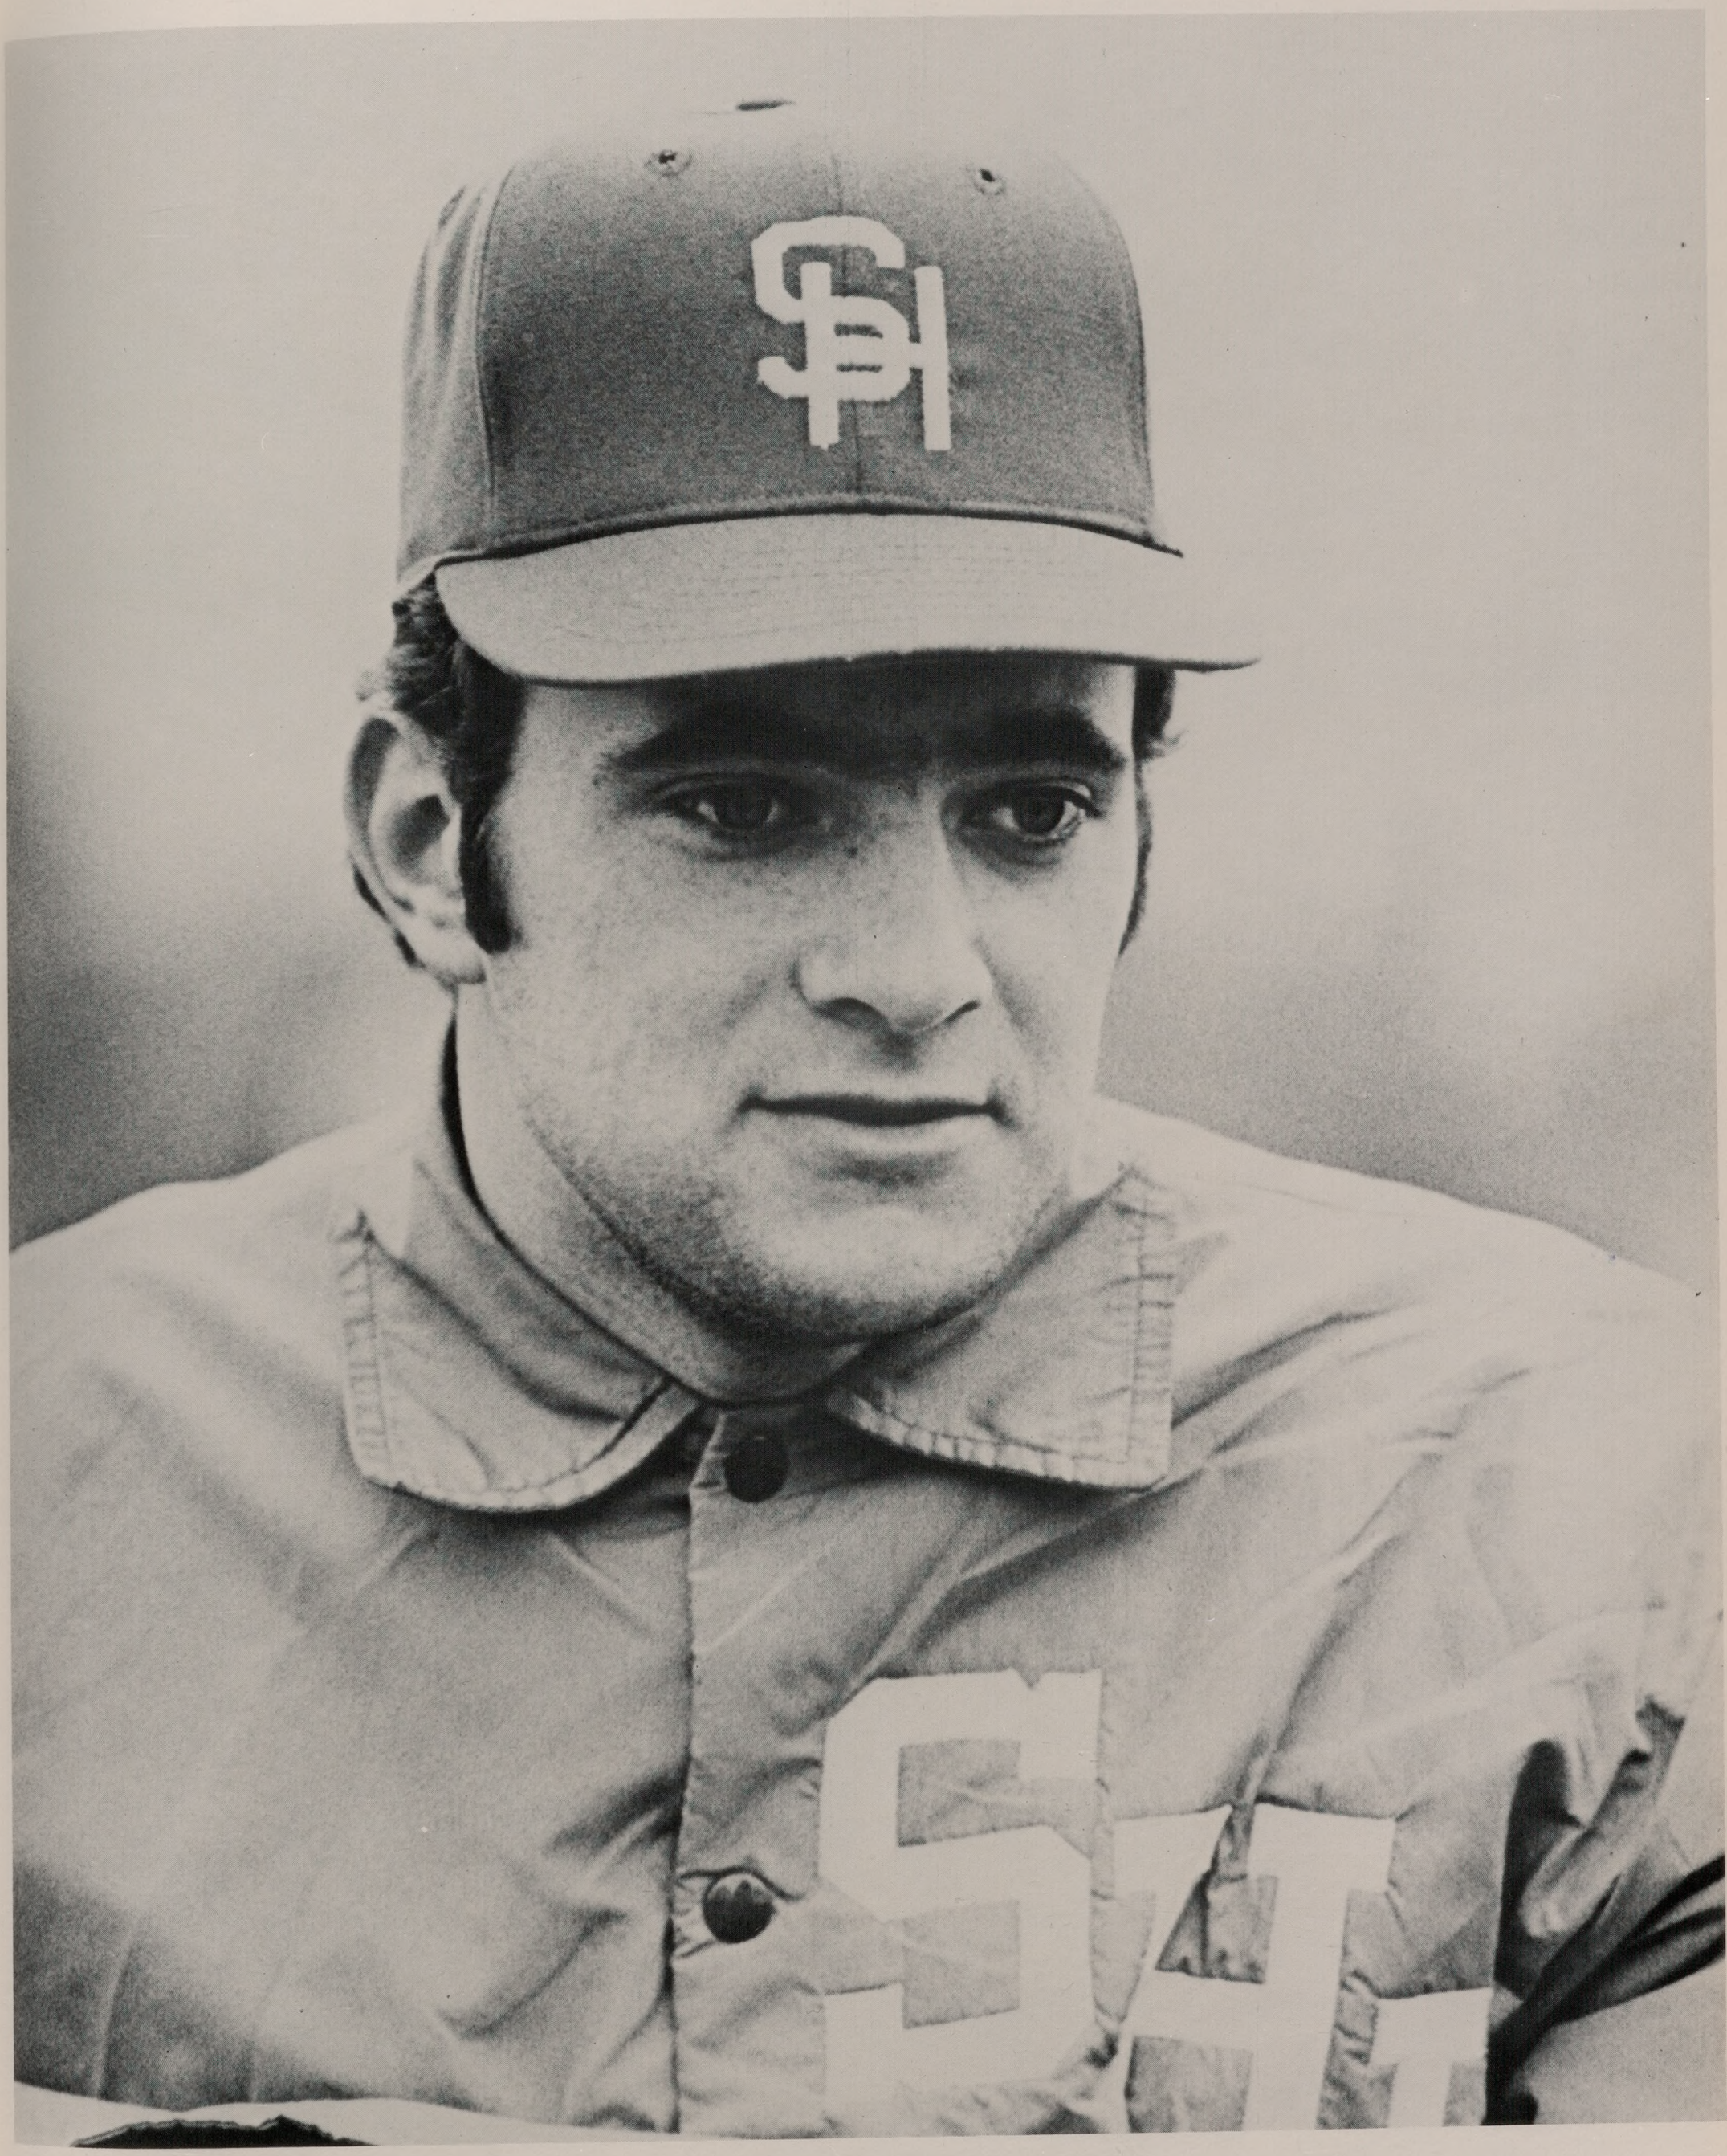

Mother Nature's early spring "blizzard" only postponed the Pirates' assault on another NCAA Tournament bid. Already strong in pitching, the Bucs looked for some added punch at the plate.

Gary Cavallo looked to improve on a fine sophomore record.

Pirates

Pirates

In one of last year's most exciting plays, Donovan tagged this Wagner runner out at the plate. Upon rising, the runner was heard to mumble something about getting the number of a truck.

"Well, a face is a face, and every face tells a little of the story of the man to whom it belongs."

—Saroyan

We see hundreds of faces every day but we don't really look at them. Although the faces here are captured in an instant of time, they represent to us a glimpse of our past, a look at our present and a clue to our future.
